ASK $130,000,000 FOR WAR ORPHANS BEREFT IN FRANCE

Americans Organize World's Greatest Philanthropy as Mark of Gratitude.

200,000 CHILDREN IN NEED

Plan for 15 Years' Work Till All Made Fatherless in Conflict Are Self-Supporting.

NOTABLE MEN GIVE SUPPORT

Plea Cites Aid Given to America by France and Her Aims in Present War.

Philanthropy on the biggest scale the world has ever known, an undertaking to care for the hundreds of thousands of orphaned children of French soldiers until they shall be capable of self-support, came into being in this city yesterday, when a group of men of national prominence organized the American Society for the Relief of French War Orphans and announced that they would raise a fund of $130,000,000. Not one cent of this fund will be employed for operating expenses, and every dollar will be devoted to the support of helpless children. The photographs and histories of more than 200,000 of these orphans have already been obtained.

The society is to be the practical expression of America's gratitude to France for her aid in the founding of this Republic at the time of the American Revolution, and of this country's sympathy for the suffering that war has brought on France.

Already the organizers of the enterprise have subscribed more than $125,000 for the expenses of the first two years, and have pledged themselves to provide the expenses of operation as long as may be necessary through the fifteen years for which the society has been incorporated. The Directors met yesterday afternoon, after a luncheon at the Downtown Association, and, with these details provided for, made public their plans for conducting such a charitable enterprise as never before had been undertaken.

Many Notable Men on List.

These men have accepted posts as officers and Directors of the society:

Honorary Vice Presidents—Edward Douglass White, Chief Justice of the United States; Cardinal Farley, Bishop David H. Greer, Robert Bacon, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University; Dr. John Grier Hibben, President of Princeton University; Dr. John H. Finley, Commissioner of Education of the State of New York; President—William D. Guthrie; Vice Presidents—James Stillman, J. Pierpont Morgan, and Ambrose Monell; Treasurer—Thomas Cochran; Secretary—Snowden A. Fahnestock; General Manager—Clyde A. Pratt, Executive Secretary of the War Relief Clearing House; Directors—George F. Baker, Jr., Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., James M. Beck, S. Reading Bertron, James Byrne, Thomas L. Chadbourne, Jr., Thomas Cochran, R. Fulton Cutting, Charles Stewart Davison, Eugene Delano, Daniel Guggenheim, William D. Guthrie, Alexander J. Hemphill, Adrian Iselin, George Grant Mason, Charles T. Mathews, Ambrose Monell, Victor Morawetz, Dwight W. Morrow, J. P. Morgan, Otis A. Mygatt, Seward Prosser, Percy A. Rockefeller, Sylvanus L. Schoonmaker, John W. Simpson, Charles Steele, James Stillman, Dr. Lewis A. Stimson, Willard D. Straight, Henry M. Tilford, Edward Tuck, Frank A. Vanderlip, George W. Wickersham, and Albert H. Wiggin.

The society has come into existence with more than 100 members. It is to have a nation-wide membership, with headquarters in New York and branches throughout the United States. The country is to be organized thoroughly, State by State. The offices of the society at present are at 44 Wall Street.

Will Have Paris Committee.

The work will be directed from this country, but there will be a Paris committee of seven members, and work will be done to some extent through, or in co-operation with, organizations already in existence in France. Members of the committee who make their homes in Paris will be on this committee. Three of the seven will be James Stillman, Edward Tuck, and Otis Mygatt. They will oversee the distribution of the fund. The activities of the society will be made as little bureaucratic and as personal as possible. Officials will get into direct communication with the children or those persons entitled to represent them, and records of each case will be kept.

The enterprise was conceived in early Summer and its creators drew up such a prospectus as would be provided for the launching of a business. This was modified as developments required, and yesterday the following plan of organization was adopted by the Directors and made public:

"A charitable society has been incorporated under the laws of the State of New York with the name of the American Society for the Relief of French War Orphans, as a membership corporation, that is, a corporation without capital stock.

"The duration of the corporation has been fixed at fifteen years, as it is contemplated that the necessity for this charity will continue for a number of years after the close of the present war.

"The objects which the society has been organized to accomplish are (1) the raising by voluntary contributions of funds for the aid and relief of needy French children whose fathers have lost their lives as a result of the present war; (2) the systematizing and centralizing of the collection of funds in America for this purpose, and (3) the effective and beneficent distribution thereof in France.

200,000 Already Need Help.

"It is reported that there are already in France at least 200,000 children in need of help, besides a large number of incapacitated soldiers whose families are in want. The State allowance for destitute orphan children is, in most instances, insufficient for their proper mantenance. The daily burden of direct war expenses borne by the French Government is stupendous, and will long preclude the possibility of adequate aid to war orphans and the families of dead and incapacitated soldiers. Americans must help if great destitution and suffering are to be relieved.

"The number of directors is thirty-four, which will be later increased to forty. There will be an Executive Committee of the Board of Directors, con-

Woman a Lieutenant On German Warship

GENEVA, Oct. 13, (via Paris.)—A woman has been commissioned by the Government of Württemberg as second in command of a small gunboat on Lake Constance which is employed in guard duty at Friedrichshafer, where the Zeppelin works are located. She has received the rank and uniform of a Lieutenant.

Women employed on South German railways, according to a new order, must wear nuiforms, consisting in part of loose trousers and gaiters.

LIFT MILK EMBARGO AGAINST 'BIG THREE'

BORDEN'S STILL STAYS OUT

Terms Which Lift Deadlock on City's Supply Followed Ousting of Head of Dairymen's League.

After a conference lasting about five hours last night between Commissioner John J. Dillon and the members of the Executive Committee of the Dairymen's League on one side and nineteen of the milk dealers, including the Sheffield Farms-Slawson-Decker Co., the R. F. Stevens Co., Mutual-McDermott Co. and others, an agreement was reached by which milk is to be released to these dealers at once.

The milk is expected to reach New York by Monday morning.

The agreement calls for the same terms as signed by the small dealers of the city. These are a six-months' contract at the league price of 45 cents per hundred pounds, an advance of approximately a cent a quart, with the proviso that in January, February, and March a committee is to inquire into the cost of production, distribution, and general market conditions and fix a price equitable and fair to both parties.

All of the big distributers, with the exception of the Borden Company, were represented at the conference. It was said, however, that that company also would meet the terms of settlement.

Having settled the differences in their own organization by overthrowing President Brill, the spokesmen for the Dairymen seemed to be in a more conciliatory mood last night. They admitted that many farmers were losing heavily as a result of the fight, which had kept more than 10,000,000 quarts of milk out of the city. A considerable part of this loss had fallen on the farmers, it was said yesterday.

John J. Dillon, State Commissioner of Foods and Markets, spokesman for the league, said last night that its members were anxious to have all distributers deal with them, and that they would now be glad to meet the big distributers and discuss the situation with them. The Borden Company issued a statement in which it said that it didn't oppose the organization of the farmers but doubted its legal standing, a matter which was now being investigated by the courts.

"If the league is a legal corporation, there is no legal reason why we should not deal with it," the statement read. It further said that the company would welcome an opportunity to deal with a farmers' organization if it was sanctioned by law.

Despite the deadlock, more small distributers are accepting the league's terms daily, and the supply of milk to reach the city has increased steadily in the last week. Sixty-six per cent. of the normal supply of 2,400,000 quarts was received yesterday.

As a result of the trouble the city has received 10,980,000 quarts of milk less than normal since Oct. 3, according to statistics gathered by Dr. L. P. Brown, head of the Foods and Drugs Department of the Board of Health. It was estimated that the loss to the farmers had been $505,080. Part of this, however, was made up by turning more milk into butter and cheese. It was also estimated that the milk kept from the city would have netted the distributers $1,043,100. The expense to the big distributers of gathering milk from distant sources is said to have made the total loss to them much greater.

The following table, prepared from Health Department records, shows the extent to which the farmers' organization has affected the city's milk supply in its first fight for more money:

	Percentage of Normal Supply Received.	Shortage in Quarts.
Oct. 3	42	1,160,000
Oct. 4	40	1,200,000
Oct. 5	40	1,200,000
Oct. 6	38	1,240,000
Oct. 7	43	1,140,000
Oct. 8	45	1,100,000
Oct. 9	56	880,000
Oct. 10	58	840,000
Oct. 11	60	800,000
Oct. 12	63	740,000
Oct. 13	66	680,000
		10,980,000

Dr. Brown's figures were based on an estimate of 2,000,000 quarts as the average daily consumption, the remaining 400,000 quarts shipped to the city each day going into the manufacture of evaporated milk.

The fight between former President Brill and the Executive Committee, which has been supporting Commissioner Dillon, has resulted in great confusion among members of the league, and mass meetings are being planned by the Executive Committee to "explain the fight" to them. The first was held last night at Millerton, Dutchess County, and Frank Sherman of the Executive Committee spoke.

Commissioner Dillon will address a mass meeting tonight at Pawling, Dutchess County, which is near his home. Another speaker at this meeting will be R. D. Cooper, Chairman of the Executive Committee and Acting President since the overthrow of President Brill.

Members of the Executive Committee commenting yesterday on the dispatch from Poughkeepsie quoting President Brill as saying that he would not resign but would fight the committee, said they didn't care what action he tried to take, and that the action of the Directors in ousting him had made him powerless and delegated his authority to Mr. Cooper.

While no one connected with the Attorney General's investigation into the milk situation would make the comment for publication, it has been hinted that political considerations made it undesirable to decide before the election whether or not the farmers' organization has violated the Donnelly Anti-monopoly act.

BAYONNE STRIKE BROKEN BY POLICE

City Calls Mass Meeting of the Strikers to Warn Them That Workers Will Be Protected.

OIL PLANTS TO REOPEN

HOMES SEARCHED FOR ARMS

Twenty-seven Attempts Made Since Strike Began to Set Fire to Standard Oil Plant.

Police authority prevailed over mob force in Bayonne, N. J., yesterday, though one man who had defied the strikers of the Standard Oil Company and other plants in the Constable Hook section of the city was murdered and another was wounded. But the absence of opposition when the police repeated their raid of Thursday night, searching houses for weapons, and making ten arrests, convinced the city that violence was nearing an end, and Commissioner of Public Safety Henry Wilson arranged at once for a monster mass meeting of strikers and others whom the closing of plants has forced out of work, to be held this morning.

The meeting will be on what are known as "The Flats," a big open space, in the heart of the strike zone. Mr. Wilson will address the men and will tell them that the strike has been broken, that they may return to work if they wish and settle their differences with their employers in an orderly manner, and that they will receive police protection. He will warn the strikers that the raids of Thursday and yesterday by the police will be repeated daily, that the strike will be kept from violence by the severest measures, and that they can expect no rest from the police unless they elect to return to work, or, at least, to refrain from interference with others.

Has the Strike Broken.

"We've got this strike broken, and we'll keep it broken," said Mr. Wilson last night. "If the men are wise they will accept the chance I have gained for them."

He referred to arrangements which he completed last night with George B. Hennessey, manager of the Standard Oil plant, under which Mr. Hennessey agreed to receive the strikers back at work.

The strike began with the refusal of the company to comply with demands that it increase by 30 per cent. the wages of men receiving less than $3 a day, and by 20 per cent. the earnings of those getting more than this sum. The still cleaners were not included among the workers asking this, and last night they met, ninety-six of them, in Capitol Hall and voted unanimously to return to work provided only that some other branch of labor made the first move. They admitted they were afraid to lead the movement lest the strikers retaliate on their families.

Mr. Wilson immediately communicated with Mr. Hennessey, who said he would be glad to reopen his plant if he could be assured of police protection.

"I'll guarantee that," responded Mr. Wilson. "We are in entire control of the situation now."

So the oil man agreed to receive back any workers who would come, provided Mr. Wilson would see them safely to and from the plant, and then the Commissioner set to work on plans to bring others besides the still cleaners into line, realizing that the work of these men depended on that of others and that the plants could not be reopened unless representatives of all departments returned to work at once. He declared he was confident of the success of his mass meeting plan and equally confident that he could protect all workers, no matter what the actual strikers might determine to do.

Still Maintain Deadline.

Last night the familiar deadline was still maintained by the strikers, but they remained inside it, and squads of policemen in motor cars passed it at will, though policemen afoot still kept out of the district. There was no disorder outside the Hook and all that remained to remind Bayonne that men and women had been killed in the streets only a few hours before were the occasional reports as oil company guards fired to warn off trespassers, and the flashes of searchlights that played over the nearby streets from the roofs of the oil plants.

The murder, which came as a sort of last defiance before the mob yielded to the police, occurred in the morning in Broadway, a street several blocks removed from the strike zone. The victim was Jacob Grauf, a former United States soldier who, at his discharge four months ago, had gone to work for the General Chemical Company on the Hook. This company, when its men were kept from work by the deadline of the strikers, recently offered a bonus of $15 a week to any one who would brave the strikers and return to work.

Grauf, who lived at 89 West Nineteenth Street, outside the strike zone, immediately passed the deadline and circulated among strikers, declaring that he wouldn't be afraid to walk any street if he had a dozen good men with him, and searching out fellow-employes of the chemical company in quest of such men. He was warned, but persisted in his efforts to get men to return to work with him, and a bullet struck him in the back of the head as he emerged from a saloon in Broadway and started down the street. He was dead when he fell.

John Miller of 324 Trask Avenue got a bullet wound in the left hand when he ventured too close to the strike zone following Captain Edward Griffin and 137 policemen and deputies. These left Police Headquarters at 10 o'clock and again met Inspector Daniel Cady and his men from inside the dead line at Avenue F

German Potato Crop Worse Than Last Year, Batocki Admits in Reichstag Discussion

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—Yesterday's discussion in the Reichstag left no doubt that in its efforts to carry the war to a successful end Germany could rely on a sufficient supply of potatoes, besides munitions and silver bullets, and this seems to be of almost equal importance with the others.

Everybody sighed with relief when Dr. von Batocki, who has charge of the empire's pantry, made the statement that, while the harvest scantily fulfilled what the sowing time promised, there was enough for everybody until the new potatoes of 1917 should arrive.

That much Dr. von Batocki was certain of, but, much as he wished, he could not yet give any definite figures. If he had had them he would have done so, because it was no use keeping secret information that would reach the enemy anyway through his agents.

A crop of forty million tons had been mentioned during the dissension, but Dr. von Batocki was afraid the empire would have to be content with much less. The trouble was that Germany's potato crop was always overestimated, even before the war, because all the agricultural estimates had been made by the most efficient farmers of their districts, who generally neglected to make allowance for less efficiency. Thus Germany carried on paper great quantities of wheat, rice, and potatoes which were absolutely unsuited for human consumption. Therefore it was best to face the truth that the potato harvest was far behind that of last year. This deficiency, however, was made good by a sufficiency of breadstuffs.

It was suggested to him that he prohibit the sale of potatoes to distillers, but here again the potato question assumed vital importance in the conduct of war, for which spirits are absolutely necessary.

Nor was it advisable, he said, to prohibit sales to starch factories, which served extensively to feed the nation. Dr. von Batocki promised, however, that the potato scarcity, which assumed quite an alarming aspect lately, would forthwith be remedied.

It was not poor crops, he added, that caused the present scarcity, but the dearth of horses and farm laborers. The larger part of the male agricultural population were serving in the trenches. Cultivation of the soil was left, therefore, mainly to the women folk, who were of a more saving nature than men and loved to make extra pennies. It wa only natural, in view of last year's fatal mistake, when the maximum prices were repeatedly increased, that some of these women workers should hold back their potato crop, hoping the maximum price would again be raised this year, but the food dictator pledged his word that as long as he was in his present office maximum prices, once fixed, would under no circumstances be raised afterward. This Dr. von Batocki hoped would disillusion the greedy persons who thought that by withholding the crop they might increase their gains.

ALLIES' MAILS NOTE PROMISES CHANGES

Improvement in Service Between American and Neutral Countries Is Expected.

ILLEGALITY CHARGE DENIED

Reply Reasserts The Right to Censor Letters and Seize Money Orders.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Better mail service between the United States and neutral countries is promised by the British and French Governments in their notes delivered late yesterday afternoon in reply to the American protest of May 24 last, against the seizure of American mails at Kirkwall and other points. The text of the Anglo-French response, which was delivered to the Department in French and had to be translated, is being studied by Secretary Lansing and will be given out for publication in the American newspapers for Sunday morning.

On the principles and international law aspects of the mail seizure question the reply of the Entente Allies takes issue with the contentions made by the American Government, and set up the claim that England and France, as belligerents, have a right to censor letter mail for the purpose of detecting contraband shipments and military information, and that they are justified in forcing ships to go into British and French ports to facilitate such censorship.

The reply also argues that the Entente Allies have a right in undertaking such censorship to seize United States money orders of enemy destination. It is the contention of the British and French Governments that, as not all of the belligerents ratified The Hague Conventions, their provisions with respect to mail censorship are not in force during the present war.

The note, which is about 4,000 words long, fully discusses these contentions, but asserts that there have been radical changes in the method of dealing with mails on neutral ships to lessen the delay to neutral mails of an innocent character.

It is argued that the practice of requiring ships to go into Kirkwall and other belligerent ports for examination of their mails is justified, being done to facilitate the examinations which otherwise would have to be made on the high seas.

The examination of these mails at Kirkwall, and other points, it is held, diminshes the delay in the forwarding of mails passed by the British and French censors.

The first protest of this Government against the practice of interfering with American mails was made by Secretary Lansing in a note to the British Government on Jan. 4. The response of the British and French Governments was made jointly under date of Feb. 15, and was not considered satisfactory. On May 24 Secretary Lansing addressed another note to the British and French Governments protesting against the plan of forcing ships carrying American mails into British and French ports. In this note Secretary Lansing said:

"The Government of the United States expects the present practice of the British and French authorities in the treatment of mails from or to the United States to cease, and belligerent rights, as exercised, to conform to the principle governing the passage of mail matter and to the recognized practice of nations. Only a radical change in the present British and French policy, restoring to the United States its full rights as a neural power, will satisfy this Government."

BERLIN, Oct. 13, (via Sayville.)—Advices from Amsterdam to the Overseas News Agency announce that the British authorities confiscated the entire mail on board the Holland-American liner Nieuw Amsterdam and the steamers Ternate and Rotterdam, bound for Rotterdam.

A Rotterdam dispatch reports that the Postmaster General of Denmark has announced that the steamers Iceland and Botte, plying between Iceland and Denmark, were compelled to surrender their mail to the British.

SCHEIDEMANN VIEW MEETS OPPOSITION

Rank and File of German Socialists Are Said to Favor Annexation.

THINK SACRIFICES VAIN

Laborers, and Particularly Soldiers, Eager to Hold All Territory, Says One Writer.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 12, (Delayed.)—While on the whole yesterday's proceedings in the Reichstag meet with the general approval of the press and public, being regarded as the unanimous expression of the people's representatives to fight the war to a victorious end, the Socialist Scheidemann's speech provoked some severe criticism.

If you talk with a man on leave, even the reddest Socialist, he will insist that the territory literally soaked with German blood now occupied by German troops should not be relinquished for the sake of merely theoretical international Socialistic ideas. It seems that Scheidemann, although a great leader among his fellows, is not in touch with the ideas of his comrades in the trenches, and that these ideas have undergone a great change. This is very well understood by the Socialistic paper Die Glocke, which warns its readers not to sign any petitions, because that would create the aspect as though the Social Democratic laborers of Germany were fundamentally opposed to all annexations.

"Nothing would be more erroneous than such a supposition, and it is high time to contradict this falsehood to prevent a worse consequence," says a writer in Die Glocke, who continues:

"I come daily in contact with our friends in mines and foundries, and without any exception they are annexationists. Even the comrades who share Liebknecht's ideas and support the Socialistic minority will not hear of relinquishing Belgium or other occupied territories. Should Germany remain victorious surely 90 per cent. of the men belonging to the Socialist party would vote for the annexations, those returned from the trenches unanimously. Those men care little whether such an action would comply with the principles of Karl Marx. They simply say 'We have fought and bled for it and don't wish a repetition.' This may not be the way of minds trained in political wisdom, but it is what large masses of laborers think."

This Socialistic confession is largely reprinted in the papers of all other parties who justly draw the conclusion how little the Socialist theoreticus in the Reichstag knows of the opinions prevailing among the German laboring masses.

The Tägliche Rundschau, commenting on Die Glocke's article, believes that insistence on annexations cannot prolong the war. On the contrary, it says the Entente will much earlier seek peace if it knows useless provocation will only cost more of its territory.

Speech of David, Socialist Leader.

BERLIN, Oct. 13, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—In his speech in the Reichstag on Wednesday, Dr. David, the Socialist leader, said:

"The chances for peace at this moment are small. Our enemies want no 'immature' peace before the annihilation of Germany. Unrestricted submarine war, however, will not hasten the advent of peace, but will further prolong the war.

"We understand German indignation against the British policy of starvation and against the British plan of warfare after the conclusion of peace. England invariably pretends that Germany was glad to go to war. Therefore the events of the final twelve critical days cannot be described too often.

"On July 30, 1914, the world thought that it could again breathe in peace. Sir Edward Grey and Prince Lichnowski (German Ambassador to Great Britain) had, with the assent of the Russian Ambassador at London, found the formula for an understanding, thus:

"'If the Austrian advance against Belgrade is stopped, the powers shall examine in what manner Serbia can satisfy Austria's demands without com-

Allies Now Control Greek Police—Ultimatum Said to Have Been Result of Royalist Plot.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Oct. 11, (Dispatch to the London Daily Chronicle.)—A high diplomatic personage had an audience yesterday of the King, when he besought His Majesty to change his policy.

"I prefer," replied the King, "to lose my throne rather than to endanger Greece. I am convinced that in fifteen days Rumania will exist no more. If Greece went to war then after the conquest of Rumania the irresistible German forces would be directed against Greece and she would share the fate of Serbia and Rumania."

King's Talk to Crown Council.

ATHENS, Oct 10, via London, Oct. 13, (Delayed.)—King Constantine motored in from Tatois, his Summer residence, this evening and called and presided at a meeting of the Crown Council, to which he presented the report of Prince Andrew, his brother, who has just returned from a visit to the Entente capitals.

The King discussed the form which Greece's proposals to the Entente with a view of abandoning neutrality should take, and declared his conviction that Greece's future depended upon her joining the Entente. He expressed a readiness to do so, not demanding more than a guarantee of the integrity of Greece and such material assistance in equipping the army as would be essential to render Greece's participation in the war of real value to the Allies.

Discussing a telegram from M. Romanos, the Greek Minister to France, on Sept. 30, reporting a conversation with Premier Briand, the sovereign pointed out that the three compensations which the French Premier offered informally did not include a guarantee of integrity, and he expressed the opinion that Greece's entry into the hostilities was impossible without an official pledge to this effect from the Governments of Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia.

The monarch stated further that he was not disposed at this time to insist even upon discussing Greece's territorial aspirations, to which Premier Briand referred, but he felt that a war Cabinet, when formed, should have a character to inspire the confidence of a great majority of the country, without which any full mobilization would be impossible. The King asserted that in view of the probability that the Entente Governments would reply shortly to Greece's first tentative proposals he did not consider it necessary for the new Government to take any steps before the receipt of a reply.

The Cabinet members present at the council fully approved of King Constantine's course.

Royalist Plot Checked?

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Oct. 13 (Dispatch to the London Daily News).—Some of the more fanatical and less discreet Royalists have been making no secret of their plan, namely, that if the Allies should seek to coerce Greece into joining the war or should try to force Venizelos upon the King, his Majesty should retire northward along the railway, taking his troops with him, concentrate at Trikkila in Thessaly, and lie intrenched there until the long-expected arrival of a powerful German army, when he would strike in union with them at the Allies.

Whether this senseless scheme is really cherished by the King himself I cannot of course, say, but his followers certainly talk of it as a definite program. Of the consequences to Greece these absurd schemers of the royalist camp never seem to think. The Greek Government were doubtless taken by surprise by the French Admiral's sudden and urgent demands which hit the royalist plan very hard.

In conenction with Admiral Fournet's fresh note last night a French landing party occupied the Athens station on the Larissa Railway just in time to prevent the departure of a long train laden with munitions, arms, and biscuits for Larissa. While the French party were acting two complete field batteries drew up at the station in readiness to entrain for the same destination. These withdrew, but the officer in command of the landing party refused to allow the train to be unloaded. The French detachment has been strongly reinforced.

Ferdinand Condemns Foe's Savagery.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Stanley Washburn in a dispatch to the London Times, dated Bucharest, Oct. 10, records a conversation he had with King Ferdinand of Rumania. The latter said:

"Serbia and Belgium entered the war with no realization of how the Central Powers would deal with small countries in arms against them. Rumania has no such illusions. She realizes but too clearly that the enemy would make every sacrifice to obliterate her from Europe as has been done with Serbia and Belgium.

"That the enemy craves for vengeance against Rumania for daring to espouse the cause of justice and fight for relief of her own people in Transylvania has been made clear in the first month of war. Bucharest has been wantonly, cruelly bombarded by Zeppelins and aeroplanes day after day. Hundreds of women and children have been killed and mangled as they walked harmlessly about the streets of our defenseless cities, in order that the enemy might exact from the innocent the penalty of a sound and just action on the part of the Rumanian Government.

"The effect of these acts has been such as the enemy might well have fought battles to prevent. The enemy

Joffre Urges His Soldiers To Invest in French Loan

PARIS, Oct. 13.—French soldiers are urged to invest in the new French war loan in a general order to the army issued by General Joffre. The order says:

"France for the second time issues a great loan to pay the expenses of the war. Already, thanks to the first few days' subscriptions, its success is assured Every one, both in France and abroad, knows that however heavy the charges of the war may be they are not disproportionate to the wealth of France, which will be increased by the advantage and credit resulting from a glorious peace.

"It is a sacred duty, not less imperative than military duty itself, for every Frenchman to subscribe to the loan. Soldiers, who do not spare their energies and give their lives, should avoid useless expenditure and buy rentes with their superfluous cash. The more money France has the more ammunition she can expend, economizing human lives—her true wealth—and hastening the approach of victory."

Lord Robert Says Visit of the Deutschland Proves Justice of the Measure.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Lord Robert Cecil in a statment to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent tonight characterized the German submarine outbreak in American waters as illegal. This is the first statement by any British official since the torpedoing and the first intimation coming from an official source that the British Government regards the latest submarine activity of the Germans as a violation of international law.

Lord Robert declined to go into details of the phases of the German outbreak, saying he was not in a position to discuss any official reports the British Government had received. It was in reply to a query of THE TIMES correspondent if the Germans had actually violated the law that Lord Robert expressed his opinion. He said:

"There is not the slightest difference between the sinking of ships in the Germans' attack in American waters last Sunday and in the other flagrant acts of theirs in torpedoing steamers at intervals during the war. Under international law as recognized by Great Britain and America any belligerent must before sinking an enemy ship make sure its passengers are made safe. This means that they must be put on a vessel that insures their safe arrival at port. The mere placing of passengers in open boats out at sea, where they are left to the mercy of the elements is not enough. If unable to do this the attacking war vessel is obliged to take the vessel into port where it may be held for it as a prize of war.

"The Germans instead of accepting this view and acting under international law, simply torpedoed a ship, forcing its passengers to scramble into lifeboats and shift for themselves. They do not make any pretense of living up to the provision of the law that forbids torpedoing a ship without warning. It is obvious that in the attacks in American waters the Germans violated these provisions of law as they have done before."

The British Government will not make any representations to Washington respecting the sinking of British vessels in the attacks until President Wilson has decided what to do.

Why U Boat Appeared Here.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Lord Robert Cecil, in discussing with The Associated Press correspondent the operations of the U-53 in American waters, said:

"German public opinion appears to be obsessed with the idea that the way to deal with the allied blockade is to have a succession of sudden crises with neutrals, which may be used for striking diplomatic bargains. These bargains, in the mind of Germany, always take one form—that Germany is to refrain from violating international law and humanity in return for the abandonment by Great Britain as toward neutrals of the legitimate military and naval measures of the Allies.

"In the last few weeks there has been a recrudescence of this idea in Germany, coupled with a good deal of talk of peace and mediation, and the press of the whole world is now conjecturing that the appearance of a submarine off the coast of the United States is the first step in a new attempt at a bargain of this kind. It is an ingenious idea, but it doesn't have the advantage of being novel among nations. It has been the usual device resorted to from time to time by militarist Governments which have substituted might for right. Napoleon tried it with his Milan decrees, and it failed then, as it will fail now.

Accuses Germans of Blackmail.

"The whole of the recent German foreign policy has proceeded on the same principle. Kiao-Chau, Agadir, the mailed fist, and shining armor are examples of the international procedure. In private life it is called blackmail. It may be well to say at once, in answer to these German ideas of international diplomacy, that the sinking of ships off Nantucket is precisely calculated to prove at once the danger of any concessions by the Allies and the injustice of the many American criticisms leveled against our naval and military measures.

"Three weeks ago Americans might have argued that the presence of British cruisers in American waters just outside the three-mile limit was, in view of the present stage of the war, merely a petty annoyance. What has happened is a sufficient commentary on that argument. Again, Americans have suggested that our trading-with-the-enemy regulation and our refusal to allow British goods to go to certain firms in America is also petty and unnecessary.

"That sounded reasonable a week before the Deutschland appeared in an American harbor, but when I tell you that the Deutschland took on board in America certain vitally necessary metals of which there is a serious shortage in Germany for munition purposes, and that there is reason to believe these particular metals were a part of the small stock mined in allied territory, you will see again how important it is that we should take precautions to prevent allied property getting into the

WARSHIPS SCOUT COAST FOR U-BOAT AND SUPPLY BASE

Destroyers Patrolling the Entire Seaboard from Nantucket to Northern Maine.

MAY TRAIL THE ADRIATIC

Large Force of Navy Craft Believed to be Ready for Rescues if Liner Is Attacked.

ONE SUBMARINE SIGHTED

Fleet of British Warships Reported Moving Southward Off Cape Sable—Cruisers at Nantucket.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 13.—Although the naval authorities confessed tonight that they were in entire ignorance of the whereabouts of the German submarine U-53, the unprecedented patrol of Atlantic waters from Nantucket Shoals to Northern Maine engaged the services of every immediately available torpedo boat destroyer attached to the local station.

The Navy Department, according to the best authority, has not the slightest intention of interfering between a U-boat and any non-American shipping so long as the rules of the game are scrupulously observed; but it does intend, if possible, to prevent any unlawful and inhumane act, imperiling the lives of noncombatants.

Further, the department is more than eager to find whatever mother ship or base that may be aiding the Germans in these waters. It is chiefly to that end that the war craft which went rushing out of this harbor yesterday have been racing up and down the Atlantic, patrolling every mile of the roadway and scrutinizing every vessel that seemed in the least interesting. There has been a constant interchange of code messages today between the two Admirals here, headquarters at Washington, and the ten or more destroyers in the searching party.

Naval authorities are inclined to discount a report that the White Star steamship Bovic sighted a submarine off the Nantucket Shoals as she was steaming toward New York. They are still much inclined to believe, however, that the U-53 and possibly some of her sisters are prowling about these waters, waiting to sink at least one more ship before shifting the scene of their operations to the other side of the Atlantic.

Upon this conviction they base their certainty that some sort of base—ashore or afloat—has been provided for the submarines, and it is this they are most anxious to discover. A land base would of course be raided and closed instanter; a mother ship would be immune unless it could be proved that she had got supplies at some American port.

Scouts to Use Aeroplanes.

With the arrival here today of the battleship North Carolina, which has been used in recent aeroplane manoeuvres, it was unofficially reported that preparations to add aeroplanes to the sea scouts were under way. At the same time an emergency supply of fuel and provisions was put aboard the Birmingham, flagship of the torpedo flotilla, and the Montana, which has been used as a torpedo training ship, was rushed into the harbor and anchored near the few destroyers remaining here. While these things were being accomplished several reserve destroyers came full speed from various navy yards and were tuned up to move at an instant's notice. Only officers and men on duty assignments are allowed ashore from the destroyers. The fuel ship Jason came in and filled her tanks to capacity, then turned out again.

Just where the next submarine blow is to be expected, if the Germans in reality are lurking in American waters, is a matter of keen debate among navy officers. Some think the shoals will be the scene of the next attack and some big passenger liner its victim. Some think a ship going out of Norfolk may find herself a victim when she gets outside the Capes, while others are convinced that interruption of troop movements on Canadian transports is the real purpose of the Germans.

British Cruisers Near.

When the destroyer Aylwin came in today from a scouting cruise she reported the presence of two British cruisers off the Nantucket Light vessel. After that information was given out rigid orders for secrecy were issued. The Nantucket Light vessel and similar sources of news were warned that information as to the movements of foreign vessels might not be given out lest our neutrality be violated.

Navy men believe, however, that should a U-boat attempt to attack on such a night as this, when a gale is blowing off the shoals, accompanied by thunder and lightning, and persons placed in open boats would be in grave peril, United States destroyers would interfere if they could reach the spot quickly enough.

The naval stations heard rumors today that so extended were to be the operations just undertaken that in all probability the torpedo flotilla would abandon plans to Winter at the Guantanamo base.

There was excitement on the Montana as she was bound for this port today when those aboard her sighted a submarine with a small vessel in tow. It proved to be the D-2 of the American Navy. The identity of the tow was not established. It may have been the Henry P. Hallock, which was demasted by the stiff blow off Watch Hill.

Destroyers Trail the Adriatic.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The departure of a flotilla of destroyers from Newport yesterday is regarded here as having a deep significance in connection with the presence of a German submarine or submarines near the coast. Secretary Daniels said today that he had been notified by Admiral Mayo, Commander in Chief of the Atlantic fleet, that the destroyer flotilla had been assigned to search for a submarine naval base, but the opinion prevails here that Admiral Mayo had an additional reason for this movement.

Some Washington observers feel satisfied that part of the destroyer flotilla has been assigned to the duty of keeping near the White Star liner Adriatic, so as to render assistance to her passengers in the event of an attack.

Secretary Daniels explained that the Navy Department had no evidence that any belligerent nation was maintaining a base of operations on the shores of the United States, but there had been many reports from time to time that such bases had been established, and it was the uniform practice of the Department to investigate every one of these reports.

It is evident from what is said in well-informed circles here that navy officers are convinced that the U-53 would be unable to make the return trip without getting supplies on this side of the Atlantic. That conviction, more than reports from civilians that U-boat bases have been established along the coast, is believed to be responsible for the search undertaken by the destroyer flotilla.

Most of the flotilla has gone to sea without destination, and this is accepted as evidence that its function is to keep near the Adriatic. Whatever action is taken by the flotilla in the event that it is in the vicinity of an encounter between the Adriatic and a German submarine, will be left largely to the discretion of the flotilla's commander. The Government has great confidence in the tact of navy officers. It is not overlooked that they are thoroughly familiar with the position of President Wilson with respect to the conduct of submarine warfare, and that they have had impressed upon them that the President has taken the position that compelling noncombatants to enter small boats in the open sea, many miles from land, is a violation of well-established principles of international law.

When the U-53 ordered the passengers and crew of the Stephano to leave the ship the destroyer Balch ran between the submarine and the Stephano and maintained that position until all the people from the liner had been assured of safety on the destroyers in the vicinity.

While the Administration is of the opinion that operations by a single submarine for a comparatively brief period do not afford cause for offense to the United States, the admission is made in high quarters that continued operations of that character by a large force of U-boats, to the disturbance of American trade and danger to the lives of noncombatants, would cause the Government to consider whether its interests were being imperiled.

Patrol Extends to Florida.

Fourteen destroyers have been sent to sea from Newport on this far-flung search for possible violations of American neutrality. They are the Cummings, McCall and Porter, which put out to sea from Newport on Wednesday, and the Aylwin, Cushing, Drayton, Ericsson, Fanning, Jarvis, Jenkins, McDougal, Nicholson, Paulding, and Winslow. The Paulding moved up the coast rapidly to Bar Harbor and vicinity. The Fanning went from Newport to Gardner's Bay and then to sea. The Jarvis went to Provincetown. The McDougal went to Boston and put to sea again.

The destroyers Reid and Patterson, which were at sea, have reported their arrival at Boston, and will go to sea again to participate in the patrol. The Warrington is en route from Boston to Norfolk and will observe conditions down the coast. The Lamson has left Norfolk and the Smith has left Washington for Rosebank. The Ammen has gone from Hampton Roads to Whitestone Landing. While the search will be conducted more intensively off the New England coast, it will cover the entire Atlantic seaboard from Eastport, Me., to Key West, Fla.

Responsible Government officials tonight denied that they possessed any information confirmatory of the report printed in a New York evening newspaper that the Government had been informed that a vessel laden with oil had succeeded in leaving the port of New York and was supplying the German submarine U-53.

Andrew J. Peters, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in charge of customs, said tonight: "No such information or report has come to the Treasury Department." Mr. Peters said he never heard of the matter until the newspaper story was called to his attention, and that if such a report had come to the Treasury Department it would be made known to him at once. "I do not credit the report," Mr. Peters added.

The Navy Department denied that it had any information confirmatory of the published report, and the State Department also asserted that it was without knowledge of such a sailing.

The customs branch of the Treasury Service has been alert in the examination of vessels leaving American ports and since the arrival of the U-53 in American waters, customs officers have been more vigilant in the examination of manifests and are under orders to hold up any vessel carrying a suspicious shipment. Vessels will not be allowed to clear unless the customs officers are satisfied that the voyage is legitimate.

RUMOR THAT THE U-53 GOT SUPPLIES HERE

Federal Officials, However, Are Silent on Story of Mother Ship's Escape from New York.

Officials at the Custom House declined yesterday afternoon to discuss a dispatch emanating from Washington that a steamship laden with petrol and provisions had managed to get away from New York to furnish supplies to the German submarine U-53.

Shipping men stuck to the theory that the submarine had been supplied by tugs sent out from New London, and that the reason the torpedo boat destroyers were sent to scour the seas on Thursday was because the Government was alarmed at the prospect of suits being instituted by the owners of the West Point and the four other steamships sunk on Sunday by the U-53. It was pointed out by shipping firms that the Eastern Forwarding Company had been permitted to erect screens around the dock in New London, where the Willihad is made fast, and no one other than those connected with the enterprise is allowed to go there. Petrol, crude oil, and all kinds of supplies are shipped to this pier at New London, ostensibly for the Bremen, the commercial submarine long overdue at that port.

Five British steamships cleared yesterday for Europe, the Anchor liner Cameronia, with no passengers, for Glasgow via Halifax; the Strathleven, freight for Havre; the Philadelphia, freight for La Pallice, France; the Servian Prince, freight for La Pallice, and the Guiana, passengers and freight for Demerara. Other steamships which cleared were the French liner Espagne for Bordeaux, the American liner St. Louis for Liverpool, the Italian liner Caserta for Genoa, and the Swedish-American liner Stockholm for Gothenburg.

The officials at Quarantine reported that several freighters which had been anchored off Staten Island two or three days on account of the German submarine took advantage of the thick weather and rain yesterday afternoon to proceed to sea. The British freighter City of Madras, which was brought back to port on Thursday night by the destroyer Sterrett for ignoring signals to stop as she was passing out, was allowed to resume her voyage yesterday morning.

J. Klaasen, chief officer of the Dutch freighter Blommersdijk, in the account of his interview with the Captain of the U-53, that will be forwarded to Amsterdam today on the St. Louis, said that he informed the German officer his vessel was under a neutral flag and her cargo of grain was consigned to the Government at Rotterdam.

"I cannot help that," Rose replied. "My orders are to sink your ship."

"Look! Here are the papers, all duly stamped to prove my statements," the chief officer exclaimed.

Waving the papers aside Rose said: "It is no use. My orders are to sink your ship and I give you twenty-five minutes to get your crew into the boats and leave the vessel."

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES.

No details have yet been afforded by the reports from either Berlin or Bucharest that would tend to show that the Rumanians are in full retreat along their entire line. They gave way quickly when the German offense first started, but after a retreat in which they lost apparently few men (at least only a small number of prisoners has been reported from Berlin) but great quantities of war material, it would appear that they have caught their breath and are now offering a stubborn resistance.

It must be admitted that without any details of places occupied, it is difficult if not impossible to say just what the situtaion is. The rash and, it seems, ill-advised statement of the Rumanian King may mean much or little. It may mean that the higher officers of the Rumanian Army see that danger threatens and do not feel that they are strong enough to resist it. This would naturally produce a feeling of panic which would, in the natural course of events, be imparted to the King. If this is the state of affairs the Rumanians must be in a serious plight.

On the other hand, it might be that this statement was issued as a measure of precaution. Rumania, having before her eyes the measure of what the Allies have not done, may wish to serve notice that she does not want to be neglected. She saw Belgium promised all sorts of relief, messages sent that implored her to hold out for but a few days longer. She saw these days elapse and Belgium left to her fate. She saw the same thing in Serbia, where a small nation, exhausted by war and almost depopulated by disease, was made to stand the brunt of the power of three nations, each more powerful than herself, while her allies stood by, not twenty-four hours away, frittering away their strength on an enterprise which was branded as a failure at its incipiency. It would be nothing remarkable if Ferdinand, realizing this previous tendency of the Allies to forsake their smaller partners, while engaged in the prosecution of larger designs, wished to seize time by the forelock and obtain assistance before he really needed it.

Germany has apparently seized upon Rumania as the scene for another victory, a victory which is much needed at this time, where she is contending with such great pressure at every other point on her long battle line. Victory elsewhere is hardly possible. In fact, there does not seem to be any opportunity for her to take the offensive in any other quarter, as the initiative has already passed into the hands of her enemies.

The true history of the offensive that has developed in Transylvania seems to hinge on the failure of Mackensen to come up to expectations in Dobrudja. If his move here had been a success and the bridge at Cernavoda had been taken, nothing could have prevented an invasion of Rumania from the east. In such an event, the Teutons could well have afforded to permit the Rumanians to get as far as they wished into Transylvania. In fact, the further they penetrated, the better the Teutons would have liked it, for the harder it would have been for them to get back. And get back they surely would have to do the very minute the Teutons commenced to invade Rumania from the Dobrudja front. All the railroads in the rear of the Transylvania forces would have been threatened, and their lines of communication and supply would have been in serious danger. When the retreat came then, the Rumanians would have been caught between the Teutonic forces in their front and those forces in the rear which had crossed the Danube.

This seems to be the most logical explanation of the sudden shift in the offensive, for there is little doubt that the abandonment of Transylvania to the Rumanians meant that the offensive against them was to be made through Dobrudja. The general Teutonic scheme is to concentrate heavily against one line and to crush it by the very momentum of their attack. The weight of large bodies of infantry supported by heavy artillery is the foundation of their strategy. It is not reasonable that this concentration would have been made on two fronts with the same idea. Moreover, a drive through Dobrudja would have been much safer in that it would not have subjected the invading forces to an attack from any other quarter but their immediate front. The line is short and, therefore, offers the opportunity for comparatively few men to do the work of several times that many in Transylvania, where the line is forced to follow the great irregularities of this part of the Rumanian frontier.

The situation as it now exists seems to be that the Teutons have driven the Rumanians back to within a few miles of their border and have actually reached, if they have not crossed, the border in at least one point. There is no indication as yet that Rumania has been actually invaded.

Directly connected with the attempt to invade Rumania is the Italian offensive which burst into activity along the Carso. This enterprise, coming as it has immediately on the heels of the Rumanian retreat, creates a very strong presumption that it was designed to relieve the pressure on the Rumanian forces. It is too well calculated to do so, particularly if it should so happen that, in order to make the necessary concentration of forces to insure success, the Teutons drew on the Austrians on the Italian front to any extent. This, needless to say, we do not know. It would seem, however, entirely possible. These troops had to be drawn from somewhere. At every other point there was a constantly increasing pressure. Only the Italians were relatively inactive. The Carso was exceptionally well defended by nature, and nature's defenses had been augmented by the weeks of occupation by the Austrians after Gorizia fell. Indeed, it is highly probable that the main defenses were constructed long before the Isonzo was crossed. Should it prove that the Carso defenses were weakened an entirely new interest may be created by this latest offensive.

On the western front, the indications are that the British are warming up for a new push. There was considerable activity there yesterday and the day before noticeably on that section of the front between the British lines and the Bapaume-Peronne road. This would seem the most logical place for the attack to come if, as appears to be the case, the effort is eventually to be made to attack Bapaume from the rear by cutting in behind it. The first step in such an operation would be to do just as the French did when they were preparing the way for the attack on Combles, that is, by making an advance well to the east of the position and then drive northward. This would enable the British to strike the railroad well to the east of Bapaume, avoid the strongest of the German defenses which have undoubtedly been constructed to guard the city and increase the probability of capturing a large number of prisoners from those who are now holding what is left of the Albert salient.

BOSTON HEARS U-BOAT IS 200 MILES OFF SHORE

Steamship Bovic Said to Have Sighted a Submarine—Fleet of British Warships Also Seen.

BOSTON, Oct. 13.—A submarine of unidentified nationality was reported about 200 miles east of New York by the steamer Bovic in a wireless message today. The course of the submarine was not stated.

The Bovic, which is due to arrive in New York tomorrow from Manchester, England, reported sighting the submersible in latitude 40.17 north; longitude 69:13 west. It was added that the submarine was "astern," but whether pursuing the Bovic or keeping an independent course was not stated.

The Bovic is a British freight steamer, owned by the White Star Line, and sailed from Manchester on Sept. 30. Her commander, who probably made the report that a submarine had been sighted, is Captain Summers.

A fleet of foreign cruisers and destroyers also is off the American coast, according to Captain Linderoos of the Russian steamship Hesperus, which arrived here today from Huelva, Spain. To the pilot who boarded his vessel Captain Linderoos reported that "a lot of cruisers and destroyers" passed his vessel off Cape Sable on Wednesday, heading southwest. At the rate of speed, he said, they must be off the coast by now.

Pilots who were in Massachusetts Bay yesterday said that three destroyers cruised off this coast all day. One pilot said he thought they were British vessels. Another said they were American. Ashore it was believed they were American destroyers on patrol duty.

Belief that they were British destroyers was held by many waterfront authorities, who connected their appearance with the fact that it was only yesterday that British vessels at this port moved out, after being held here since the submarine raid off Nantucket Sunday. The British destroyers, they contended, came here to act as convoys for ships of that nationality.

Three British steamers went out last night, and today the Lord Cromer and the Marengo prepared to sail.

The Kansan of the American-Hawaiian Line, under charter to the France and Canada Steamship Company, and laden with war munitions and horses for the Allies, was expected also to sail today for St. Nazaire, France, and Genoa.

Thirteen steamships, headed by the White Star liner Cedric and the Spanish liner Montevideo, arrived in port yesterday from European ports without having seen a submarine or the Adriatic, Minnehaha or Pannonia, which left Sandy Hook some time on Thursday night.

The officials of the White Star Line said the Bovic, which was reported to have sighted a submarine, was due to arrive today. They did not think it likely that her Captain would have sent out any message reporting the submarine. If the Bovic had sent any such message it would have been picked up by the operator on the Cedric, it was said.

The Cedric, which carries a four-inch rapid fire gun on her after deck, brought in a general cargo and one passenger, who was a representative of the Bank of England in charge of $20,000,000 of securities consigned to J. P. Morgan & Co., and other New York bankers.

War risk insurance rates declined yesterday as much as 50 per cent. in some instances, as compared with the rates quoted last Monday following the sinking of the five vessels off Nantucket Lightship. Transatlantic rates were 2 to 2½ per cent., against 5 per cent. on Monday. Brokers quoted 1 per cent. to British West Indies and South America.

GERMANS IN DARK OVER U-53.

Know Nothing of "Extent of Submarine War in West Atlantic."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—The German public is still in the dark as to the extent of the submarine war in West Atlantic waters and knows nothing of the number of U-boats employed. Count von Reventlow, in the Deutsche Tageszeitung, seems to think that only the U-53 is operating there, and warns the German people that such single-handed operations can not have any deciding effect upon the the general naval or military situation.

He explains that there is really no difference between the methods used by the U-boats in the West Atlantic, the Arctic, and the North Sea, and those of cruisers chasing contraband merchantmen. Therefore, he says, one should not name it submarine warfare, but cruiser warfare. According to the London declaration, he says, a warship is justified in sinking prizes, and even contraband-carrying neutrals, if it is imperiled itself or severely handicapped in further operations. Instead of this being done by cruisers, it is now done by German U-boats, and their work, he says, is practically identical. But the U-boats run almost as much danger from hostile warships as cruisers, he adds, which fact circumscribes their activity in the same way as that of old cruisers. In fact, he adds, they are to all practical purposes cruisers, even operating on the surface of the water.

Captain Perseus, writing in the Tageblatt on the British attempt to compel neutrals to exclude German U-boats from their ports, says:

"According to generally recognized usage neutral States may close their ports entirely to belligerent warships, but such prohibitive measures must apply also to all belligerents. In reality, the U-boats of the Central Powers always have sought as much as possible to avoid neutral ports, only two cases to the contrary being known, the case of the U-35, which paid a short visit to Cartagena, and now that of the U-53. On the other hand, the British have repeatedly violated all recognized sea laws."

As an example Perseus mentions the Highflyer and the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse case on Aug. 26, 1914, in Rio Deloro, and the Glasgow and Dresden on March 14, 1915, at Juan Fernandez. He wants to know how neutrals are to obey the British demand to prevent U-boats from entering their waters since the British memorandum especially mentions the fact that U-boats can evade all control by diving.

"Does the British Government expect neutrals to rigorously enforce this demand?" he asks, and ventures that it might have disastrous conseqences even for the British themselves. Captain Perseus thinks the British knew their memorandum was merely hitting at the air, but that they hoped thereby to interfere with the traffic of German commercial submarines with American ports.

BLOMMERSDIJK STORY DENIED.

U-Boats Not to Sink All Ships Bound Via England, Says Berlin.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 13.—The Dutch Government received today from the German Legation a statement to the effect that implicit instructions had been given to the commanders of German submarines to sink neutral steamships in no case unless the vessels could be destroyed in accordance with the German prize law. Therefore, it was considered extremely unlikely that the Captain of the Blommersdijk was told by the Captain of the submarine which sank the steamship that he would send to the bottom every ship which otherwise might touch a British port. Such a statement, it was pointed out, would have been in direct violation of the orders to commanders.

The Government also was informed that should it be proved that the Blommersdijk's sinking was not in accordance with German prize law, Germany would grant indemnity for the vessel and cargo without submitting the matter to a German Prize Court.

The Berlin correspondent of the Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Curant telegraphs the following:

"I have been authorized by competent naval authorities to say that the submarine commander cannot have made a statement to the Captain of the Blommersdijk that all ships which had to touch at British ports would be sunk."

A Rotterdam dispatch on Oct. 10, quoted from a report to the Holland-American Line, owner of the steamer Blommersdijk, which was sunk off the New England coast during the German submarine operations of last Sunday, to the effect that the submarine's commander "informed the Blommersdijk's Captain that he would sink any ship bound by way of an English port." The steamer was on her way from New York for Rotterdam with a cargo of grain for the Dutch Government, but was expected to touch at Kirkwall en route.

LINK U-53 WITH PEACE.

London Weeklies Think Germans Are About to Ask Mediation.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—What the United States will do with regard to the German submarine raid off its coast is the theme of the editorials of most of the weekly reviews.

"Overnight American isolation has vanished," says The Outlook, and, in common with other reviews, this newspaper discusses the effect the submarine incident will have on the Monroe Doctrine.

The Nation takes the view that "having done something disagreeable in the U-53 affair" Germany's next step will be to seek some favor from the United States, which it says may be a request for mediation, or possibly only a request for an effective protest against the British blockade, as a return for muzzling her U-boats. The Nation expresses the belief that Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, the German Imperial Chancellor, is still in the ascendant, and that he, like the German people, would welcome mediation.

The Spectator considers that the German motive in sending the U-53 across the sea was to force the United States to propose peace terms, regardless of whether the Entente Allies wish them proposed or not.

"Thus, with unrestricted submarine warfare as a settled policy," says The Spectator, "Germany gives America warning of what is likely to happen unless the United States is prepared to declare that the war has reached a point where it is dangerous for neutrals. If the United States is willing to play this rôle the Germans will hold their hands from an extra dose of unlimited submarine frightfulness."

The New Statesman defends the reply of the United States to the note of the Entente Allies with regard to submarines.

"It was not likely," says this journal, "that President Wilson would lay himself open to a charge of accepting dictation on such a matter. America is no more bound to our views regarding submarines than we are bound to others regarding the conduct of our blockade. Indeed, she is dictinctly less so."

MAY BLOW UP WRECKED SHIP.

Present Position of Blommersdijk Is a Menace to Navigation.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Oct. 13.—The coast guard cutter Androscoggin was examining today the wreck of the Dutch steamer Blommersdijk, which was torpedoed on Sunday by a German submarine. The hulk, which sank stern first with the bow awash five miles east of Nantucket Shoals Lightship, is a menace to navigation. Captain Molloy of the cutter was instructed to blow up the wreck or mark it so that vessels may be warned of its presence.

One of the Blommersdijk's lifeboats was picked up today by a fishing sloop and towed into New Bedford.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Oct. 13.—The tug Alert arrived here today with a diver aboard, bound for the wreck of the Dutch steamship Blommersdijk, which was torpedoed by a German submarine off Nantucket Shoals Lightship on Sunday. Captain David Hunt, wreck master of the Scott Wrecking Company, said that the salvage of the steamer might be attempted by his company if conditions were favorable. The tug, which came from New London, Conn., was held in port here today by a southerly gale.

TRADE ENVOYS DELAY RETURN

Commissioners Will Sail from France on a Neutral Ship.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—The members of the American Industrial Commission to France, which has just completed a six weeks' inquiry into economic conditions in this country, have decided not to sail on the liner Rochambeau from Bordeaux tomorrow.

The Commissioners will return to the United States on a neutral ship, as yet undetermined, from England.

DEUTSCHLAND COMING AGAIN.

Captain Koenig Says So in Telegram to His Native Town.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 13, (via London.)—According to the Hamburger Nachrichten, Captain Paul Koenig of the German submarine Deutschland, replying to a telegram of congratulations from his native town on his voyage to the United States and return, said he was busy with preparations for a second trip across the ocean, which would soon begin.

ANOTHER BRITISH SHIP SUNK.

Thirteen of the Gardepee's Crew Are Reported Missing.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The sinking of the British steamer Gardepee is announced by Lloyds. Twelve members of the crew have been landed and thirteen are missing.

The British steamer Gardepee, of 1,663 gross tons, was last reported as having sailed from Fraserburgh, Scotland, on Aug. 22 for Archangel. She was built in Sunderland in 1882 and was owned in Cardiff.

ATTACKS BY U-53 ILLEGAL, SAYS CECIL

hands of those who we know will use it to help our enemies. We can only do this by preventing British subjects at home from trading with firms that will help the enemy with supplies obtained from us.

Why Concessions are Impossible.

"It would be all very well if we could sit down at any moment and say the war had settled down into certain known channels. But war never does that. War is a continued succession of unexpected strokes. Recent events have shown that even American waters are not outside the area of war.

"Any concessions made by the Allies in regard to their war measures—the abandonment of the defensive armament of their merchant ships, the withdrawal of their cruisers from certain parts of the high seas, the allowing of stocks of nationals needed by Germany to accumulate in the United States from British territory without some kind of assurance that they will not reach the enemy, the export of British material to firms known to be in sympathy with our enemies—all these things might at any moment assist the German armies in the field to prolong the war, and, even in the extreme case, jeopardize our success.

"By the enterprises of the Möwe, the Deutschland, and the U-53, and the continued carefully prepared conspiracies in the East, conducted through territories of the United States, and by organized outrages against American factories and Canadian public works, Germany has gone out of her way to prove there is no point at which the Allies can safely abandon, in any part of the world, the measures which they are entitled to take under their national rights and under the laws of war."

Lenient With Blacklist.

Referring to reports of meetings between Sir Richard Crawford, Commercial Attaché of the British Embassy at Washington, with American bankers and business men. Lord Robert said no departure in principle had been made from the British blockade measures, but it could be safely said that the general policy leaned in the direction of a modification rather than an extension of the blacklist. The reply to the American blacklist note was now on its way to Washington, and this answered the American criticism of the principles behind the measure. As regards the administration of the blacklist, Lord Robert said Washington had forwarded very few individual complaints about it.

Replying to the charge that Great Britain is violating its equal treatment provisions of the Anglo-American treaty of commerce and navigation of 1815 by granting licenses to Japanese and French exporters, while refusing permits to American shippers for similar goods, Lord Robert Cecil said that such restrictions were in the hands of the Board of Trade, but that he was personally of the opinion that such treaties lost validity during a state of war.

NEW SOMME DRIVE HALTED, SAYS BERLIN

Great Attack Started by the Allies, It Is Stated, But Obtained Little Result.

LONDON REPORTS PROGRESS

British Lines Between Guendecourt and Les Boeufs Advanced—Heavy Fire on French Front.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Heavy fighting is in progress along the Somme front, according to the official statement of the German Headquarters Staff, made public in Berlin today. French and British troops attempted, it is said, to break through the German lines, but failed.

The conflict, according to Berlin, was particularly fierce on the front from Courcelette, near Thiepval, to St. Pierre Vaast Wood, east of Combles, and admission is made that the Allies penetrated the German positions "temporarily." Six attacks were made by the French upon Sailly, while south of the Somme also Foch's troops attempted assaults as far south as Chaulnes.

The bulletins of the French and British War Offices today do not indicate any concerted action on the Somme. The British afternoon statement says that Haig's forces advanced their lines between Gueudecourt and Les Boeufs, and also northwest of Gueudecourt.

The bulletin of the German War Office reads:

> Army Group of Prince Rupprecht.—A new attempt of the French and British on a large scale to break through our line between the Ancre and the Somme failed completely. The enemy employed massed artillery and infantry, reinforced with fresh reserves in the effort to achieve his object. The brave troops of Generals Sixt von Arnim, von Boehn, and von Garnier maintained their positions unshaken, after heavy fighting.
> The main weight of the numerous attacks was directed against the front from Courcelette to St. Pierre Vaast Wood. Bitter hand-to-hand fighting developed repeatedly in our lines with those of the enemy, who temporarily penetrated our positions. In spite of assaults during the day against our positions near Sailly, which failed on six occasions, the French attacked once again in the course of the night. This attack also was repulsed. The battle northwest of the village has not been concluded.
> Brandenburg infantry received dense British columns northwest of Gueudecourt with a devastating fire.
> South of the Somme French attacks between Fresnes and Mazancourt and in the vicinity of Chaulnes were continued. They died down for the greater part under our curtain of fire. Stubborn fighting, which ended in our favor, again developed for possession of the sugar refinery of Genermont. The main portion of Ablaincourt remained in our possession after a fierce struggle. In the course of the latest battles we captured here about 200 French, including fourteen officers.
> Army Group of the German Crown Prince.—East of the Meuse (Verdun front) and in the region west of Markirch, in the Vosges, there was lively artillery fighting. West of Markirch French advances were repulsed.

The day bulletin of the French War Office says:

> The night was fairly calm on both banks of the Somme. There were skirmishes and mutual bombardments, sometimes attaining to great violence, in the Morval, Bouchavesnes, Ablaincourt, and Chaulnes sectors.
> There was nothing to report on the rest of the front.

The official report from British Headquarters in France, issued tonight, reads:

> South of the Ancre there was considerable hostile shelling during the day, especially in the Gueudecourt and Martinpuich areas and north of Courcelette. Otherwise there is nothing to report.
> This morning, after a bombardment, an enemy party attempted to raid our trenches northeast of Wulverghem, but was driven back by our fire.

The day report of the British War Office reads:

> In yesterday's operations south of the Ancre we advanced our front between Gueudecourt and Les Boeufs and also northwest of Gueudecourt. We took about 150 prisoners.
> During the night the enemy attacked our lines north of the Stuff Redoubt, but was driven off.
> Last night fourteen raiding parties entered enemy trenches in the Ypres and Armentières areas, taking a number of prisoners and inflicting considerable casualties.

RUMANIA DOOMED, CONSTANTINE SAYS

has almost overnight created a bitterness which has enlisted against him the whole nation, which makes peace without victory an utter impossibility to Rumania, and this is the case with every country that entered the war against the Central Powers. Notwithstanding the savagery with which the enemy has been attacking us and the cruelty with which our defenseless women and our innocent little children are being massacred, this Government will endeavor to prevent bitterness from dominating our action in the shape of reprisals against prisoners or defenseless noncombatants, and to this end orders have been issued to our troops that, regardless of previous provocation, those who fall into our hands shall be treated with kindness, for it is not common soldiers nor innocent people who must be held responsible for the policy adopted by the enemy Governments.

"The Rumanian Government believes that acts performed in the present must be of such a nature as to be approved by the generation that follows, which will judge us from a perspective uninfluenced by the bitterness and chaos of the moment. It is in this spirit that the Government wished to conduct the war, though the policy of our enemy renders it increasingly difficult to preserve restraint among our troops and our people. Rumanians will not falter in their allegiance to the cause, nor can the enemy wean them from their faith in England, the just; in France, their Latin brother, and in Russia, their immediate neighbor.

"Yet Rumanians pray that in spite of the existing exigencies and of their own huge problems the Allies will not allow the affairs of Rumania, who staked her all in this conflict, to pass into the back of their minds and suffer that she meet the fate either of Belgium or of Serbia. We have taken the responsibility of entering the war and we feel sure our great allies will see to it that their sympathy and their support will be ever behind us while the war endures."

RUMANIANS REPEL FOE ON HUNGARIAN BORDER

Berlin and Vienna Versions Report Further Successes—Airmen Raid Constanza.

BUCHAREST, Oct. 13.—The repulse of a systematic attack at several points along the Transylvania front is announced in today's War Office statement. At the customs station of Crasna, in the Tarlang Valley, to which the Rumanians retired from the Duzeu Valley, the Rumanian cavalry frustrated six attacks by hostile infantry, says the statement, which reads:

> Northern and northwestern fronts: In the upper valley of the Ofuzul, west of the frontier, an enemy attack was repulsed, and our cavalry has driven back in the Magyaros defile, to the west of Mituzu, six attacks by enemy infantry on the customs station of Crasna.
> In the valley of the Buzcul we repulsed with sanguinary losses an attack of the enemy, who was obliged to retreat.
> Quiet reigns at Hratoce. At Sousaiu, (Simoani?) west of Predeal (south of Kronstadt) and at Predeal the enemy has been repulsed and has retreated to Timos. At Guivala there were patrol engagements.
> At Caineni there were artillery actions. West of Caineni we repulsed a night attack of the enemy. In the valley of the Jiul and at Orsova (on the Danube) there were artillery actions.
> Southern front: There were artillery duels and infantry fighting all along the Danube.
> In Dobrudja quiet reigns.

BERLIN, Oct. 13, (via London.)—The Rumanians have been expelled from further portions of Transylvania and are being pursued by the Austro-German forces, it was announced officially here today. The region cleared is a strip of territory in Eastern Transylvania, paralleling the Rumanian frontier. It includes the Gyergyo and Mszek Valleys and the lower and upper Csik. The announcement follows:

> In Transylvania the Gyergyo and Mszek Valleys and the lower and upper Csik are free from all enemy forces. The pursuit is being continued. On the road through the Csik Szereda-Gymes Pass the enemy is still offering stubborn resistance. In successful encounters on the frontier heights to the east and southeast of Kronstadt one officer and 170 men were taken prisoners and two guns were captured.
> German seaplanes, during the night of Oct. 9-10, successfully bombarded Russian transport steamers at Constanza (Dobrudja.)

VIENNA, Oct. 12, (via London, Oct. 13.)—Efforts by the Rumanians to stay the Austro-German advance in Transylvania have failed, the War Office announced today, and they are being driven back further by General von Falkenhayn's troops. The statement follows:

> Rumanian attacks near Vulcan Pass failed. In the region of Kronstadt the enemy was compelled to retire in the direction of the frontier passes. In the last two days eighteen officers, 639 men, one heavy gun, five machine guns and much war material have been brought in.
> In the Georgeny Mountains and on both sides of the upper Maros Rumanian resistance has been broken. Our troops are pursuing the enemy.

SOFIA, Oct. 12, (via London, Oct. 13.)—Bulgarian troops in Eastern Rumania have made a small advance, capturing a village, it was announced officially today. The announcement follows:

> Along the Danube there was local patrol skirmishing.
> The situation in Dobrudja is unchanged. An advanced Bulgarian detachment dislodged the enemy from Nultiova and occupied the village.

40 ALLIED AEROPLANES RAID MAUSER WORKS

Six German and Nine Allied Machines Reported Shot Down—Berlin Calls Damage Slight.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Forty French and British aeroplanes dropped four tons of explosives last night on the Mauser Works at Oberndorf, Germany, on the Neckar River, the War Office announced today. Six German machines defending the works were shot down. The bulletin reads:

> A Franco-British squadron of forty aeroplanes bombarded the Mauser Works at Oberndorf, on the Neckar. Projectiles to the weight of 4,340 kilograms were dropped, and their attainment of the objectives aimed at was noted.
> Six German aeroplanes were brought down in the course of engagements which they entered to defend their factories.

BERLIN, Oct. 13, (via London.)—Nine allied aeroplanes of a squadron, which attempted to pass over Southern Germany yesterday, were shot down, the War Office announced today. The bulletin reads:

> Our aviators successfully attacked strong enemy squadrons on their way to South Germany and, supported by our anti-aircraft guns, brought down nine aeroplanes.
> According to the reports at hand, five persons were killed and twenty-six wounded by bombs which were dropped. The material damage was slight. No damage was done to military establishments.

BERLIN, Oct. 13, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—"Only by chance on Oct. 11 did it become known in Germany that the raid of two French aviators against Stuttgart was directed against the palace and monastery there," says the Overseas News Agency. "Pilots Baron and Chazard hit neither persons nor buildings."

FIRE 100 SHELLS NOW TO THE GERMANS' ONE

French at Verdun Have Artillery Mastery, Says Nivelle to Americans.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—General Nivelle, Commander of the French forces at Verdun, in conversation with Walter Hale, an artist, and H. O. Beatty, Director General of the American Relief Clearing House of New York, at his headquarters during the shelling of German trenches by the French on Tuesday, remarked that the French were throwing more than one hundred shells to one thrown by the Germans, and that soon they would be doing better than that.

The defender of Verdun said that his army had had its bitter struggles, but that now, if there should be an attack, it would be broken by the French.

Beatty and Hale watched the cannonade for two hours from the ramparts of Verdun. They also spent a night in the Citadel at Verdun with General Petain, Commander of the French forces in the Soissons-Verdun region, with whom they also had luncheon.

General Petain thanked Director Beatty for the gift of 50,000 francs by the American Relief Clearing House. The General said that he intended to use the money in buying artificial legs and arms for the mutilated soldiers of his army. The French Commander said that he deeply appreciated the charity of the American people.

GERMAN POTATO CROP SHORT

Batocki Announces Trading in Seeds Will Be Forbidden.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 13, (via London.)—President von Batocki of the Food Regulation Board, admitted in the Reichstag that the potato harvest in Germany had been disappointing, according to the Kölnische Volkszeitung, stating that the shortage was due to a lack of seed potatoes left over from last year.

President von Batocki, the newspaper adds, announced that the authorities were taking counsel on steps deemed necessary, and in the meantime all trade in seed potatoes would be forbidden.

ITALIANS PUSH ON IN CARSO REGION

WIN TRENTINO POSITIONS

Vienna Admits Successes of Foe, but Says That 2,700 Italian Prisoners Were Taken.

ROME, Oct. 13, (via London.)—Continued success of the Italian offensive in the Carso region is reported today in the War Office bulletin. The Austrians have made heavy counterattacks, but without avail, it is said, and following these the Italian troops pushed forward at several points, reaching the western slopes of Monte Pecinka and the outskirts of Locvizza and Hudileg.

In the Pasubio region of the Trentino, Italian troops have taken strong Austrian positions between Sette Croci and Monte Roite, says the statement. Austrian attacks in this region were driven back.

The bulletin says:

> In the Pasubio region we drove back some bomb attacks between Monte Spil and Monte Corno and also on the southern slopes of Monte Roite. Our troops then took strong enemy positions between Sette Croci and Monte Roite, making some progress in spite of the difficulties of the terrain and the obstinate resistance encountered. We captured thirty-two prisoners.
> In the Posina Valley (Trentino) there were artillery actions. Some small encounters also took place, ending in our favor. On the Pontebana torrent in the Fella Valley (Carnic Alps) hostile artillery bombarded our positions heavily, but did no damage.
> On the Julian front there were violent artillery actions. During the night of Oct. 12-13 and yesterday morning the enemy launched further heavy counterattacks, especially at Sober, near Gorizia, south of Villanova and toward Point 144 on the Carso. They were all driven off with heavy losses. On the front of one battalion alone near Sober 400 enemy dead were buried.
> During the afternoon our troops made considerable progress on the Carso, capturing ground between the first enemy line, which we already held, and the second one. The western slopes of Monte Pecinka and the first houses of Locvizza and Hudileg were reached. We captured 400 prisoners, including ten officers.
> Enemy aircraft bombarded the Grado lagoon and other points on the Lower Isonzo. There were few casualties and trifling damage was done. In an air fight above Gorizia a hostile aeroplane was driven down and it fell near San Marco.

Vienna Admits Loss of Ground.

VIENNA, Thursday, Oct. 12, (via London.)—The Italians are maintaining their attacks on the Austrians without cessation and desperate fighting continued throughout yesterday. Today's official announcement says that the Italians gained ground east of Oppacchasella in their drive toward Trieste and captured the town of Novavas. At other points the utmost efforts of the Italians gained nothing for them. The number of Italian prisoners has been increased to 2,700. The bulletin reads:

> In the Italian theatre yesterday was the third day of heavy infantry battles. On the southern wing of the coastal front our troops maintained their positions against enemy efforts. North of the Vippaco and south to the region of Locvizza all attacks of the Italians were repulsed. East of Oppacchiacella the enemy gained ground. Novavas fell into his hands.
> Further south, as far as the ocean, the enemy repeatedly penetrated some sections of our first-line defenses, but in each case was driven out. Our troops from the Alps distinguished themselves in this fighting.
> The number of Italians captured has increased to 2,700.
> On some portions of the Carinthian-Tyrolean front feeble enemy detachments made attempts to attack. On the Pasubio, where our lines were withdrawn from Cosmagon, but not from Roite ridge, the day and night were calmer.

SCHEIDEMANN VIEW MEETS OPPOSITION

promising our foreign rights and independence.'

"On the same day, our Chancellor telegraphed our Ambassador at Vienna advocating a direct conversation between Vienna and St. Petersburg [Petrograd] and declaring that Germany would decline to be drawn into the world war if her suggestion were not heeded by Austria-Hungary. Vienna simultaneously accepted the formula of the understanding.

"This was the situation upon which the news of the Russian mobilization fell. England's guilt is thus an unsent telegram to St. Petersburg similar to that from Berlin to Vienna on July 30. Russia was sure that England would follow her."

Dr. David insisted that peace would come as soon as Germany's enemies understood the impossibility of annihilating her. Pointing out that not all Englishmen share the views of Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, and others who, he said, preach a war of annihilation and war after the end of the war, Dr. David emphatically repudiated the idea that Germany could be conquered by inner discord and indiscretion.

"Ours is a war of defense," he continued. "This binds us all together. We wish the re-establishment of independent Belgium; that of a Belgium independent from Great Britain and France.

"We did not enter the war with intentions of conquest. We reassured England that we would not attack the north coast of France. It is probably unknown in England that a telegram went from the German Emperor to the King of England which confirmed Prince Lichnowski's assurance. M. Jaures (the late Socialist leader in the French Chamber of Deputies), urged the French Ministers before the outbreak of the war to bring pressure upon Russia in order to avoid hostilities. I maintain the policy for which Jaures died. Our enemies are guilty of continuing the war."

"We hold that war is no adequate means of deciding disputes between nations," continued Dr. David. "We are persuaded that legal forms must be created in order to dispose of such differences. Slandering reports have been circulated abroad that Germany declines such legal forms. We therefore greeted with joyful shouts the Chancellor's indorsement in his last speech of the idea of arbitration. If all civilized humanity shall adopt these views, wars like the present one will be avoided and we can say in truth 'Peace on Earth.'"

German newspaper comment on yesterday's Reichstag debate alludes to the fact that all the parties put forward their recognized leaders and their best speakers, placing the discussion on a high level. Summarizing the comment upon the remarks of Herr Naumann, the Radical leader, and Dr. David, the Socialist leader, regarding the origin of the war, the Overseas News Agency says:

"Both these members recalled how on July 30, 1914, the atmosphere seemed to be cleared by the understanding reached in London between Foreign Secretary Grey and the German Ambassador, Prince Lichnowski, with the assent of the Russian Ambassador. A further step toward the maintenance of peace was taken when the German Chancellor obtained from Austria-Hungary an acceptance of this program. But it is pointed out, all this work was undone by the Russian mobilization, which could have been prevented with great ease. If Great Britain had acted toward Russia in the same manner as Germany did toward Austria-Hungary, then the world war would have been avoided. Since Great Britain undid this work and since the Russian war party therefore felt itself supported by England, war became unavoidable.

"The newspapers unanimously agree that the facts thus stated settle the question of moral guilt."

Berlin on Asquith's Speech.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 13.—Commenting on the speeches in the British House of Commons by Premier Asquith and War Secretary Lloyd George, in which they declared the war must be continued to a finish, the Lokal-Anzeiger of Berlin says:

"So we know it now for the hundredth time, and shall take measures accordingly. We, too, must provide for the future of our people, and shall not relax our efforts until they are guaranteed against all designs of our enemies to strangle them.

"As Mr. Asquith has had to admit, it is not so simple a matter to conquer us. But the fighting must go on because the interests of the Island Empire demand it. Well, then, we shall take care that the heart of the British lion shall yet learn to know fear."

ALLIES TAKE CONTROL OF THE GREEK POLICE

Prohibit Citizens from Carrying Arms and Stop Shipment of Munitions to Thessaly.

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 14.—"Admiral Du Fournet, Commander of the Anglo-French fleet," says a Reuter dispatch from Athens, "on Wednesday addressed a complementary note to the Greek Government demanding, on behalf of the Allies, the control of the Greek police, the prohibition of Greek citizens from carrying arms, the stoppage of sending war munitions to Thessaly, and the lifting of the embargo on the transportation of Thessalian wheat.

"The Greek Cabinet sat with the Chief of the General Staff until midnight discussing the note. The Council was resumed in the morning, when all the demands of Admiral Du Fournet were accepted.

"The British Minister here has visited M. Zalocostas, the new Greek Foreign Minister, whereby the Entente recognizes the new Cabinet."

King Constantine has decided to turn the men of the navy into an army corps. The officers and crews of the ships which were delivered over to the Entente Allies are being formed into a regiment.

BRITISH RAID BULGARS ON DOIRAN FRONT

Armored Cars in Struma Section of Macedonia Scout Along Seres Railroad.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—British armored cars in the Struma River section of the Macedonian front, exploring the region where the Seres-Demir-Hissar Railroad joins the Seres-Saloniki line, found that the railway was being strongly held by the Bulgarians, according to the statement today from British Army Headquarters, the text of which follows:

> On the Struma front we passed forward patrols from Prosenik and Topolova to the east of the railway and our armored cars have reconnoitred to the junction of the Seres-Demir-Hissar and Serres-Saloniki roads. The enemy holding the railway was found to be in strength.
> About the Nihor-Doiran front, to the north of Doljeli, hostile trenches were raided and after strong resistance the enemy fled, leaving dead on the field.

The statement issued today by the Berlin War Office reads:

> On both sides of the Monastir-Florina railway line, on the Macedonian front, there were lively artillery duels. Serbian attacks in the Cerna salient yesterday again met with no success.
> On the Struma front engagements with enemy reconnoitring detachments occurred. The enemy directed his fire from land and sea against positions near Orfano.

SOFIA, Oct. 12, (via London, Oct. 13.)—Attempts of the Serbians who forced a passage of the Cerna River, on the Macedonian front, to continue their advance northward have been checked by the Bulgarians, the War Office announced today. Six Serbian assaults were repulsed. The announcement follows:

> From Presba Lake to the Cerna there was the usual cannonade. In the bend of the Cerna there was spirited fighting. Six consecutive attacks by the enemy in the environs of Skochivir were repulsed. The enemy sustained severe losses.
> An attempt of hostile infantry to advance on Dobroupolje Height was foiled. In the Moglena Valley there was considerable activity on the part of the artillery, combined with infantry and machine-gun firing, and engagements between advanced reconnoitring parties.
> East of the Vardar a hostile battalion which, after violent artillery preparation attempted to advance against the heights south of the village of Bogorodica was repulsed with heavy losses. At the foot of the Belaschitza Ridge listless artillery firing occurred.
> Along the Struma there was considerable activity by reconnoitring detachments. An attempt of two hostile battalions to advance against Barakli-Juma under protection of violent artillery fire was shattered by our fire. The enemy's long-range guns shelled Seres, killing many inhabitants.

SAYS ALLIES CANNOT WEAR OUT TEUTONS

Berlin Writer Scoffs at Haig Prophecy, Asserting Central Powers Have Ample Forces.

SEES SUCCESS IN BALKANS

Rumania's Entrance, He Says, Has Not Helped the Allies, and Russia Cannot Aid Her Now.

BERLIN, Oct. 13, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—In answer to the statements of Generals Joffre and Haig as to the results of the Anglo-French offensive on the Somme, the military critic of the Overseas News Agency writes:

"Just as General Joffre did, General Haig now feels obliged to strike a balance of the battle, which already has raged more than three months. In his statement published a few days ago, the British commander takes a view, curiously opposite to that taken by the French commander, who regards the gain of terrain as the main result.

"The British General says: 'The uninterrupted systematic pressure of the Entente armies must finally exhaust the morale and material forces of the Central Powers, especially as to the existing reserves of war material.'

"This so-called strategy of wearing out their opponents, through which a great decision of the war was expected, has accomplished very little, as proved by the great successes gained by the Central Powers, who still have such forces at their disposal that they are able to carry out gigantic offensives. Thus it is evident that their reserves cannot be exhausted, but rather that there must still exist a considerable abundance of forces.

"The glorious victories by these troops in the Balkans and in Transylvania, after the heavy fighting on the Somme and in Galicia, further proves that their morale cannot have been lowered by 'systematic pressure,' but rather must have been uplifted.

"That German troops cannot take the offensive when other troops take the offensive in other war theatres simultaneously must be self-evident to every one who knows the extension of the fronts on which Germany fights today. While the English front is only 135 kilometers long and the French 530 kilometers, Germany fights on a front 1,700 kilometers in length.

Says Teutons Hold Balkan Initiative.

"But in the Balkan war theatre, where, according to the unanimous declaration of the Entente, the decision must be reached, the Central Powers have victoriously gained the initiative. There they dictate the law of action to their enemies. The plan of the Entente in the Balkans failed completely in spite of Rumania's entrance into the war.

"Rumania, which was expected to bring a decision for the Entente, is rather a break on their progress and of no advantage, especially since the Russian armies at present, by reason of the complete failure of their offensive in Galicia, in which they suffered enormous losses, are debilitated to such a degree that they are obliged for the time being to leave Rumania to her fate.

"The Entente repeats from time to time the assertion that Germany is exhausted, but this claim is merely empty words and advertising in order to impress neutrals and stimulate their own nations and armies. The victorious defense in the east and west and the energetic offensive of the Central Powers in Transylvania and the Balkans prove better than words the fact that the forces and military superiority of the Central Powers are unshaken.

"England hoped to wear out the German forces by the present offensive on the Somme, but this can now be considered a failure. It is the aggressor who will be worn out more than the defender. The sanguinary figures published recently by The London Daily Mail speak a language that ought to be grave and impressive for Great Britain. Besides, these figures do not contain all the extraordinarily heavy losses suffered during the last three weeks by the British and French in a most terrific battle on the Somme. The wearing out of regiments is a source of serious care, not only for France, which is bled to death already, but also for England, which until now has boasted of its inexhaustible reserves. The Times raises a warning voice.

"How little the Entente has succeeded in exhausting the morale and material forces of Germany by 'uninterrupted systematic pressure' and how little German confidence in victory has been shaken was proved also by the splendid result of the latest war loan. These 10,500,000,000 marks tell the whole world that Germany is fully decided and will carry out the war to a victorious end."

Russia Releases Swedish Ships.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The Russian Government has released twenty-one Swedish vessels which have been held in Russian harbors, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. The release of the ships is the result of negotiations which have been in progress between the two Governments for the last two years.

Germans Eating Polar Bear Meat.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—The flesh of polar bears is being sold in Weiswasser, in Oberlausitz, at 1½ marks the pound. It finds a ready sale, and is declared to be tasty and nourishing.

AEROPLANE DIVED AS ZEPPELIN FELL

Lieut. Tempest Decorated for Aiding Airship's Destruction; Nearly Caught in the Flames.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 14.—The Daily Chronicle, describing the exploit of Lieutenant Wulstan Joseph Tempest in connection with the destruction at Potter's Bar of a Zeppelin on Oct. 1, for which he was awarded the Distinguished Service Order, says:

On the fateful day Tempest finished his regular duties, spending the evening with friends at a dinner party. Before the meal was over a call reached him, and a few minutes later he was back at the aerodrome. He made a speedy start with the idea of intercepting the Zeppelin, which was reported as approaching. He was not satisfied until he reached a height of upward of 10,000 feet. At the end of two hours a searchlight picked out the Zeppelin, and persistently stuck to it, despite its efforts to get beyond the focus of the beam. Soon other searchlights added to the volume of illumination, and the anti-aircraft guns began to pepper at the airship. In a moment a great sheet of fire swept along the Zeppelin, and it began to fall at a speed increasing as the law of gravitation came into play.

"Immediately after the Zeppelin caught fire Tempest traveled the complete length of the airship from stem to stern, being parallel with it all the time. Then he began to descend, but the falling Zeppelin hampered his movements very considerably. Once or twice he narrowly escaped collision with the flaming mass, and in order to avoid this he was compelled to resort to nose-diving, the work being done under tremendous strain. But Tempest fortunately escaped injury of any kind. The spot where he landed was miles away from the place where he had first taken the air."

ATTACK RUSSIAN LINES.

Germans Active North of Pinsk Marshes and in Galicia.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 13.—German troops took the offensive yesterday along the Shara River, in Russia north of the Pinsk Marshes. The War Office announced today that the Germans captured a trench section, but were subsequently expelled with heavy losses. The statement follows:

The Germans last night opened artillery fire on our trenches along the western bank of the River Shara, in the region of the village of Goldovitchi, and later delivered an attack which resulted in the temporary capture of a trench section. The enemy was soon driven out by our counter-attack, being repelled with heavy losses.

In the region southwest of Bubnov our patrols attacked enemy outposts and put them to flight. Our patrols then occupied a trench of the enemy, in which they fortified themselves.

In the region southwest of the village of Svisteliki, on the River Narayuvka, (on the front southeast of Lemberg,) the enemy attempted to dislodge our advance guards, but was repelled by our fire.

In the region of Seletin, on the River Suchava in the wooded Carpathians, an enemy aeroplane was brought down by our rifle fire. The machine caught fire as a result of the fall. The aviator and the observer, who escaped death, were captured.

BERLIN, Oct. 13, (via London.)—The War Office reported today that the situation on the Russian and Galician fronts was unchanged.

LORD CLIVE DIES OF WOUNDS

Heir of Earl of Powis Succumbs to Battle Injuries.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Viscount Clive, (Percy Robert Herbert,) eldest son of the fourth Earl of Powis, died in London today from wounds received in action.

Lord Clive was born on Dec. 2, 1892. He joined the Scots Guards in 1914. In 1915 he was a Lieutenant in the Welsh Guards.

American Ambulances for Saloniki.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—The recently formed section of the American Ambulance Field Service which is to serve with the French army in the Balkans left today for the Saloniki front. It consists of thirty ambulances, with repair cars, a kitchen car, tents and other accessories for service far from the hospital base. The section is under command of Lovering Hill of New York.

Germans Still Fighting in Africa.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 13, (via London.)—A Berlin dispatch says that Dr. W. S. Solf, Secretary of State for the Colonies, replying to a question in the Reichstag regarding the situation in German East Africa, said considerable territory was still held by the Germans, who were offering strong resistance. Thanks to the bravery of the Colonial troops, Germany's enemies had not attained their object. The natives, he said, were quiet.

Teutonic War Relief $19,256.

The Teutonic War Relief Committee reported yesterday that it had collected $907.57 in the week ended on Oct. 13, which, with the amount of $18,349.13 previously acknowledged, made the total collections $19,256.70.

MALONE DERIDES HUGHES'S HINDSIGHT

Collector Answers the Candidate's Louisville Declaration Regarding the Lusitania.

ALSO CALLS IT HYPOCRISY

Recalls Hughes's Praise to Him of the President as "Doing Magnificently."

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, Oct. 13.—Dudley Field Malone, Collector of the Port of New York, made the following statement tonight in reference to the Louisville speech of Charles E. Hughes:

"Mr. Hughes says he would have had the State Department equipped so as to command the respect of the world at the outset of the present Administration. From the beginning and throughout this Administration the State Department at Washington has been better equipped than it was at any time during Mr. Taft's Republican Administration. It was notorious that Mr. Knox was seldom at the State Department, and that the State Department was not only run but completely disorganized by Huntington Wilson, who was left to run the affairs of state, a man who in temperament and ability was utterly incompetent to handle our foreign relations.

"At the beginning of the present Administration Mr. Bryan was not merely Secretary of State, but our foreign relations were handled by President Wilson himself, with Mr. Bryan's advice and counsel of John Bassett Moore, one of the greatest authorities on international law in this country, who was then Counselor to the State Department.

"Mr. Hughes, the candidate, has materially changed his opinion of affairs in Washington, for toward the end of the first four months of the present Administration I met Mr. Justice Hughes on Fifteenth Street in Washington, when I was Assistant Secretary of State. We were friendly, for I had voted for him for Governor of New York State, although I was a Democrat. Justice Hughes, in discussing the new Administration and its difficulties, said:

"'The President is doing magnificently.'

"I told the President at the time of that generous compliment of Judge Hughes. Recently I reminded the President of the remark, and he said he remembered the circumstance very distinctly.

"Hughes says he would have adopted a Mexican policy which would have impressed Germany with the vigor of his determination. Judge Hughes forgets that at the time of the sinking of the Lusitania, Germany was so engrossed in the European war and so loaded with victorious achievements that she wouldn't have been in the least impressed by our policy in Mexico or elsewhere.

"Finally, he says that when the notice was published threatening the sinking of the Lusitania he would have threatened Germany with severance of diplomatic relations. The notice was published anonymously in certain New York papers and merely signed with the words 'German Embassy.' It was published on the Friday morning before the Saturday the Lusitania sailed. No passengers booked for the Lusitania—not even personal friends of the German Ambassador—placed any credence in this anonymous communication, and Mr. Hughes, unfortunately, gives an exhibition of the grossest incompetence by saying that he, as President, would have protested to Germany against an unforeseen event merely on the basis of an anonymous advertisement in a newspaper.

"But the gravest part of his statement is Mr. Hughes's disingenuous hypocrisy. For we all know that a man of his ordinarily sound judgment would never, as the responsible head of this nation, have based a diplomatic protest upon any such flimsy pretext. The men of my Neutrality Squad in the Port of New York, the officers of the Secret Service of the Government, all engaged day and night in running down rumors and plots and counterplots against our neutrality, and I, myself, who spent an hour and a half in inspecting the Lusitania before she sailed, had no reason seriously to suspect that the anonymous notice in the newaper was of any significance.

"If Mr. Hughes's hindsight portrays no better judgment than this, what kind of precarious action could we expect of him as President, when he might be called upon to exercise his foresight?

"Incidentally, it should be remarked that the question asked of Mr. Hughes was, what he would have done when the Lusitania was sunk, and he answered by telling what he would have done before the Lusitania was sunk. Of course, it would have been very embarrassing for Mr. Hughes to answer the questions honestly, because after the Lusitania was sunk he would either have had to argue with Germany through diplomatic correspondence, as President Wilson did, or else Mr. Hughes would have had to sever diplomatic relations with Germany or assumed a warlike attitude toward Germany. But if Mr. Hughes were frankly to say that he would have done the latter, he would at once alienate the hyphenate vote, on which he relies."

ASK $130,000,000 FOR WAR ORPHANS

sisting of nine Directors, to whom will be delegated the details of management of the affairs of the society, subject to the control of the board. There will also be a Finance Committee of five Directors and such other committees as the board may appoint and a committee of members in France. There will be one or more Honorary Vice Presidents, a President, one or more Vice Presidents, a General Manager, a Treasurer, a Secretary, &c.

"The membership is divided into Founders, who will contribute toward the expenses and objects of the society $500 or more per annum; Benefactors, who will contribute $250 per annum, and Sustaining Members, who will contribute $100 per annum. Resignation at any time will terminate further obligation. The by-laws will provide that members may, on joining the society, limit the membership to one or more years.

Will Work With French Society.

"The society will at the outset co-operate with the Association Nationale Française pour la Protection des Familles des Morts pour la Patrie in distributing the funds collected. It will also co-operate with such other organizations in France as may from time to time be approved by the Board of Directors or Executive Committee, and avail of their facilities for investigation and distribution if these be found to be satisfactory.

"It is intended that the dues of members of the society or contributions specifically for that purpose shall provide the expenses of the management and of the collection and distribution of funds, to the end that, in appealing to Americans for donations for the relief of French war orphans the assurance may be given that every dollar contributed will go to the objects of the charity and that no part will be deducted for expenses of any kind, either here or abroad. Such an assurance has been found most desirable, and frequently necessary, in collecting funds given to charity.

"The expenses of administration, collection, investigation, and distribution will unavoidably be large. In order to avoid the delay which would ensue if the administration could not be organized or the work of soliciting, collecting, and distributing funds actively started until the membership in the society was numerous enough to assure adequate funds for these expenses from the dues of members, it was deemed advisable to create an underwriting fund to guarantee these expenses for the first two years. This underwriting is to be callable pro rata by the Board of Directors or Executive Committee of the society from time to time as may be found necessary to meet the current expenses during the first two years, and is to be reimbursable, in the discretion of the Directors, if and whenever the dues by founders, benefactors, and sustaining members or contributions toward expenses become sufficient to enable the society, without impairing its charitable work, to repay, in part or in whole, the advances made by underwriters for expenses.

"It is hoped that in two years the membership will be sufficiently numerous to provide for all operating expenses out of membership dues, and that no guaranty fund for deficit in expenses will thereafter be necessary.

"The following gentlemen, among the members of the society, have agreed to subscribe to the underwriting fund in various amounts, which so far aggregate $125,500:

George F. Baker.	Chas. T. Mathews.
James M. Beck.	Ambrose Monell.
C. N. Bliss, Jr.	Victor Morawetz.
James Byrne.	J. P. Morgan & Co.
T. L. Chadbourne, Jr.	Otis A. Mygatt.
W. H. Childs.	James C. Parrish.
Thomas Cochran.	Seward Prosser.
R. F. Cutting.	P. A. Rockefeller.
C. S. Davison.	Chas. H. Russell.
Joseph P. Grace.	A. L. Scheuer.
Guggenheim Bros.	S. L. Schoonmaker.
W. D. Guthrie.	Charles Steele.
A. J. Hemphill.	James Stillman.
Francis L. Hine.	W. D. Straight.
Otto H. Kahn.	F. A. Vanderlip.
Geo. G. Mason.	G. W. Wickersham.

The certificate of incorporation, having the signatures of the thirty-four Directors, was executed Oct. 11. The officers and members of the society have been brought together without regard to nationality, religion, or politics. With a large number of representative Americans already members it is expected that the society will eventually take in the leading men and women of every part of the United States. Though only a slight knowledge of the proposed work of the society has been made public through its individual members demands for membership are already coming in.

Expression of Gratitude.

The feeling influencing the members to form the organization was put into words by a member yesterday as follows:

"With the object of expressing in a practical way the gratitude that Americans have always felt for the aid given to this country by France during the Revolution, and their sympathy for the French people in their present affliction, the American Society for the Relief of French War Orphans has been incorporated and the organization papers recorded today.

"As Washington declared, the generosity of France to America during the War of the Revolution must inspire every citizen of the States with sentiments of the most unalterable gratitude. The help that Lafayette and Rochambeau gave to this nation at the beginning of its history can never be repaid, but in remembering the personal sacrifices of these heroes whose names are immortal, the fact is often overlooked that the French Government of that day impoverished itself by the expenses of the war with England to secure the independence of the United States. The recollection of Washington's words, our national obligation to France, and American sympathy for the suffering brought upon the French people by the pending war, have been the inspiration of the formation of the American Society for the Relief of French War Orphans."

At the Directors' meeting yesterday twenty of the thirty-four were present. J. P. Morgan, acting Vice President, who is now abroad, was one of the absentees.

HUGHES ASSAILS PROSPERITY OF WAR

It Is "Built on Sand," He Says, Expressing "Serious Apprehension."

ATTACKS THE 8-HOUR LAW

Republican Candidate Receives Many Telegrams of Congratulation for His Lusitania Utterance.

Special to The New York Times.

JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 13.—Charles E. Hughes carried his campaign through the manufacturing and zinc mining sections of Missouri today, basing his plea for votes largely upon an attack on the Adamson bill and the picture he drew of the conditions which would confront this country after the close of the European war unless the Republican policy of protection for American industries was put into effect. He spoke also about the protection of American rights abroad.

Mr. Hughes received many messages today congratulating him upon his utterances in Louisville last night, when he said that had he been President he would have warned Germany, when the threat was made against the Lusitania, of a break in relations, and that the ship would not have been sunk. There was much talk about the address also at the stops made, and verbal congratulations were added to the messages.

Mr. Hughes never failed to get an enthusiastic response when he preached the doctrine of Americanism and added to it the pledge that if elected President he would see that American lives, property, and commerce were protected with respect to all nations throughout the world.

The campaign today carried Mr. Hughes as far as Joplin, and the chief speeches were delivered at Springfield and in this city. There was a brief address at Monett early this evening. At several other stations where no stops were made crowds collected to cheer the nominee as his train passed by. The train was nearly three hours behind schedule, and in an effort to make up some of the lost time dashed along over the Southern Railroad and Frisco Lines at record speed.

S. H. Borah, a cousin of Senator Borah, was the conductor in charge of the train while it was passing over the Southern Railroad. He went back to Mr. Hughes's car to explain that the delay had been caused by the breaking down of a freight engine and to apologize. They had a long conversation, during which Borah told Mr. Hughes that he was a member of the Railroad Men's Republican Club of Princeton, Ind.

"At first," he said, "many of the fellows felt that they would vote for President Wilson, but since they have come to understand the Adamson bill they are going to vote for you. As I said, we are with you because we think President Wilson has injured the cause of labor more by his bill than he has helped it."

Mr. Hughes was greatly pleased with his reception at all of the stops today. His attacks upon the Adamson bill were well received even in the railroad centre of Springfield, and he went into the topic there in considerable detail. In his address here tonight Mr. Hughes said in part:

Prosperity "Built on Sand."

"No thoughtful American can view our present economic condition without serious apprehension. We are under the unhealthy stimulus of the European war. Hopes are raised which cannot be fulfilled. Our present prosperity is built on sand. Our exports have jumped to fabulous figures because of the withdrawal from production of the millions of men abroad who are engaged in fighting. Our trade is not determined by conditions of normal competition, but of an abnormal European want. Munitions of war are but a fraction of these suddenly expanded exports. For everything we produce, foodstuffs, metals, manufactured articles of every sort, Europe puts forth her hands to fill the void created by her extremity.

"The resulting employment of labor on an unprecedented scale and increased purchasing power stimulate trade throughout the country. The intoxicated fancy may indulge in happy dreams, but the sober thought of the country is directed to the day when this stimulant will be no longer available. You cannot have our exports suddenly jump hundreds per cent., in some cases thousands per cent., and ignore either the cause or the effect of its removal.

"What will be our condition when the war is over? In the first place a large amount of labor employed at high wages will lose that employment. The demand which it is now supplying will cease. The mere stoppage of the manufacture of munitions will mean in itself a serious change in the opportunities of labor. When the millions of men in the trenches return to production, our exports of manifold products will fall tremendously, even as they have risen tremendously. Think of the percentage of American labor now profitably employed in making Europe's necessities created by the existence of war. What will occur when those necessities no longer exist?

"The labor now devoted to that abnormal demand must compete with the labor satisfying the normal opportunities of American trade. The change will be reflected in diminished purchasing power. I do not desire to exaggerate. There is enough to give us serious thought without exaggeration. America, with Europe at peace, will not have the opportunity of America with Europe at war. And the difference will be most keenly felt.

Predicts Active Competition.

"We shall not simply lose opportunities for labor. We shall have the active competition resulting from the resumption of foreign production. War factories are established with a view to being easily changed into peace factories. Thus, as recently stated in a bulletin of the Chamber of Commerce of Paris, the large war factories in the neighborhood of Lyons, St. Etienne, Roanne, and Annonay will be after the war converted into works for various manufacture.

"Engineers and workmen now making explosives will be able with the same machinery to make products used in peaceful trade. Powerful associations, such as the Syndicate, grouping together different societies in the coal, metal, dyeing and weaving trades, have been formed. It is this commendable planning and foresight of which this is only an illustration which will make war factories, not only in France, but in Germany and England, productive after the war ends."

In another part of his speech Mr. Hughes said:

"The old spirit is still with America, and it is not a friend of America who allows that spirit to be misunderstood. If you invite insults and indignities and give the idea that America will stand for them, you are simply heaping up opportunities for difficulties and struggles instead of peace.

"I want to sum up what I have to say in these words: First, I want to see America prosperous and contented, with a just distribution of a prosperity well secured by proper protective policies.

"I want to see the American flag the symbol of righteousness, the symbol of power, the symbol of dignity, of protected citizenship. And I want to see this nation girded with a desire to serve humanity but realizing that it can serve no one throughout the world unless it respects itself."

In concluding, Mr. Hughes said:

"I desire to see encouragement to American enterprise here and abroad. There is much to be accomplished in perfecting organization to advance American trade. We should not hamper it by any arbitrary restrictions. Let us define and punish evil, but let us not throttle honest business."

Mr. Hughes left here at 11:30 o'clock. He will campaign in Nebraska tomorrow, with a night meeting at Lincoln.

MARSHALL CHIDES HUGHES.

Inquires Why, as Justice, He Didn't Advise the President.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 13.—Thomas R. Marshall, Vice President of the United States, was asked to give his opinion today of Charles E. Hughes's answer in Louisville last night to the question regarding the Lusitania.

"I would not have eaten the apple in the Garden of Eden, either," he said. "It is usually easier to tell what you would have done after a thing is all over than it would have been at the time. It is easy for Mr. Hughes to say what he would have done, because it is not within the power of human intelligence to tell what one man would have done had he been in another's place. He may think he would have done otherwise, but he doesn't know it.

"Mr. Hughes was Associate Justice of the Supreme Court when the Lusitania was sunk. Why did not he as Associate Justice with his great sweeping knowledge of international law advise the President. That would have been the patriotic thing to do as long as he was a part of the Government."

ATTACKS HUGHES'S REPLY.

Secretary Baker Scoffs at Statement on Lusitania Incident.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Oct. 13.—Mexico is going through just such a revolution as America had for thirteen years after 1776. It has its troubles, as America had her troubles in her Revolution, and Mexico will thank President Wilson in its future history for keeping his hands off."

This statement was made tonight by Secretary of War Baker to an audience of 2,000 persons, who filled the Stamford Theatre building. He reviewed the work of the Wilson Administration and contended it was the greatest in the world's history. Speaking of Mr. Hughes, Mr. Baker said that the Republicans had nominated "incarnate silence" or else the Sphinx itself for their leader. He dwelt on "the changes of mind and policy and exhibitions of ex-President Roosevelt" and said that even now Roosevelt, Hughes and Taft could not agree on handshaking.

"The papers say," he said, "that Mr. Hughes at last spoke out, yesterday, and they rejoice heart-feelingly, it seems, at it. How did he speak out? In answer to a man's question of what he would have done in case the Lusitania had been sunk when he was President, he told the man that he would have been such a pleasant man in the White House that nobody would have dreamed of being so impolite to him."

Mr. Baker made an eloquent plea for a continuance of "honorable peace" and he said that every time he passed a young man in the street he felt a thrill and said reverently to himself, "Saved!"

ELECTION BETTING ACTIVE.

More Wilson Money Offered at Varying Odds.

Betting on election results in the financial district yesterday brought out more Wilson money than had been reported before, and a number of large wagers were made. Stock Exchange members told of one bet made on the floor of $700 for Wilson against $1,000 put up by a Hughes backer. Another wager of $3,000 by a Stock Exchange man on the President's chances of re-election against $5,000 on Mr. Hughes was reported. These two transactions indicated irregularity of odds which was also in evidence on the Curb.

Early in the day Curb brokers said that $25,000 was available to be bet on Wilson at 1 to 2, but supporters of the Republican candidate asked 8 to 5. J. J. Judge, a Curb broker, bet $4,000 for a Stock Exchange house on Wilson against $6,400. Another line on the mixed odds was supplied by Edward McQuade in the open air market, who said he had $800 to wager on the President against $1,000 Hughes money.

KELLER TO CAMPAIGN HERE.

Norman Hapgood's Correspondent to Talk for Wilson.

The Democratic National Committee has arranged to have Kent E. Keller campaign in this State for the next three weeks. Mr. Keller is the Illinois State Senator who wrote Norman Hapgood that Victor Ridder of the Staats-Zeitung had hinted he was to write a speech for Charles E. Hughes regarding British interference with American mails.

Senator Keller has been campaigning for the Democratic ticket in the West, and will arrive here tomorrow. The leaders believe that, because of his German parentage, he will be of special value in explaining just what the Administration's attitude to the German-American population is.

Mr. Hapgood, Acting Chairman of the Woodrow Wilson Independent League, outlined yesterday the campaign arguments that Senator Keller would make. He said:

"He calls attention to the fact that, if the President had not been so cool and so wise, this country might well have been at war with Germany today. The injury to the country of a campaign against our President, based on racial grounds, will be much emphasized by Senator Keller."

DISCUSS CAPTIVES' STATUS.

Reichstag Members Propose an Agreement with France.

BERLIN, Oct. 13, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—Discussion of the situation as regards German prisoners of war and interned civilians was continued early today in the main committee of the Reichstag. According to the Overseas News Agency's report of the proceedings, the Chancellor was asked by a member to obtain an agreement with the French Government along the following lines:

"Women and children and men over 45 years of age who are still detained by the French Government in spite of the convention of January, 1916, shall be repatriated.

"The age limit for men to be repatriated shall be lowered from 55 to 45 years.

"The scandalous abuses in several of the French prison camps, especially that of Chartreuse, shall be abolished."

GEN. SCOTT'S OFFICERS DINE

That War, Says Wood, Took Men Away from Wives and Politics.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Aztec Club of 1847 at the University Club last evening, General Leonard Wood said the Mexican war was one of our most brilliant campaigns because the men got far enough away to sever the ties of politics and far enough away from their wives to know what to do.

The club is composed of the surviving officers of the army of General Winfield Scott. General G. H. Gilson, the toastmaster, entered West Point seventy-four years ago. Colonel Asa Bird Gardiner and Col. William C. Church also spoke.

Colonel Gardiner said that a reading of the messages to Congress of Presidents Jackson, Van Buren, and Polk shows that the Mexican situation in their day was practically identical with the Mexican situation today.

General Gilson was elected President of the club. He is 90 years old, and one of seven surviving officers of the campaign of 1847.

Carlisle, Indians for Wilson Stump.

Green Choate Choctow of the Carlisle Indian School has written William H. Edwards, Secretary of the National Woodrow Wilson College Men's League, that he has organized a Wilson-Marshall Club, and, with a number of other Carlisle students, is going on the stump for the President. Green Choate Choctow comes from Valliant, Oklahoma, and he wrote that the President would carry Oklahoma by a large majority.

REGISTRATION FALLS BECAUSE OF THE RAIN

FIFTH DAY'S FIGURES 75,944

Booths Open from 7 A. M. to 10:30 P. M. Today, Which Will Be the Best Chance to Register.

There was a decided slump in the registration yesterday. It was felt in Republican as well as Democratic districts throughout the city. In all the five boroughs there were 21,372 fewer voters registered than on the fifth day of registration last year, an off year in politics. For all that, the total for five days this year exceeds the total for the same registration period last year by 60,758.

The political leaders who ascribed yesterday's falling off to the bad weather in the two first hours the booths were open believe that today's registration will bring the grand total for the year up to a satisfactory figure.

The total registration for the five boroughs yesterday was 75,944, and the grand total for the five days this year 526,974.

Brooklyn showed the biggest falling off on the fifth day. In that borough the registration was 8,150 below that of the fifth day last year. The decrease in Manhattan was 6,822; in the Bronx, 2,540; in Queens, 2,709, and in Richmond 1,151.

60,758 Ahead of Last Year.

This table shows the increase in the total registration for the five first days this year over the first five days a year ago:

Manhattan	26,671
Brooklyn	19,216
Bronx	10,578
Queens	4,254
Richmond	39
Total	60,758

Here is the table giving the registration yesterday and the registration for five days this year, as compared with the corresponding period last year, by boroughs and Assembly districts:

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Former Judge Samuel Seabury told voters in Rome, Beacon, and this city today that he had left the Court of Appeals to seek election as Governor because he wanted to be "the attorney of the people and correct abuses that have come to my attention on the bench." Mr. Seabury was received with applause, especially when he spoke in praise of President Wilson and the National Administration.

The candidate spoke of the executive budget, the taxation of franchises, the Stivers law giving the Governor powers of conscription in times of peace, and the workmen's compensation law, and made frequent references to the present State administration.

"I don't take up these subjects concerning Governor Whitman's administration," he declared, "just because I want to criticise, but because I have a definite remedy to suggest for each of these abuses. No one realizes more fully than I do the difficult problems which would confront me were I elected, but I want to say that I am going to do just exactly the things I say I am, and, during this campaign, I am going to discuss them in words that will leave no doubt of my intention. I want to take up the sword against the agent of special privilege. I know the trickery by which the big public service corporations have evaded paying taxes, and I propose to show up that trickery and put the taxes on a just basis."

At Rome, which was Mr. Seabury's first stop after leaving Auburn, he addressed a gathering made up mostly of munitions workers, and was loudly applauded. He did not reach Beacon and this city until evening, and, after delivering speeches, left for Garrison to spend the night with William Church Osborn, former Chairman of the Democratic State Committee. Tomorrow he will make an automobile tour of Westchester County, ending with a night meeting at Yonkers.

WILSON TO ATTACK REPUBLICANS TODAY

Will Talk to a Great Delegation from Pennsylvania at Shadow Lawn.

READS REPORT ON U-BOAT

His Reception in Indianapolis Showed His Personal Popularity in the Hoosier State.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 13.—President Wilson returned to Shadow Lawn from Indianapolis shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon. It was announced today that he had decided to speak in Buffalo on Oct. 30, and in New York City on Oct. 31. Both speeches, in accordance with the policy marked out at the beginning of the campaign, will be before non-partisan organizations.

As soon as the President arrived here he read reports received from Washington on the investigation made by the Navy Department into the German submarine attacks off the American coast last Sunday. Later in the afternoon he and Mrs. Wilson went golfing and were caught in a severe rainstorm.

The President will speak at Shadow Lawn tomorrow to a big delegation of Pennsylvanians. At least 3,000 are expected to come for "Pennsylvania Day." They will be led by National Chairman Vance McCormick. This will be the third of the President's series of porch addresses at Shadow Lawn, which he will keep up all through the campaign. Mr. Wilson is expected to be as aggressive in his attacks on the Republicans as in the last two Shadow Lawn speeches.

The vanguard of Pennsylvanians began arriving tonight. A. Mitchell Palmer, Democratic National Committeeman from Pennsylvania, who will introduce the President at the meeting, said the main delegation would come here on eight special trains, accompanied by seven bands. Because of rain here today, arrangements were made for the President to speak to the delegation in a Long Branch theatre if it rains tomorrow.

The President's advisers are feeling very well satisfied on the whole with the reception he got in Indianapolis yesterday, and they are thoroughly confident that he has a good chance of carrying Indiana. They realize, however, that in spite of yesterday's enthusiasm he has several serious obstacles to overcome which are not to be found in any other Middle Western State. The chief of these is the exceptionally strong Republican State organization.

The Republican State Committee, under the leadership of Will H. Hayes, has succeeded better, according to local politicians in Indianapolis, than that of any other State in regaining the power which was lost at the time of the Republican split in 1912. This was conceded in Indianapolis yesterday by both Democratic and Republican State leaders. The influential Progressives have apparently all returned to the Republican ranks. Democratic leaders in Indiana placed against this the strong non-partisan personal following of the President, and the opposition to any change which they say is natural to conservative Indiana. They believe the President has obtained enough popular support to carry him through, regardless of the strong organization of the opposition. His vote in 1912 was 30,000 less than the combined votes of Roosevelt and Taft.

At the big meeting which the President addressed in the State Fair grounds yesterday, a farmer in the audience was asked by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent how he regarded the political situation. His reply was "Wilson will carry the State." Asked for his reasons, he said the farmers were all going to vote for him because "the country is in safe hands now—why should we change?" He called himself a Republican. The Democratic campaign managers are basing a large part of their hope for the State on the belief that remarks like this indicate the trend of the silent vote.

Democratic leaders estimated that the President will run 15,000 votes ahead of Senator Taggart, who is opposed by a strong candidate in Harry New, former Republican State Chairman.

A SECOND BROTHER KILLED.

De Marco's Murdered Body Found in Vacant Lot in Astoria.

Enemies of Salvatore De Marco, whose brother Joseph M. was killed three weeks ago, have murdered him just as the police feared they would. Salvatore De Marco's body, with the throat cut and the skull smashed, was found in a vacant lot in Washington Avenue near William Street, Astoria, yesterday. A police dog failed to find any of the slayers owing to the falling rain.

The De Marco brothers were in the restaurant business in Manhattan. Joseph was shot and killed in a saloon at 54 James Street. Last Wednesday Salvatore sold the restaurant and went to Brooklyn, and his relatives did not see him again alive. It is the police belief that he was lured to the spot where he was killed.

The police say De Marco was arrested about a year ago and sentenced to Blackwell's Island for carrying a revolver, and on Sept. 15 he was again arrested, charged with robbery and assault, but was discharged later.

POISONED FISH KILLS TWO.

Family Stricken at Dinner, and Only the Children Escape.

Mrs. Esther Maher, 39 years old, of 312 West 120th Street, and her brother, John Levell, 55 years old, of the same address died last night, and Martin Maher, her husband, is in a serious condition with ptomaine poisoning after a fish dinner at their apartment.

Levell reached home shortly after 7 o'clock and he and Mr. and Mrs. Maher dined at about 9 o'clock. The two small children of Mrs. Maher were not given any of the fish, their supper consisting of eggs. At the conclusion of the dinner the children played about the apartment, and Levell complained of feeling sharp pains in his stomach. Mrs. Maher also complained of pains, and as Maher went about the apartment trying to relieve his stricken family he himself was taken ill. Meanwhile the children, all unsuspicious of the impending disaster, continued in their play.

A neighbor called at 10 o'clock and found the three in their beds, all suffering great agony. He called Patrolman Strong of the West 123d Street Police Station, who summoned an ambulance from Knickerbocker Hospital. Dr. Somers examined Levell and pronounced him dead of ptomaine poisoning. Maher was not unconscious, but in great agony, so Dr. Somers left a prescription to be administered to him, and placing Mrs. Maher in the ambulance, rushed her to the hospital. As the ambulance was pulling into the hospital yard Mrs. Maher died.

Musical Union Elects Officers.

At the annual election of officers of the Musical Mutual Protective Union, Local 310, with a membership of 6,000, held last night in Yorkville Casino, the following officers were elected: President, D. Edward Porter; Vice President, S. Finkelstein; Treasurer, I. Rosenberg; Secretary, Frank Evans; Financial Secretary, C. C. Halle; Trustees, Nick Briglio and George Schroeder; Executive Committee—Joseph Abrahams, Victor Baravalle, Edward Canavan, Ernest Clarke, Henry Friedman, Henry M. Kilgast, Max M. Richter; Manager Discount Fund, J. H. Bernstein; delegate to the Central Federated Union in Manhattan, W. A. Roche; delegate to the Central Federated Union in Brooklyn, Herman Schmidt; delegates to the American Federation of Music, Nick Briglio and C. H. Hackert.

Germans to Act a Tolstoy Drama.

The first performance in America of a drama by Leo Tolstoy, entitled "Der Lebende Leichnam," ("The Living Corpse,") will be given next Wednesday night at the Irving Place Theatre. The manuscript of the play was found among the Russian author's effects after his death. He left a request that the play should not be printed or performed until after the death of several well known Russians who had furnished him with the idea of the play and had unconsciously sat as models for the chief characters. Rudolf Christians, Grete Meyer and Heinrich Marlow will play the principal rôles. "Wie Einst im Mai," the musical comedy current at the Irving Place, will be transferred to the Bandbox on Wednesday.

POLK SAYS HE BACKED THE DEFENSE PARADE

Denies Administration Sent Him to Call Off Demonstration in This City.

GAVE ADVICE TO SHERRILL

State Department Counselor Cites Telegram to Prove He Wanted Congressmen to March.

Frank L. Polk, Counselor of the State Department, who came from Washington yesterday to register, denied that he had represented the Wilson Administration in a conference at the Mayor's office last Spring in an effort to have the preparedness parade of May 13 called off on the ground that it might be offensive to German-Americans.

In a statement given out on Thursday by Charles H. Sherrill, organizer of the preparedness parade, it was charged that about two weeks before the date set for the parade Mr. Sherrill had been told in Mayor Mitchel's office that a long distance telephone message had been received from the Administration in Washington "urging that the parade be abandoned on the ground that it would irritate our American citizens of German birth or descent, might cause riots in the streets, and, therefore, be most undesirable." While Mr. Sherrill did not mention Mr. Polk in his statement, it was reported that the latter was in the Mayor's office at the time of the conference.

"The only relation we had with the preparedness parade was to boost it, for we considered it a good thing," said Mr. Polk yesterday.

Mr. Polk said he called Mr. Sherrill on the telephone yesterday and told him that he had never been at any such conference as Mr. Sherrill described, and that he, Sherrill, ought to know it. Mr. Polk said that Mr. Sherrill replied that his understanding of the matter was that Mr. Polk was not present, and that he could not understand how Mr. Polk's name had been brought into it.

Mr. Polk also said he never carried any message from Washington in regard to the meeting in Carnegie Hall to protest against the sinking of the Lusitania.

In order to show that, instead of trying to stop the preparedness parade, Mr. Polk was actually in favor of having it, there was made public in Washington yesterday this copy of a telegram sent by Mr. Polk to Mr. Sherrill on the day before the parade:

> Charles Sherrill,
> 80 Broad Street, New York City.
> Take liberty of suggesting you invite Congressional delegation of Greater New York to parade. It will have much more influence on Congress if you do. Would be a great mistake to ignore them.
> FRANK L. POLK.

Mr. Polk said that the only reason he could see for Mr. Sherrill's statement was that Mr. Sherrill's name had not been on the front pages of the newspapers lately.

WILSON CLUB AT PRINCETON.

Eddie Dillon Helps Organize Undergraduates Who Will Take Stump.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 13.—Undergraduates prominent in the activities of the campus life of Princeton University organized a Wilson Club this evening. Eddie Dillon, former Captain and star quarter back of the Princeton eleven several years ago, took an active interest in organizing the undergraduate body. A number of members of the Faculty, including Professor Edwin Conklin, the well-known biologist, were present and will take part in the campaign in the interest of Wilson.

It is the intention of the club to send some of the undergraduates on the stump for the President. Jack Scully, the first baseman of the Tiger nine and son of Representative Scully of New Jersey, was among the numerous athletes of Princeton present at the meeting. William G. McAdoo, Jr., son of the Secretary of the Treasury, is also interested in the boom which is backed by the National Democratic Committee of Washington. The club will attempt to have "Big Bill" Edwards, who was a famous Princeton football star, address the undergraduates in the near future.

PRESIDENT ASSAILED BY BACON IN LETTER

Wilson Told That His Charge of Unneutrality Arrays Class Against Class.

QUIZZED ABOUT BELGIUM

Asked to State Publicly His Attitude on That Subject and as to Future "Watchful Waiting."

Robert Bacon, former United States Ambassador to France and late candidate for the nomination for United States Senator in the Republican primaries, made public yesterday an open letter to President Wilson in which he takes the President to task severely for charging him with avowed unneutrality, and those who supported him and the Republicans in general with intentions, if victorious, of reversing the peaceful policy of President Wilson.

Mr. Bacon previously replied to the President's charges in a statement which was published in THE NEW YORK TIMES last Monday. In his open letter, made public last night, he elaborates on what he said, in his statement, and adds a challenge to President Wilson publicly to state his attitude with regard to the German invasion of Belgium and to say whether, if re-elected, his Mexican policy will be one of continued "watchful waiting."

He also criticises the military defense act passed by the present Congress and approved by President Wilson as one that falls far short of its purpose.

Mr. Bacon's Letter.

The letter says in part:

I speak for myself, and I believe that I speak for the men who voted for me, and for many others, when I say that loyal Americans all over the country have been shocked, Sir, to read in your speeches at Shadow Lawn statements which tend to set class against class, and to implant bitterness and distrust in the hearts and minds of those who hear you or read your attacks.

The statement that a large number of your fellow-citizens, because they condemn your weak, vacillating, policy, wish to plunge this country into the horrors of war, is preposterous.

I have maintained that official neutrality was the obvious and bounden duty of this Government. You must be perfectly aware that no responsible person has suggested anything else. I have repeatedly condemned the wanton violation of Belgium. May I ask you, Sir, as a candidate, to state unequivocally your position on this subject? Every nation entitled to the right to exist, by the law of nations, is entitled to have that right respected and protected by all other nations.

When Germany was repeatedly violating international law, in the conduct of her submarine warfare, you sent a note saying that this Government would hold Germany to "strict accountability" for further violations. "Strict accountability" is one of the strongest, most threatening phrases permissible in diplomatic language. There were repeated further violations, but Germany was not held to any accountability.

Three days after the Lusitania outrage you used publicly the phrase "Too proud to fight," which has brought shame to American citizens throughout the world. You demanded, after delay, a complete disavowal by Germany of the act of sinking the Lusitania. It is seventeen months since innocent men, women, and children were killed on the Lusitania, but Germany has never disavowed the act nor punished her responsible agents. The Lusitania case remains unsettled.

In regard to Mexico, will you repeat, as a candidate, that, if elected, your policy will still be one of "watchful waiting"? For what have you been waiting? Through your Admiral in command, you, as Commander in Chief of the Navy, ordered that the American flag be saluted at Vera Cruz. That salute has never been given, although American sailors, landing on Mexican soil under your orders, were killed. Do you intend that there shall be any accountability for the killing of these men? This bullying threat to poor revolution-torn, distracted Mexico should never have been sent. Rather should there have have been from the first days of blundering in 1913 sympathy and understanding and firmness in our moral and physical support.

You ordered American soldiers into Mexico to capture Villa. Villa has not been captured. They are halted there now and have been for many months. Will you send them forward or bring them back? American soldiers acting under your orders were killed by the soldiers of Carranza. What reparation will there be for the loss of the lives of these men who were following out your commands, but who should never have been sent on this expedition? You have said that you would not "butt in" in Mexico. The phrase is your own. How do you explain, then, twice sending American troops into that country?

Will you continue to permit the shipment of arms and ammunition to Carranza as you permitted, then refused, then pemitted shripments to Villa?

How can you justify your policy of indecision—of a step forward and then a step back—when, while you have been waiting, more Americans have been killed in Mexico than were killed during the war with Spain? How do you reconcile your plea that a policy of procrastination will keep us out of war when we have twice been at war with Mexico during your Administration and are virtually at war with that country today?

You gave to the people the present Military Defense act. You seek to have them believe that by its means you have put the nation in a state of preparedness. The law is condemned by all impartial althorities as inadequate. It has not the approval of the General Staff of the army. It puts the National Guard into politics. It thrusts into the National Guard the undermining influence of political patronage and governmental pay. It perpetuates in more dangerous form the dual system of control, with divided responsibility between the State and the nation, which has been a fatal defect of our system of national defense. It fails to increase the army. The army, in spite of active recruiting for Mexico, is practically no larger now than it was when you signed the bill. Under the guise of a measure for national preparedness this act lulls the aroused sentiment of the people by giving to them a false sense of security.

Do you defend the clause inserted by Mr. Hay, the father of the bill and your spokesman on the floor of the House, which created a lucrative army office in such terms that only one man in the whole United States can fill it? That man is from Mr. Hay's own State. Is it not fair to judge the insincerity of the law which you signed by this audacious trifling with the temper of the people who demanded a serious measure for the national defense?

The contention that you or the Democratic Administration has kept this country out of war is specious and unfounded in fact. Vacillation, timidity, weakness in asserting our rights, inability to perform our duties, confusion of words, a constant change of attitude, threats unsupported, cannot possibly keep this nation or any other out of war. It is the fear of those who will vote against you that such conduct of our foreign affairs will inevitably lead us into war. A strong, determined, clear policy can alone preserve for this country the respect of other nations, which will insure peace.

THINKS LABOR VOTES FIRM.

Miners' Leader Skeptical About Roosevelt's Wilkes-Barre Speech.

James Lord, President of the Mining Department of the American Federation of Labor, predicted yesterday that Colonel Roosevelt's speech at Wilkes-Barre tonight would not alienate workingmen's votes from President Wilson.

"This is the supreme effort of the Hughes people to break the solid ranks of labor," said Mr. Lord. "They realize that the nation's wage earners are united politically this year as never before in the history of the country, and they are counting on Mr. Roosevelt's personal popularity and plausible professions as the one and only forlorn hope of preventing a landslide for Wilson in every industrial centre of the country.

"The anthracite miners at Wilkes-Barre may give the Colonel a cordial greeting because they like him personally, although even this is doubtful. They cannot forget that he is asking votes for the man who signed the Danbury Hatters' decision as Judge and attacked the eight-hour law as candidate. Workingmen have little patience with legal quibbling and technicalities. All the analyzing and hair-splitting of which Mr. Hughes is capable will never make them lose sight of the one big fact that Wilson is the first President to come out flat for the eight-hour day and that he has thrown all the influence of his great office behind the movement to extend justice to all industry. That is what President Wilson has done and they cannot belittle it or explain it away."

LAST DAY TO REGISTER.

Today is the last day of registration. To vote at the coming election and to enroll so as to be able to vote in next year's direct primaries you must first register. The polls are open from 7 o'clock this morning until 10:30 this evening. Register today.

Polonius knew a thing or two about Men's Clothing when he said:

"Costly thy Habit as thy Purse can buy,
But not expressed in Fancy, Rich not Gaudy,
For the apparel oft proclaims the man."

Thus counseled the sagacious Polonius, and well does his argument fit in with ours in these clothing talks. A man may please his fancy here with ready-to-wear clothing of fine woolens and at the price he may elect to pay.

It is our business to know the style of clothing a man wants and we have assiduously followed our trade.

The styles, cuts or models, call them what you will, are here in varieties large enough to please all.

And they are not merely written-about-styles, such as any coat hanging upon a good form may be remarked to have. When we speak of style we mean the "style" of the suit and the man together.

This is a style age for men

But to build a good suit there must be a foundation of principle plus materials.

Macy's Men's Clothing today, at $34.75 or $14.75, and in-between, has the same lines, the same style and the same all wool standards. The difference in the prices is in the tailoring and woolen values. So whether a man pays $14.75 or $34.75 he gets more for his money than he can buy elsewhere in any store or shop where ready-to-wear clothes are waiting to be sold.

We Suggest: Pay at Least $19.75 If You Can

$24.75 Suits
A little better than the suits usually sold elsewhere for more money. For men of all sizes, tastes and ages. The equal of some custom made suits.

Suits at $19.75
Good, practical suits for weekdays and Sundays. Built right of good materials. Sensible styles for all men. Two suits at $19.75 is far-seeing economy as compared with one at double the price.

$29.75 Suits
The tailoring in these suits is the prominent feature. If you are "touchy" about the width of your collar, the point of a lapel, these suits answer to their name when called.

$17.50 Suits
An in-between price for a firstrate suit. All wool, of course. Well made of non-tiresome patterns. We could say more good things about these suits, but the best words to describe them is—See them.

$14.75 Suits
All wool and made up in the styles men will want. Not a few men have judged these suits to be worth around $20. We are satisfied to sell them for $14.75.

$22.50 Suits
Father and son can find a suit to suit each of their tastes at this price and the tailoring and material are good.

$34.75 Suits
One of a kind in a size. Slightly "different" models of the finest woolens. The only difference between these suits and a good made-to-order garment is that you may see how they look on you before deciding to buy.

DENY STONE SPEECH AS ABELES GIVES IT

Von Schenk and Kohlmeier, Who Were at Conference, Say He Merely "Talked."

ALL SAT AROUND A TABLE

Discussion Called Conversational and the Senator Declared to Have Been Quizzed.

Otto von Schenk, a lawyer of 24 Broad Street, who was one of eight to attend an all-night conference with United States Senator William J. Stone of Missouri on Sept. 16, mentioned in a recent statement by Victor F. Ridder of the Staats-Zeitung, at which the attitude of President Wilson toward Germany was under discussion, said last night that Senator Stone did not deliver, on that occasion, a speech made public on Thursday by Henry Abeles of the Germania Life Insurance Company.

"Senator Stone made no such speech as Mr. Abeles gave out," said Mr. von Schenk. "I marveled, when I read it this morning, at the memory some one must have possessed to put what Senator Stone said in such excellent form.

"Senator Stone talked, and we interrupted him constantly with questions, which he answered very painstakingly. My impression was that he was coming as an emissary of the Democratic Administration to ascertain what our grievances were concerning President Wilson's attitude and what could be done to appease our injured feelings.

"I was favorably impressed by some things he said. I understand he was to have delivered a speech such as the one given out at the Arion Club, but the Directors thought it was not advisable."

Joseph M. Kohlmeier, a hardware merchant residing at 202 East Fiftieth Street, also declared that the speech made public by Mr. Abeles had not been delivered at the Terrace Garden conference, which he, too, attended.

"He merely talked across the table, and we constantly broke in with questions," said Mr. Kohlmeier. "I don't think Stone's talk changed a single vote. He did not convince us, and when he left he seemed to be a very disappointed man."

RIDICULED BY GERMAN PAPER.

St. Louis Amerika Defends Stone and Rails at Ridder.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 13.—The statement of Victor F. Ridder that Senator William J. Stone, at a dinner in New York, had sought to gain favor with the German-Americans by saying that the President's policies toward Germany were intended only for home consumption, has gained only ridicule even from the German press here.

The Amerika, a St. Louis morning German paper, in commenting on the incident today, said: "The attack on Senator Stone by Mr. Ridder gives proof anew that certain people who think themselves called upon to be the leaders of the German spirit in the country cannot withstand the impulse to make themselves ridiculous. Whoever knows Senator Stone knows he is not a man who would so easily burn his mouth, not the man who would expose Mr. Wilson.

"The announcement is so decidedly equivocal that no right-thinking person can doubt that Mr. Ridder must have understood him incorrectly. Other guests at the dinner do not seem to remember that Senator Stone made this statement. The host of the evening, Mr. Abeles, to whom this attack must be very embarrasing, hastened to assure Senator Stone that he had heard nothing of the kind. Mr. Ridder, at any rate, made himself ridiculous by trying to win favor with the Republicans at the expense of Senator Stone."

MUZZLE LAW FOR JERSEY.

Mad Dog Scare Causes Mayor of Atlantic City to Take Action.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 13.—According to a proclamation issued by Mayor Harry Bacharach today all dogs in this town must be muzzled or kept within the house for the next thirty days. This is because ten dogs have been killed and eleven others have been put under inspection following an attack made by two dogs said to be suffering from rabies upon persons in this place and Somers Point.

Seven persons are now taking the Pasteur treatment as a result of the mad dog scare.

GERARD FINDS BALM IN WAR'S DELAYS

Never Got Questions F. D. Roosevelt Sent Him When They Were Rival Candidates.

NOW THEY LUNCH TOGETHER

Ambassador Calls at Democratic Headquarters, but Declines to Discuss Political Situation.

James W. Gerard, the American Ambassador to Germany, who arrived in this country a few days ago on leave of absence from Berlin, called at the Democratic National Headquarters in the Forty-second Street Building yesterday afternoon.

Among those who shook hands with the Ambassador was Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Two years ago they were rival candidates in the Democratic primaries for the nomination for United States Senator, and in his speeches Mr. Roosevelt announced that he had asked the Ambassador in Berlin these questions by cable:

"If elected Senator will you consent to Mr. Murphy's continued control of New York Democracy, or will you maintain a diplomatic neutrality, or will you actively work to eliminate him?

"If the war continues after March 4 next, or if American interests require your remaining in Berlin, where will you consider your duty lies, in Washington or Berlin?"

Yesterday the Ambassador and Mr. Roosevelt joked about the questions, the former remarking:

"When you announce hereafter that you have put questions to me by telegraph, please see that you send the telegram first. I never received the message you talked so much about in your speeches."

"Well, I sent it," insisted Mr. Roosevelt, "or, at least, I filed it with the telegraph company, and have the receipt. Maybe I had better sue the telegraph company."

"Well, I only hope," continued Mr. Gerard, "that when you become Secretary of the Navy you will manage to expedite our ships better than you did that telegram."

The two men then went to luncheon together.

Mr. Gerard while at the headquarters thanked Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey, and now Treasurer of the National Committee, for participation in the welcome extended to Mr. Gerard on his arrival. Mr. Gerard then called on National Chairman Vance McCormick. When asked to express an opinion on the campaign the Ambassador said:

"As an admirer of President Wilson I am, of course, anxious to see him re-elected, but as an Ambassador, representing all the people in this country, I can, of course, not participate in partisan politics. I expect to see the President some day next week, but the time has not yet been fixed. Meanwhile I am enjoying a holiday and keeping silent."

Later in the day William G. Sharp, Ambassador to France, who is also in this country on a vacation, called at Democratic headquarters. Mr. Sharp has been in Ohio recently, and he told Chairman McCormick that that State was sure to go for President Wilson.

Song Recital at Tuxedo for French.

Mrs. Charles B. Alexander will open her Tuxedo villa at 4 o'clock this afternoon for a song recital by the Duchess de Richelieu for the benefit of the French tuberculosis soldiers. The members of the French Tuberculosis Soldiers' Relief Committee include the Duchess de Richelieu, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Miss Louisa Lee Schuyler, Joseph H. Choate, Robert Bacon, Willard D. Straight, Adrian Iselin, W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., F. R. Coudert, A. D. Juilliard, Dr. Henry Shively, and Dr. Welch. Mrs. Richard Mortimer, Mrs. Loomis and Mrs. Leo Everett have charge of the tickets.

Incurable, penniless, old, this man and woman need the House of Rest. Once there they will cease to feel "in the way." They will not be transferred to make room for others. None has ever been sent away to die.

PARADISE GARDEN
By GEORGE GIBBS

IMAGINE A SITUATION LIKE THIS.

A healthy, cultured young man is suddenly thrust into the world, after spending his entire life in a secluded garden. He had been raised in total ignorance of women, of crime and of the outside world. What happens when he comes in contact with life, when he first meets woman and when he endeavors to adjust himself to society is told with unusual interest in this unique—and often startling—novel by the author of "The Yellow Dove." SLAVES OF FREEDOM
By Coningsby Dawson

Author of THE GARDEN WITHOUT WALLS

¶ The romance of a dreamer in the first storm of his manhood, who holds as a religion that love can always awaken love.

¶ His belief is put to the test by a girl so infatuated by her own beauty that her self-worship holds her captive. She conceives of herself as a Goddess of Liberty; to the man she seems a Slave of Freedom.

¶ This is the account of her retreat—a retreat conducted with masterly strategy which leads her lover half across the world. The more she evades him the more does she lure him.

¶ The setting is New York, England, France.

A Book About the Theater
By Brander Matthews

In this fascinating volume the author "deviates," as he expresses it, "into the by-paths of stage history." He discusses the minor arts of the dancer and the acrobat, chatters about the conjurer and the negro minstrel, considers the principles of pantomime and the development of scene-painting, etc. These chapter headings suggest the scope of the book: The Show Business, Why Five Acts? Women Dramatists, The Principles of Pantomime, The Ideal of the Acrobat, The Decline and Fall of Negro Minstrelsy, and The Utility of the Variety Show.

Illustrated. $2.50 net.

Our Hispanic Southwest
By Ernest Peixotto

He begins with a delightfully illustrated chapter on New Orleans, whence he goes to San Antonio, the old Texan capital, and after a review of its historic background he sets out for the real Southwest—Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona—every considerable place in which vast area he visited, and found subjects for the charming brush and pencil pictures which illustrate this volume.

BUBBLES WITH HUMOR

Everybody loves Emmy Lou—the delightful little girl whose problems and whose pranks bring back so vividly our own childhood. In this new book her experiences at Sunday school, at public school, at home and at play are faithfully portrayed in an extremely humorous fashion—though with a serious intent and many a touch of genuine pathos.

Jaunty in Charge
By Mrs. George Wemyss

To create Jaunty was a task worth while in fiction. We cannot see how there could be any improvement in Mrs. Wemyss' way of doing it.

However high your expectations you will not be disappointed with the tender romance of the upbringing of Pamela and Sally Lawrence with Jaunty in Charge.

Here is everything that makes life worth the living—love—laughter—happiness—none of the tragedies. It's good to know such people—all striving to make others happy, and succeeding. Live with them a few hours, it's worth your while.

MIDDLE WEST GIVES REPUBLICANS HOPE

Canvass in Missouri Cheers Them and They Expect 30,000 in Indiana.

STILL WORRIED OVER OHIO

Wisconsin Situation Said to be Better—Think to Get Some Congressmen in West Virginia.

Republicans are becoming more hopeful under the stimulus of late reports from some States ordinarily classed as Republican, but this year regarded as doubtful. It was said last night by a Republican leader who recently has looked into the situation in the Middle West that this has improved marvelously in the last two weeks.

For some weeks the Republican campaign managers have been asserting that Republican prospects in Missouri were bright. Until within the last two or three days these optimistic forecasts, it is admitted, have been largely the outgrowth of hopes. Late reports from Missouri based on a canvass, it is now declared, have changed these hopes into a belief that that State will be found in the Republican column on election night.

Walter S. Dickey, one of the old-school Republicans, who is in charge of the Republican campaign in Missouri, has been conducting it with unprecedented vim and vigor and a lavish expenditure of money. Under his management sufficient funds, for instance, have flown into the Republican coffers to enable him to equip each county headquarters with an automobile.

In Ohio the labor situation is giving the Republican leaders a heap of worry, and they admit that, with election only three weeks off, this at one time dependable Republican State is in the doubtful column. Conditions in the northern part of the State, where are most of the big industrial establishments, are pronounced particularly serious. In Southern Ohio, where the farmer vote is more of a factor, the Republicans regard their chances as good.

Reports from Indiana, it was said last night, indicate an improvement, and one well-informed Republican leader ventured a prediction that the Hoosier State would be carried by Hughes by some 30,000 majority and that both the Republican candidates for United States Senator would be elected.

In Wisconsin there are indications of more activity and of more harmony among the Republicans than has been in evidence there since Senator La Follette "got off the reservation" and started on the stump for Wilson. Ex-Governor McGovern, who was the candidate of the Roosevelt Republicans for Temporary Chairman of the Chicago Convention four years ago against Senator Root, has taken hold of the situation there. Under the stimulus of progressive leadership La Follette's followers are said to be returning to regularity and the support of Hughes.

In West Virginia, the Republicans, on the strength of recent reports, believe that they will be able to elect their candidates for Congress, even though President Wilson captures the electoral vote.

and Twenty-second Street. Unlike the day before, when they had to fight their way through the district, the police found most of the houses closed and shutters at the windows. Few strikers were in the streets, and these kept at a respectful distance from the police. A few snipers fired from roofs, and the police returned the fire; but probably not a dozen shots were exchanged. It was one of these that hit Miller.

Search Houses for Weapons.

The police searched every house, driving even the women and children into the streets until they had finished their work; but altogether they collected only about half a dozen weapons. In one house they found Steve Peregrin, who, the police say, is known as "Pool Ball Steve," because he hurled these missiles from roofs in the strike of last year. Inspector Cady ordered him to get out of the room, but he did not move, and then the police found that his back was peppered with buckshot. The wounds had been dressed, but no report had been made to the police, and Commissioner of Safety Henry Wilson said afterward that probably dozens of surgeons had violated the law requiring the report of all gunshot cases, either through fear of or sympathy with the strikers.

nn Five saloon keepers, arrested in Thursday's raids, were held in $500 bail each yesterday by Recorder William M. Cain, who also held sixteen-year-old Stanley Mydosh, son of the proprietor of Mydosh's Hall, the strikers' meeting place, without bail. Young Mydosh was accused of having sniped at the police.

As evidence that the spirit of the strikers had been broken the police pointed to the fact that yesterday was payday on the Hook and the strikers lifted their deadline to permit all workingmen to collect their wages. This the police did not consider surprising, as many of the strikers themselves were among the men who received wages. What they declared was astonishing was the failure of this influx of money to occasion renewed violence. Usually, they said, strikers with money in their pockets might be expected to spend much of it on liquor and then commit offenses of which they would not have been guilty in more sober moments. Yesterday no violence followed.

4,000 Men Paid Off.

The Standard Oil Company paid off 4,000 men who applied for their wages, and the International Nickel Company carried $82,000 in cash from a bank to its works, conveying it in an automobile with half a dozen armed guards. The automobile was not halted nor were the guards molested.

Inspector Cady said that twenty-seven attempts had been made to set fire to the Standard Oil plant since the strike started, but a heavy rain last night interfered with more such violence. The Inspector said none had been successful nor even had held promise of much success, for the strikers simply built big bonfires and then hoped for a favorable wind to blow sparks into the works. The police quenched each blaze as it was discovered.

STRIKE STIRS POLITICAL TALK.

Democrats See Plot Against Kinkead in Failure to Ask His Aid.

The charge that politics was behind the failure of Bayonne's city authorities to call on Sheriff Eugene F. Kinkead for assistance in ending the strike was made freely in Bayonne yesterday until increasing order made it evident that the police had gained control of the situation unassisted.

While there appeared to be ground for the belief that motives other than a confidence in their own ability to handle the crisis were influencing Mayor Pierre Garvan and Commissioner of Public Safety Henry Wilson, men of other political persuasion made the most of the opportunity the strike afforded.

They pointed out that the Mayor and the Commissioner were Republicans pledged to the support of Edwin M. Gray in his campaign for election to Congress from the Eighth District, and that the Sheriff was Mr. Gray's Democratic opponent, who would welcome, as political capital of the finest sort, any appeal for his offices from Bayonne. They recalled, too, that personal differences almost as bitter as their political enmity existed between the Sheriff and the city authorities.

Last year Kinkead, practically single-handed, stopped the strike after the City Government had failed, and in doing this he was careless of the toes he trod upon. He even arrested one of the city officials for interference with his orders, and, whereas the outside world had proclaimed the Sheriff a hero and a man of the moment, much of Bayonne had called him "mad."

Thus good Democrats had built up a case that had almost convinced them they should call on some one to interfere, lest the City Government permit politics to drag the town to ruin, and then the police began to get the upper hand. Presently order was restored, practically all over the city, and none could say that the police were not in control.

But Democrats shook their heads and talked of the remarkable luck that had prevented the administration from "showing itself up," while Republicans boasted that no Democrat ever was needed to help out a Republican Government.

WHAT THE PARENT CAN DO FOR THE CHILD

The Indispensable Link Between Home and School

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

The Children's Encyclopedia

The Simplest Scheme of Universal Knowledge.

SIR ISAAC NEWTON lost eight years of precious time in making his great discovery because he lacked the correct idea of the earth's size. Let your child have the important and essential knowledge of the world in the early years of his life. If his chief ability remains too long asleep the right time for its development may be lost forever. Do not keep him waiting for the greatest educational help of the century,—THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE, The Children's Encyclopedia.

10,000 Educational Pictures. 350 Colored Plates.

"No one knows how to educate a child," says one of the prominent educators of today. But one thing has been determined beyond a question—to educate a child is not to cram his immature mind with adult facts. While schoolmen are debating methods and parents and teachers are dissatisfied with the results obtained, there is one great helper upon which all are enthusiastically united,—THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE, The Children's Encyclopedia. It contains everything a child ought to know, told in the plain and simple language that a child can understand. Every teacher knows that children who possess this wonderful work lead their classes.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is illustrated with over 10,000 striking and costly educational pictures. The pictures alone are an education. It is the only work which children love. There is no higher praise or greater proof of its value than this. There have been many imitations of this original work, some of them good ones, but there is one infallible test—Do the children love it as a companion and friend? Does it stimulate their hunger for knowledge? Do they turn to it for answers to their thousand and one questions? Do they know the pictures and their fascinating descriptions by heart? If so, you will find on the title page, THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE, The Children's Encyclopedia.

450,000 Copies Sold in Four Languages.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, when a boy, was taken by his father to observe all the occupations in Boston that he might choose the one he liked best. The child must make his future for himself; but to do this he must have all the help it is in your power to give. You can do nothing better than to put THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE, The Children's Encyclopedia, into his hands. That part which attracts him most is the sure guide to his particular genius or ability.

Ridgwell Cullum's

Thrilling Submarine Story

The Men Who Wrought

By The Author of "THE WAY OF THE STRONG" "THE NIGHT RIDERS" ETC

BY all odds the strongest and most thrilling of Mr. Cullum's remarkable novels. The author has selected a big theme—the submersible merchantman and its probable utility in future warfare—and around it he has written a romance crowded with exciting incidents, overflowing with thrills. The plot involves the most powerful men of two European nations, with the long arm of the secret service system continually demonstrating its uncanny ability. The love element is strong, the action is swift, the characters are splendidly portrayed, while every page reveals the great depth of feeling with which Mr. Cullum has written.

AN IMMEDIATE SUCCESS

A WONDERFUL NOVEL

THE WONDERFUL YEAR

By A Wonderful Author-William J. Locke
Author of "Jaffery," "The Beloved Vagabond," etc.

¶ A likable young Englishman, a whimsical Parisian philosopher, a dashing American girl, and a brave little daughter of France combine to make "The Wonderful Year" an engaging period.

¶ Even "The Beloved Vagabond" and "The Fortunate Youth" must give place to this as being Mr. Locke's most charming story. It is a book that is full of the joy of youth, the thrill of adventure, and the spell of romance.

WOMEN IN SEATTLE HISS MISS FREEMAN

Hughes Campaigner's Talk About Lynchings Results in Slaps in Theatre Lobby.

MERE MAN QUELLS FIGHT

Battle Almost Reaches the Hair-pulling Stage as Women Democrats Quit the Meeting.

Special to The New York Times.

WITH THE WOMEN'S HUGHES CAMPAIGN TRAIN, TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 13.—After last night's sympathetic crowd in Spokane, the campaigners, brimming with confidence, moved on Seattle, and there, though they buried the tomahawk they had ready to use on ex-Senator Beveridge of Indiana for alleged snubbing, they ran into Wilson partisans, this time women. A fight in the lobby of the Moore Theatre, in which vigorous slaps were exchanged, and heckling tended to liven up things somewhat.

When the train pulled into the Seattle station tonight the campaigners were met by 200 decorated motors and a committee of women, headed by Mrs. Hugh Hood, whose husband, a wealthy Colorado mine owner, was lost on the Titanic, and Mrs. F. K. Gruve, wife of the President of the First National Bank of Seattle. Mid a salvo of toy bombs the party was taken through lines of cheering people to the Moore Theatre.

Dr. Travis, Alice Snitzer Burke, and others spoke without interruption; but when Miss Elizabeth Freeman, who handles the job of rounding up the colored vote, began to assail President Wilson on the ground that he had not tried to punish the perpetrators of Southern lynchings, the fun began.

From the audience there came hisses, cries of "That's not fair," and similar expressions of disagreement. Though the tumult, stimulated by women exclusively, threatened at one time to break up the meeting, Miss Freeman managed to calm things by switching to a different topic.

Two of the Wilson women, however, refused to be pacified and started to leave the theatre. In the lobby they encountered two woman ushers employed by the Seattle Hughes Alliance. Words were exchanged, and suddenly one of the Wilson supporters slapped the Hughes woman across the face. The fracas had almost reached the hair-pulling stage when a man separated the combatants. A policeman then led the Wilsonians from the lobby.

While the Moore Theatre meeting was in progress, Mrs. Raymond Robins journeyed a short distance out of the city to the Arena, where a land show had attracted about 3,500 persons. She spoke on Mr. Hughes's labor record, and dwelt at some length on the things that the farmer might expect if Mr. Wilson did not revise his policies. The crowd listened with attention, but failed to display much enthusiasm.

The campaigners received a pleasant surprise last night, when about 1,500 persons jammed the Spokane Auditorium to capacity and heartily welcomed the speakers to Washington. Only one [illegible] puzzled the women, and that was, when the crowd persisted in giving the major share of its applause to mention of Colonel Roosevelt's name instead of Mr. Hughes.

The speakers were introduced by ex-Governor M. E. Hay and Mrs. Maude Rowe Elliott took occasion to refute charges that the women were backed by Wall Street. She deplored the fact that the Republican Party should always be considered an ally of Wall Street and pointed out that THE NEW YORK TIMES, which she declared to be "recognized as representative of Wall Street", was one of the strongest champions of President Wilson.

Liberal applause went to Mrs. Robins, who recounted Mr. Hughes's achievements in the way of labor legislation. Miss Elizabeth Freeman suggested that the frequency of lynchings in the South could be attributed to the weakness of the Administration, and Dr. Hasseltine Stephens Walker of Chicago said that inasmuch as the blame for the Eastland disaster has not yet been fixed, President Wilson should not be re-elected. Others who spoke were Miss Mary Antin, Mrs. E. Smith, formerly a member of the Country Life Commission, and Dr. Davis.

While en route from Spokane to Seattle Dr. Davis received a telegram announcing that ex-Senator Beveridge, who had snubbed the party in Chicago and again in Butte by not even mentioning the women campaigners who shared the platform with him, was scheduled once more to compete with them.

There was a hurried consultation in the speakers' car, and it was finally decided to clip seven hours from the scheduled stop in Seattle and leave a clear field to the Indianian.

It was announced just beore the meeting tonight that Miss Frances A. Kellor, the leader of the campaigners, and Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy would rejoin the train either at Sacramento or San Francisco.

Significant Facts in Respect to Preparation for Accountancy (C. P. A.) and Business.

The professional success of graduates from Pace Courses is well known. They are in successful practice in practically every state. The Pace graduate possesses a capacity for clear thinking and professional bearing, and a general dependability that distinguishes his service wherever he works.

The business success of graduates is no less marked. Throughout the country large numbers of corporate executives—comptrollers, treasurers, secretaries, auditors, managers—give credit to the Pace Courses for the scientific business preparation that has made their success possible.

In New York more than one thousand students are now in attendance upon evening class lectures under the direction of the teaching staff of 50 specially trained instructors. Small class groups are arranged to make a close personal supervision of each student possible.

Eight freshmen classes have already been started to accommodate new students, and several additional classes are now being formed. No knowledge of bookkeeping is required. Enrollments may be made by the term—four months—with small financial outlay.

New Class Groups Now Forming

Riverdale Country School

Your boy's health—how can it best be safeguarded? Riverdale answers this question.

The school is situated outside of the crowded city districts. Day boys travel to and from the school by a special school autobus—spend all day at school. Boarding boys may return home for Sundays.

Come to see the school and learn of our many advantages. Last June at the examinations of the College Entrance Board, 87½ per cent. of all examinations offered were passed; average marks of those who passed in the Recommended class, 91 2-3 per cent.; average marks of those who passed in the Consented class, 81¼ per cent. FATIMA
A Sensible Cigarette

Such men want comfort AFTER smoking

IT'S NOTICEABLE that more and more substantial men are choosing Fatimas for their steady smoke. There must be some reason for it. Surely, these men would quickly pay a far higher price for another cigarette if it suited them better.

That is just it. No other cigarette can quite give what Fatimas give.

Some other cigarettes taste good, yes. But Fatimas do more—they are comfortable. Not only are they comfortable to the throat and tongue while you smoke them, but, much more important, they leave a man feeling keen and "fit" AFTER smoking, even though he smokes more than usual.

GEORGINA of the RAINBOWS

By Annie Fellows Johnston, author of "The Little Colonel," "The Desert of Waiting," etc.

A new and bewitching character steps forth to be loved alike by old and young.

One critic says:—

"Mrs. Johnston has what may be called imagination of the heart, and she has written a story full of grace and light, with laughter springing up in it like flowers in a wood."

And another:—

"Georgina belongs among the classics."

And still another:—

"You will find out it is for the whole family."

"GEORGINA" is already conceded a place among this season's best sellers.

First edition, 50,000 copies, contains a picture of the real Georgina in life colors.

Four Lectures by Maria Montessori, M. D.

These lectures deal with the following subjects:

1—Education in Relation to the Imagination of the Little Child.
2—The Mother and the Child.
3—My System of Education.
4—The Organization of Intellectual Work in the School.

Doctor Montessori delivered lectures before the National Education Association at Oakland, Cal., dealing with the subjects above mentioned. These lectures were discussed and commented upon by leading educators from all parts of the world. We have printed them in attractive booklets. They are the latest contribution by this world-famous educator and scientist. Every person who is interested in children should read and re-read them.

Send 30 cents to partially cover cost of compilation and postage, and we will mail the four booklets. First edition limited so you should write today.

DR. SATTERLEE BURNT IN X-RAY TREATMENT

Must Undergo Third Operation for Cancer of the Hands.

VICTIM OF AN EARLY TEST

Parts of the Middle Finger Have Been Removed, but Growths Continue to Spread.

Dr. Francis LeRoy Satterlee, Jr., cousin of Herbert L. Satterlee, and the Radiologist at Flushing Hospital and Greenpoint Hospital, made arrangements yesterday to have an operation performed on his right hand next week for a cancer caused by the X-ray. Dr. Satterlee was one of the pioneers in the medical profession in making X-ray photographs of parts of the human body, with which he began experimenting in 1897.

Burns which he received years ago, he believes, before the dangers of the powerful ray were fully appreciated, have recently developed into cancerous growths and he has undergone two operations to have parts of the middle finger of the right hand removed, but the growths have continued to spread.

While the X-ray is believed by many members of the medical profession to be efficacious in curing cancer, it is said to be powerless to help cancer of X-ray origin. Dr. Satterlee expects to have the remaining stub of his middle finger removed by Dr. Robert Abbe at St. Luke's Hospital, Manhattan, probably on Tuesday, and if necessary, to have the whole hand amputated.

Bishop Greer Improving.

The Right Rev. David H. Greer, Episcopal Bishop of New York, who returned yesterday from the convention in St. Louis, where he suffered an attack of neuritis, was reported yesterday as having passed a good night, and was said to be resting easily. It was said further that he was expected to be out in a few days.

'Object—Matrimony' Comes Oct. 24.

As a result of a change in plans "Object—Matrimony," a new comedy by Montague Glass and Jules Eckert Goodman, will be the next attraction at the Cohan & Harris Theatre, on Tuesday, Oct. 24, following the engagement of "The Intruder," instead of George M. Cohan's new comedy, "Honest John O'Brien," as announced. Arrangements to this effect were concluded yesterday when it was decided to postpone the premiere of the Cohan play. The cast of the new Glass-Goodman comedy, which has been playing the neighboring cities for several weeks, includes Jess Dandy, Mathilde Cottrelly, Jules Jordan, Marjorie Wood, Irving Cummings, Leo Donnelly, Jean Temple, and Wright Kramer.

WORLD LOSES PAPER MILL.

Newspaper Outbid for Remington Plants Up State.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 13.—The New York World was outbid today in the fight for the purchase of the Remington Paper and Power Company of this city, with mills in Norwood and Norfolk, N. Y., by Mark S. Wilder of this city. He closed the deal that had been pending for several weeks for $1,500,000.

Ralph Pulitzer, President of the Press Publishing Company, accompanied by four representatives of his company, who came here on Thursday intending to complete the purchase, was notified this afternoon that the stockholders of the Remington Company had refused his offer.

Mr. Wilder makes the deal in his own name, but is backed financially by Bermingham & Seaman of New York, who are said to supply paper to the Sears Roebuck Company of Chicago.

The Donnacona Paper Company, with mills at Donnacona, Quebec, thirty miles from Quebec City, on the St. Lawrence River, is sought by the syndicate of Paris newspaper publishers who failed some months ago to gain control of the Remington Paper and Power Company.

The French interests were unable to get permission from the French Government to send money from that country to the United States in time to close the deal before their option had expired.

The Donnacona mill is a new one, having been in operation only a year. It has an output of 100 tons of paper a day. G. H. P. Gould, owner of the St. Regis and Gould paper companies, is President of the Donnacona Company, and Walter N. Kernan of New York, Vice President.

Evening Journal Raises Its Price.

The price of The New York Evening Journal in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and in other cities outside the metropolitan zone will be two cents, beginning next Monday. News dealers in Philadelphia and other cities received notice of the increase in price. The Evening Journal has been selling at one cent in the places named.

The increase in price does not apply to New York and the metropolitan district, S. S. Carvalho, President of the Star Publishing Company, announced last night.

Paul E. Wilson Dead.

Paul E. Wilson, son-in-law of Colonel T. Coleman du Pont, and formerly associated with the Greeley Square Hotel Company, which promoted the Hotel McAlpin, died yesterday at Colonel du Pont's home, 11 East Sixty-sixth Street, in his thirty-first year. He was born in Wilmington, Del., and became associated with the du Pont Powder Company shortly after leaving school. He married Miss Alice D. du Pont, who with two children, a sister, and two brothers survives him.

Meier Newman.

Meier Newman, formerly Excise Commissioner of Newark, N. J., died on Thursday at his home there, in his eighty-first year. He was a resident of Newark for seventy years. Mr. Newman was a Trustee of the Congregation B'nai Jeshuran and was an official of the Hebrew Benevolent Society for many years. For many years he was Secretary of the Progress, Court House, Federal, and Fairmount Building and Loan Associations. Five sons and three daughters survive him.

EXPECT HOT PARKER SPEECH

Likely to Attack Colonel at Progressive Notification Ceremony.

A number of Progressives from Eastern States arrived in town yesterday to attend the reception to be given today to John M. Parker, the Progressive candidate for Vice-President. Mr. Parker has never been officially notified of his nomination, and the ceremonies, which will be held at the Hotel Biltmore, will take the form of a notification. Mr. Parker will discuss national issues and declare which of the Presidential candidates he will support. L. H. Trieschmann, Progressive National Committeeman for Connecticut, said yesterday:

"I positively know that Mr. Parker is going to come out for President Wilson, and is going to say some things about the way the Progressive Party was killed that will burn the insulation on the wires. My only wish is that Colonel Roosevelt and George W. Perkins will be present."

Both the Colonel and Mr. Perkins have been invited to attend, but the former will be in Wilkes-Barre, Penn., and Mr. Perkins has not been heard from. Brooklyn Progressives will come over in automobiles, headed by a band. The committee to escort Mr. Parker from his hotel to the Biltmore will be headed by John J. O'Connell, Chairman of the Progressive New York County Committee.

Cartoonist Goldberg to Wed Oct. 17.

Reuben L. Goldberg, the cartoonist, and Miss Irma Seeman of 264 Riverside Drive, are to be married on Oct. 17, at Sherry's. They obtained their marriage license yesterday. Mr. Goldberg is 33 years old, and lives at 215 West Eighty-eighth Street. Miss Seeman is 21, and she was born in Bayonne, N. J. Their engagement was announced several weeks ago.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Charles Hopkins's Punch and Judy Theatre will begin its third season a week from tonight with Jules Eckert Goodman's dramatization of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island." Henry E. Dixey will play the role of Long John Silver, and many members of the original cast will play the roles they created.

The cast that will appear in "Tangled Lives" at the Bramhall Playhouse late this month will include Margaret Campbell, Ethel Haller, Mabel Reed, Marie Baird, Kitty Marion, Natalie Blakeley, Kenneth MacDougall, William Sherwood, John Fernlock, Butler Davenport, Hooper Trask, and Denah Benrimo.

Abraham Haitovitch, a blind violinist, will give a recital tonight at the Neighborhood Playhouse.

Thursday night, Oct. 26, is the second date set for the premiere of the new Winter Garden revue, "The Show of Wonders."

All of the Keith theatres in Greater New York will give two complete performances Election night. Special wires will supply returns to all the playhouses.

Guy C. Smith returned yesterday on the Sixola from an eight months' stay in South America. Mr. Smith went to South America in the interest of the film, "The Birth of a Nation." The picture was shown 200 nights in Buenos Aires. Mr. Smith will arrange to present "Intolerance" in the principal cities of the southern continent while here.

Margaret George, soprano, will be the soloist at the concert Creatore's Band will give at the Hippodrome Sunday night, Oct. 29.

The Lyceum Theatre has been leased for eight weeks, beginning Monday, Oct. 30, for the presentation of the melodrama "Backfire," current at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre.

STRANDED SINGERS RETURN.

Five of Italian Opera Company Back from Bogota—35 'n Forests.

Among the passengers arriving yesterday from South America via Panama on the steamship Ancon were three singers, the musical conductor and the manager of an Italian opera company that had been stranded in Bogota, the capital of Colombia. Merica Ancini, the manager, said the company was under contract to President Concha of Colombia, who guaranteed the money for the trip.

The opera venture was a failure financially, he said, and the five members on the Ancon managed to pay their way by the sale of some musical instruments and part of their wardrobe. The remainder of the company, about thirty-five persons, men and women, were walking to the coast from Bogota through the big forests. The singers were Mmes. Hetty Rost, Paula Ansolini, Mimi Ansolini, and the conductor was Michael Nicosia.

Beryl Rubinstein's Recital.

Beryl Rubinstein, a young pianist new to New York, played yesterday in Aeolian Hall before an audience of large size, and obviously to its satisfaction. He has qualifications that help toward a successful pianoforte recital, especially a very well developed technical facility that neither halts nor stumbles in the exacting problems of pianoforte music but goes boldly and resolutely through them. He has power and an abundance of tone. He was not enabled yesterday to disclose much of what he can do in the way of variety of color and in all the subtle effects that are possible in quality and dynamic range. In Liszt's arrangement of Bach's G minor organ fugue his technical certainly stood him in good stead in gaining a very clear articulation of the contrapuntal structure. Nor was there the slightest doubt about what Brahms had written in his E flat rhapsody, nor Chopin, nor Liszt, nor Liapounow in their pieces on his program; and the fact that he undertook Mr. Godowsky's complication of Strauss's "Künstler-leben" waltz affirmed his complete confidence in his technical powers. But in reaching the inner poetry, the real significance beneath the exterior of most of this music, Mr. Rubenstein is not at present so certain. His feet keep close to the road and he is a pedestrian. He is also young. It may be that experience and reflection will give him glimpses of something beyond.

"CENTURY GIRL" ON NOV. 2.

Elsie Janis Heads Cast of the New Dillingham-Ziegfeld Revue.

The date for the first performance of "The Century Girl," the revue with which Charles Dillingham and Florenz Ziegfeld will begin their careers as directors of the Century Theatre, was announced yesterday for Thursday night, Nov. 2. Seats for the first performance will not be sold at auction, but will be disposed of at the regular scale of prices. The Century Roof, which has been remodeled and named the Cocoanut Grove, will be opened a week later. There will be a café, restaurant, and dancing floor on the roof and a midnight revue will be given.

Victor Herbert and Irving Berlin composed the music for "The Century Girl" and Josef Urban designed the settings. The list of principals includes Elsie Janis, Hazel Dawn, Sam Bernard, Frank Tinney, Marie Dressler, Leon Errol, Maurice and Florence Walton, Doyle and Dixon, Harry Kelly, Irving Fisher, Laurence Haynes, Harry Langdon, Van and Schenk, John Slavin, and the Barr Twins. The chorus has been picked from the various Dillingham and Ziegfeld choruses, augmented by a group of English young women.

Eddie Foy and his seven children were engaged for the revue, but the Gerry Society refused to give its consent to the participation of the children.

Told in Their Own Words

How Hughes and Roosevelt Would Have Acted With Germany, England, Mexico

Out of the din and confusion caused by the assertions, charges, and counter-charges which are being made by the Presidential candidates and their supporters, arises one question which many thousands of people are asking, and that is: "Just What Action Would Mr. Hughes or Mr. Roosevelt Have Taken in Dealing with Germany, England, and Mexico, Had They Been in Mr. Wilson's Place?"

With a view to throwing light on this subject, the editors of THE LITERARY DIGEST have carefully analyzed the speeches of Mr. Hughes, Mr. Roosevelt, and Mr. Wilson bearing upon our foreign relations.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for October 14, the result is given in a very comprehensive article in which are arranged in careful juxtaposition the public utterances of each of the three men upon the subject of our foreign relations. By means of this orderly arrangement the American public can get a very definite answer to the question raised.

Among other important articles in this exceptionally interesting number are:

The Appeal of "The Digest" is as Universal as its Scope

There is an old saying that it is impossible to please everybody, which is measurably true. There are exceptions to this, however. One of these is THE LITERARY DIGEST. When you take it home every week you know you will please the whole family. Each issue contains matter for all tastes and for every taste. For father there is the political section, the foreign comment, the discussion of industrial and social issues of moment, and the advice on finance and investments; for mother, the articles on art, and literature, and religion and social service, and the book reviews; for the elder boy, science and invention, the war reports, and Personal Glimpses; for the elder girl, the art, music and current poetry; for the youngsters, the cartoons and the nuggets of humor in Spice of Life. And every page is clean, interesting, and packed with information. The news is real news, the comments are from all angles, the mirth without a sting. All this makes "The Digest" the ideal home news-magazine.

MR. HUGHES'S GIFT OF HINDSIGHT.

> When notice was published with respect to the action threatened, I would have made it known in terms unequivocal and unmistakable that we should not tolerate a continuance of friendly relations through the ordinary diplomatic channels if that action were taken; and the Lusitania, Sir, would never have been sunk.—Mr. Hughes at Louisville.

The notice by the Imperial German Embassy dated April 22, 1915, and published in some newspapers on May 1, the day of the Lusitania's last sailing, carried no threat of action to the general mind. It was regarded by the passengers and the public as a mere "bluff." It warned travelers that a state of war existed, that the war zone included the waters adjacent to the British Isles, and that:

> Vessels flying the flag of Great Britain, or any of her allies, are liable to destruction in those waters, and that travelers sailing in the war zone on ships of Great Britain or her allies do so at their own risk.

There was in this warning no more intimation of the terrible deed in contemplation than in the proclamation of the German Admiralty on Feb. 4, that "it may not always be possible to save crews and passengers." There was no hint of wantonly killing crew and passengers. The danger to be apprehended by neutral vessels was attributed by the German Admiralty to the alleged improper use of neutral flags by British merchant ships. There was no suspicion of a German intention to sink passenger steamships without warning. The Falaba case, the only one up to that time affecting Americans, gave no inkling of such an intention. On March 28, the Falaba was sunk by a German submarine, from which she was running after being ordered to stop. The Germans accounted for their sinking of the Falaba before all her passengers and crew were in the boats by saying that a British ship was on her way to give help. Whatever the validity of this attempt at justification, there was nothing in this destruction, after warning, of a British liner to indicate a deliberate purpose to attack liners without warning.

The Cunard people themselves took the notice as a "bluff." The British attitude toward the submarine was one of contempt and incredulity. Only the monstrous fact could persuade Americans that the Germans were capable of and had planned the arch-massacre of May 7.

No man in public life foresaw the horror which Mr. Hughes, wise after the event, now so confidently assures that he would have prevented. Who first put forth what is become the Republican theory of the Lusitania? Mr. Hughes, apostle of the gospel of preternatural "firmness with sagacity," borrows it, elaborates, composes a piece about it, and, by means of an evidently prearranged interruption, pours forth his hypothesis. It proposes a line of past conduct which the Administration would have followed and the country approved—if they believed, if they had reason to believe, that the German notice meant business. Whether or not, even if the suspension of diplomatic relations with Germany had been threatened, the murderous submarine could have been reached by Germany, if she yielded to the threat, in time to save the Lusitania, is another speculation on past possibilities and probabilities, which Mr. Hughes may add to his collection when he has time.

What is the use of wasting words on conjectures? Mr. Hughes is bold as a lion about what he would have done to Germany if he had been the seventh son of a seventh son and an unerring reader of the future. Amid the applause of American-Germans, the candidate dear to citizens of dual allegiance and alien sympathies, he does not and he dares not speak that direct renunciation of disloyal support which Mr. Wilson has more than once bravely proclaimed. He would have been "firm" with Germany in 1915. In 1916 he is the hope of those who hate Mr. Wilson for maintaining the rights of Americans against Germany. Ambiguous and infirm in the present, strong and sagacious now only with a belated knowledge.

REACTIONARY CHURCHMEN.

Unprejudiced persons generally will regret that so many influential delegates to the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church have assumed a reactionary attitude toward divorce and remarriage. Thus far, the position of that Church in regard to marriage and divorce has been unassailable. It has discountenanced the breaking of the marriage tie, but it has so far recognized the inevitability and the justification of divorce under certain conditions that it has permitted the remarriage of an innocent party to a divorce. Some of its clergymen, to be sure, have refused to perform a marriage ceremony in which one of the parties has been divorced; that is a clergyman's privilege. There can be no reasonable objection to a minister of the Church following the dictates of his own conscience in such a matter.

But hitherto the Episcopal Church has recognized that the remarriage of the innocent party in a divorce is not inconsistent with religious discipline and may be highly beneficial to society. The question of collusion in divorce cases scarcely relates to this simple matter of Church discipline. Collusion is illegal, it is punishable by the State; when a clergyman has doubts as to the character of the persons he is asked to join in marriage there ought to be no question as to the course he will take, no matter what denomination he may belong to. Nor does the abuse of the divorce laws concern the Episcopal Church, which has generally had little cause to suspect any of its clergy of helping to increase "the "gigantic evil which has spread over "the nation," to quote the words of one of the delegates to the convention at St. Louis.

The Episcopal Church cannot fairly be accused of responsibility for that evil, but its proposed new attitude toward divorce and remarriage will, if it prevails, be of no service in mitigating or suppressing the evil. It will inevitably serve, instead, to lessen the authority and usefulness of the Church without benefiting society. Divorce will continue, remarriages will be as frequent. The Church will still further isolate itself from the stream of human activities. Better keep the rules relating to divorce as they now are and continue to permit the individual clergymen to act according to their own conscience in the matter of remarriage.

LABOR AND PROSPERITY.

National labor organizations are circulating a statement that since the war began 5,700,000 workers have received wage increases totaling $300,000,000. The census was taken from reports in 138 trade and labor journals, but necessarily is incomplete. New York accounts for 180 increases, New Jersey for 130, many of them individually including thousands of workers. Probably nothing like this was ever before known. To complete the picture, it is necessary to quote the figures of the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics regarding strikes. During the six months to July last, inclusive, there were 1,865 strikes and lockouts, against 543 in the same period of 1915. The figures of discontent and unrest are as remarkable as the figures of prosperity for wage earners.

Nowhere is this more conspicuous than in this State and New Jersey. The Albany Industrial Commission reports that the number of workers increased 25 per cent., and the wage disbursements 40 per cent. Yet the relations between wage earners and wage payers have seldom, if ever, been more disturbed. The strikes have been characterized by disorder, bad faith between workers and employers, and inhumanity of unions toward nonunionists. The employers are as uneasy as their help in many cases. Their grievance is not that they must pay the higher wage, but that money will not secure faithful service. Machinery stands idle because the hands insist upon shorter hours and fewer days a week. The Federal Reserve agent in the iron district reported a few weeks ago:

> Workmen are reducing the week's work to four or five instead of six days. Absences are being taken whenever desired, regardless of the effect on production. In the face of a higher wage and a shorter day workmen are seemingly content to average the previous rate of wage.

A newspaper page would not exhaust testimony of this sort. Many financial observers are remarking upon the undesirable results of the deluge of gold. What shall be said of the deluge of the wage fund? If the total of the wage increase were known, it might appear that the increase of purchasing power of wage earners exceeds the net gold imports for the period of the war. The gold goes into the banks and supports industry. Also the excess of gold promotes undesirable speculation among both lenders and borrowers. That is temptation merely, and there is evidence that it is resisted as well as yielded to. The increase of wage payments also stimulates industry, but in a manner different from the surplus of gold. What the men value so little that too many of them will not work for it they spend easily. Profits, too, are parted with as easily as they are made. Fortunately there are signs of sounder finance among corporations than among individuals. Fifty corporations hold $320,000,000 cash, a backlog against the rainy day which labor thinks will never come.

It is timely to recall the saying current in the depths of depression, that depression passes as well as prosperity. The reverse is equally true. But where is there heard a single friend of labor counseling it to be wise and prudent? Where is the humanitarian, the friend of mankind, who is counseling wage earners to fasten themselves now to their jobs with hooks of steel against the time when manless jobs are not to be found? Who is heard to advise that the $300,000,000 of enlarged wages should be laid up, and that living should be kept at the level which sustained workers when they had less?

FOR CHIEF JUDGE OF THE COURT OF APPEALS.

Frank H. Hiscock of Syracuse, Republican and Progressive candidate for Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, has served on the bench with marked and growing usefulness and distinction for more than twenty years. Appointed in January, 1896, a Justice of the Supreme Court to fill a vacancy, he was chosen for the regular term of fourteen years in November. In 1910 he was renominated and re-elected, both the great parties supporting him. Made a member of the Fourth Appellate Division in 1901, in 1906 he was selected as one of the three Supreme Court Justices serving as additional members of the Court of Appeals. In 1913 he was elected a Judge of that court, sole survivor of the Republican State candidates of that year. He is fair, learned, industrious, able, honest, experienced.

The same can be said of Almet F. Jenks, the Democratic candidate for Chief Judge. His service in the Supreme Court began in 1898. It should continue at least until the expiration of his present term in 1923. He has never sat in the Court of Appeals. It has been the rule since the existing Court of Appeals was established in 1870 that only an Associate Judge should become Chief Judge. The rule is sound. It insures a Chief Judge trained, experienced, familiar with the practice and precedents of the court. The sole exception to that rule, Judge Alton B. Parker, was an exception only in name, for Judge Parker, while not a member of the court when elected, had been a Judge of the Second Division of the Court of Appeals.

MR. SEABURY'S MISTAKE.

Mr. Seabury may find that he has gone too far in his denunciation of the Stivers act and the Slater act, passed by the last Legislature. Those were not partisan measures. They were not adopted in response to a demand of Republican politicians, and in denouncing them Mr. Seabury was clearly not speaking as a leader of the party which has framed the finest program of naval extension ever given to the country and stimulated the preparedness movement. The two laws are wholesome, and they will work ill to nobody. Under the Constitutions alike of the nation and the State every able-bodied citizen is a member of the militia. The Stivers bill provides for a general enrollment of men liable to military duty, so that the Governor may extend the service when extension is required. Some amiable fanatics are trying to make a bugbear of it. But they will not succeed.

The idea of universal service is growing. Men are beginning to understand that every citizen in a democracy should be able to bear his share of the burden of defense. The Slater act provides for the wholesome physical training of school children and the military training of boys and young men. It is a step toward universal service. It embodies New York's message to the rest of the nation. Military training should always be in control of the Federal Government. That is beginning to be understood. But the good example of the passage of the Stivers bill and the Slater bill will have its effect throughout the country.

Mr. Seabury, we trust, will revise his judgment of these acts, which seems to have been founded on misunderstanding. His mistaken denunciation of them has awakened no response from any source that he can consider important. Such praise as he has had for his condemnation of measures intended to advance the cause of national defense has been of a sort to give sensible citizens a feeling of nausea.

THE CITY'S TIDES OF TRAVEL.

The report to the Public Service Commission of the fares collected on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system in July gives an indication of the change in the city's currents of travel due to the small beginnings of the dual system's operation. At Chambers Street the fares taken increased from 163,540 to 2,175,783. That increase explains the decline at the Brooklyn Bridge from 2,432,171 to 1,748,238.

The change indicated is only a small installment of what would be realized if the Centre Street loop were used as a circulating system equally convenient in both directions, instead of ending in a stub terminal only available in one direction. The Fulton Street line for the first time passed the two-million mark, the direct result of the extension toward Jamaica. The Coney Island terminal increased to 3,822,574 from 3,204,653. Next year the gain will be larger, for there will be better terminal and route facilities. The Fourth Avenue route increased from 1,043 to 655,976, and as yet is merely beginning its good work. The decline of the Lexington Avenue line from 1,453,979 to 1,401,276 reflects merely the shift to the routes over the bridges, which now are doing their work in the relief of the Brooklyn Bridge, as remarked in connection with the Centre Street loop's partial operation.

The decline at Brighton Beach from 1,823,978 to 1,674,149 is hard to explain. It is sure that more would use that route if the accommodations were better, for often there are no seats in the non-rush hours. The travel in the borough is increasing, as well as shifting to other routes, for the total was 20,422,078 against 17,722,877 last year. Thus, changes by hundreds of thousands in a month run into multiples of millions by the year. It is a bold prophet who will put a limit to the growth when Brooklyn Borough has 193 stations giving elevated and subway rapid transit for a nickel through the city's community centre in Manhattan. The Bronx has shown the marvelous effect of 29 subway and elevated stations, and is to have 75. Queens is to have 41, where now it has none. The Bronx is not yet full grown, but Queens and Brooklyn are to show the great growth of Greater New York, the greatest city of the future.

NO BREAK IN THE PLEDGE.

It was a notable victory that Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg won in the Reichstag. How great it was we have no means of knowing; he may have escaped defeat narrowly, or there may never have been any doubt of his comfortable majority. It is likely that the latter was the case, and that the Tirpitzes and the Bassermanns represented only an element that was rather loud in voice than strong in numbers. It is certain, however, that they were numerous enough to make trouble with the United States an unpleasant possibility. The Chancellor's victory was so thorough that it was Bassermann himself who reported to the Reichstag the squelching of the U-boat controversy, and informed that body that the Budget Committee had reached that decision by a vote of 24 to 4. The Centre, which was claimed as a probable ally in the camp that wanted the pledge to America revoked, supported the Chancellor, and its leader gave what was undoubtedly the argument that proved effective in the committee:

> As to our relations in America and Eastern Asia, they cannot be governed by sympathies or antipathies, but only by actual interests.

The actual interests of Germany will not be served by a breaking of the May pledge and the renewal of warfare by submarine on the lives of Americans. That is the position of Bethmann Hollweg, and is now the position of the Reichstag. He has averted—for the present, since the agitation may at any time be renewed by some turn in the war situation—a danger to Germany. It is plain now how foolish were the reports that Ambassador Gerard was coming to the United States to warn the Administration of a breaking of the May pledge, and equally plain what Mr. Gerard meant when he said that he would not have left Germany if it had not been clear to him that our relations with that country were in no present danger. Bethmann Hollweg's victory was foreseen.

The peace talk in the Reichstag debate merely displayed the German longing for peace, and did not get anywhere. Mr. Scheidemann's nonsense about famine in the enemy countries and about their "imaginary gains" was counterbalanced by his frank admission that the pig-headed Allies could not be made to see that they were fighting a losing battle, and that "there was nothing to do but fight on." His complaint that the French were not permitted by the censor to know of German attempts to bribe France into deserting her comrades by a separate peace betrays that same lamentable and characteristic Prussian inability to understand the souls of non-German men and women that has been from the first the cause of war and the obstacle to peace.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Neutrality That Is Unneutral.

It takes a second, and perhaps a third, thought to see the propriety of the Government's action in using the dispatch from The Herald's wireless station to passenger steamers approaching this port of a message announcing the presence of a German submersible on our coast as a reason for taking measures to prevent a repetition of such disclosures. There are so many and such obvious reasons why it is desirable, from the American point of view, that the steamers in question should have information without which the dangers of innocent and legal travel are measurably increased, that knowledge of the prohibition causes a decided shock to the mind. On reflection, however, one remembers that to warn the merchant craft to do what they can to avoid attack and destruction is also to notify any cruisers of the Allies happening to be within radio hearing of a chance to catch one of the objects they most eagerly pursue.

And that, of course, is to assist one of the belligerents against the other, and so constitutes a clear departure from neutrality!

Justification, therefore, and something more, for this kind of censorship is made out, but even after that has been admitted it is still impossible to forget that the preservation of neutrality also required us to let the U-53 come into Newport Harbor and there secure information of very material assistance to her commander in his raid on vessels of which most of us think, not as foreign-owned, but as the carriers of our own people and our own property. So, in this particular instance, scrupulous neutrality seems to be distinctly advantageous to the Germans and as distinctly disadvantageous to the Allies. In other words, apparently we cannot be neutral, as regards submarines, without being unneutral, and unneutral in a way that to a good many of us is highly displeasing.

The very trying situation thus created illustrates anew the impossibility of carrying on a submarine campaign against merchant shipping in compatibility with reason or decency. The undersea boat can destroy, it can drown, it can turn passengers and crews afloat on the broad ocean in open boats as the very limit of its regard for the dictates of ordinary humanity, but it cannot comply with the spirit—hardly with the letter—of international law.

Moralizing Failed for Once.

Chinese residents of this country—except when they use against each other, as sometimes happens, large, blue revolvers in the settlement of their quarrels—usually manage to adjust what may be called their private controversies without appealing to our courts for assistance. An exception to this rule is revealed as the result of a falling out among the Chinese partners in a restaurant enterprise here that turned out to be highly profitable. It was in the distribution of the profits that the Chinese method of keeping the peace among partners, whatever it may be, has failed and led the disputants to submit their troubles to an American tribunal.

Incidentally there has been placed on record the agreement which the cautious Chinamen drew up and signed before they invested money in the restaurant. It is a remarkable document, about as unlike what an instrument drafted by Occidentals for like purpose would be as could be imagined, and yet, when its provisions are carefully considered, the unlikeness is seen to consist chiefly in the setting down in black and white of a lot of truths that white men forming a business organization would be content to take for granted and to leave unexpressed. We would not think, for instance, of adding to articles of partnership a long disquisition on the value of industry and honesty as a basis of commercial success, nor would we proclaim that it is well for partners to be friendly and just among themselves.

That these Chinese did this may show merely a love of the moral platitude, or it may be interpreted after the fashion of those ethnologists who find in the statutory prohibitions of any people the crimes and misdemeanors which that people are inclined to commit. As it happens, however, the reputation all over the world of Chinese business men, as such, for honest dealing and keeping their contracts, is more than ordinarily high, and who can say that this superiority is not due, at least in part, to their liking to repeating over and over the praises of the common virtues?

Perhaps, after all, it is not a waste of time and good white paper to write out an explicit admission of the excellent results to be expected by those who are fair and cautious, and that it is not well "to be diligent at the beginning and lazy at the end." The Chinese are an ancient and experienced race. They attained a really considerable degree of civilization when the ancestors of their Western critics, if not still swinging from branches by their tails, were running through the woods clothed in alternate streaks of red and blue paint.

Quality Also Counts.

Among the statements made in the course of a Reichstag debate this week was one to the effect that, though there is distress all over Europe in regard to food supplies, Germany is not the most troubled, as the price of bread is higher in London than in Berlin. Price, however, is hardly the decisive factor in this controversy. It is also necessary to know what the Londoner and the Berliner get for their money.

According to the best information available, though the Englishman has to pay a lot for his bread, it is real bread that he gets, limited in quantity only by the size of his purse, just as it always has been, while the German has to be contented with a queer production, made by combining assorted materials not notable for either taste or nutritiousness, and even of this he gets, not what he wants and can pay for, but what the commissary officials choose to sell to him—which isn't much.

Turning from bread to coffee, of which the Briton still has a full supply, here is a relevant paragraph, translated from the Lokal-Anzeiger of Berlin:

> We enter the precincts of one of the most elegant cafés and order coffee. The waiter places before us an inky black liquid. Milk? There is none. Sugar? There is none. Saccharin? There never was any! Eventually we decide to swallow a mouthful of the unappetizing-looking black fluid. It is all we are able to swallow—it is much too nauseous. The position is then explained to us. It appears that there is no coffee obtainable in the empire. The decoction offered to us was distilled from a number of scientifically prepared compounds the very names of which are sufficient to make one sick. The only reminder of the coffee of other times came when the bill was presented for payment. This was the greatest surprise of all! Instead of paying a few pfennigs for the beastly mixture, we were charged considerably more than was asked for the very best coffee before the war, when one was also allowed a discreet quantity of milk and an indiscreet amount of sugar.

To Save the Shakespeare Garden.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have heard rumors to the effect that the Shakespeare Garden at Central Park is to be done away with by the Park Department. I want to protest against such action, as this garden has given much pleasure to a great many people. It costs the city little or nothing, as it has been maintained by private subscriptions. What was formerly a hideous spot has been transfigured into a beautiful and interesting garden containing practically all of the flowers, plants, &c., mentioned in the works of Shakespeare. It is possible that it may not fit in with the scheme of park development desired by certain so-called experts, but I have serious doubts whether anything can be designed to replace it which will give more pleasure to any great number of visitors.

W. CLEVELAND RUNYON.

New York, Oct. 5, 1916.

WOODLAND WITCHCRAFT.

Ah, the Hunter's Moon is shining, and the heart of me is pining!
I would go
Where the sound of elfin laughter bids me follow swiftly after,
Through the brown October woodlands,
where the brisk winds blow!

I would follow, I would follow, with the swiftness of the swallow;
With no sound
But the Autumn breezes sighing, and my eager footsteps flying,
And the crackling of pine needles on the soft, damp ground.

Where the Pipes of Pan are playing,
there my truant heart is straying!
I would steal
In and out the shadowed places that fill all the forest spaces—
For who knows what sudden turning might my Love reveal?

Where the moonlight quivers whitely through the leaves that flutter lightly,
Ah, so fleet
I would be to seek and find him! With my silken hair I'd bind him,
And with whispered words of welcome,
then, my Love I'd greet!

EPISCOPALIAN TREND TOWARD SOCIALISM

Dr. J. Howard Melish Urges the Need of Appeal by Church to Workingmen.

CUT IN SALARY ADVOCATED

Pay of President of Mission Board Criticised—Women to Sit with Delegates?

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 13.—A strong radical spirit looking in the direction of Socialism is manifesting itself in the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church now in session in this city. The meetings, under the direction of the Social Service Commission of the Church, held in a tent in a lot near the Moolah Temple, where the formal meetings of the houses of deputies and Bishops are convened, are attended at recess by many of the senior prelates. There are fifteen new Bishops here, all of more or less advanced economic views and several of them avowedly Socialists.

The Rev. Dr. J. Howard Melish of Brooklyn, a Christian Socialist and a clerical deputy from Long Island, said in the tent at the noon intermission today that the worker was conspicuously absent from the Episcopal fold and that the Church could regain him only by understanding him.

"Multitudes," the speaker added, "come to this country believing it to be a land flowing with milk and honey, but find that the milk is skimmed and that others have run off with the honey. The Church has long emphasized the seed, but she has forgotten the soil. Nothing is to be gained by the Church telling the worker to be honest, avoid violence, and be temperate. The workers in Calumet, in Lawrence, and Colorado know that their wages are determined by the number of available laborers. Our competitive system is morally and socially bankrupt. It is stony ground full of thorns and thistles. The workers know it and ask for soil where the seed of real human and social life may bring forth abundant fruit.

Urges Appeal to Workers.

"When the Church works for the new creation, the workers will become interested in the Church. The Church now recognizes the rich as the class by which its missions and philanthropies are conducted. In the same way, why should it not recognize the wage earners as the instrumentality under God by which the new economic era is to come? They come with new truths, now spiritualities, new ideas, and yet these are the basic ideas of the religion of Jesus. The Church should recognize the new spirit and rejoice in it and do its part to be obedient unto the principles and purposes of Christ."

The Rev. Dr. George Israel Brown of Harrisburg, Penn., offered a resolution in the House of Deputies this morning in which he declared that the present economic system makes for the poverty of the masses and that it should be supplanted by the Christian principle of giving. He asked that the Social Service Commission be empowered to ask the Government of the United States to make a scientific test of the principles of Christian co-operation. The matter was referred to the commission.

Bishop-elect Irving P. Johnson said that the wealth of the Protestant Episcopal Church was not consecrated and that the poor gave to the rich eternal life.

The day was given largely to a joint session of the two houses on missions, and it was not long before the subjects of wealth and poverty were introduced in that connection.

Bishop Charles C. A. Hall of Vermont, after listening to the plea of the Rev. Dr. Arthur Selden Lloyd of New York for lives devoted to poverty and sacrifice, asked the convention to direct that the salary of the President of the Board of Missions be materially reduced. Although the Vermont dignitary had held this view for several years, its utterance at this time, when Dr. Lloyd is going out of office as the head of the Mission Board, came as a bombshell. Dr. Lloyd lives in an apartment at 1 Lexington Avenue.

Advocates Cut in Salary.

"It hardly seems compatible with a plea for men to accept hard places at small stipends," said Bishop Hall, "when the President of the Board of Missions receives $9,500 a year. I move that when the term of the present incumbent ends with this convention the salary be materially cut. I am aware that it will be said that the cost of living in New York is very high, but it is not necessary that the office of the Board of Missions should be maintained there. There are certainly more central places than is New York, as for instance Chicago. At the same time there are certain influences which gather about New York which are not altogether desirable. You see, I am anxious to relieve the head of the Mission Board of a moral handicap, for I cannot see how he can consistently ask men to take hard places for small pay when he himself is in receipt of so large a stipend."

George Wharton Pepper, a member of the Board of Missions, warmly defended the action of the body, saying that it had carefully considered questions of salary, and that it should have full jurisdiction over such matters.

Roswell Page of Virginia insisted that the proposal was out of order in that the power of the board was regulated by canon and that a joint session of the Bishops and the deputies had no authority. The motion was therefore declared out of order, and it does not now even appear on the records of the convention. It produced none the less much discussion unofficially and many comparisons of salaries. One of the clerical deputies reminded the convention that what was said about the head of the Board of Missions might with equal propriety be said of any Bishop who asked young men to take up hard tasks for small salaries.

The average missionary Bishop gets $3,000 a year and a house, while the head of the See of New York gets $15,000 and an official residence, and the Bishop of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia has $10,000 a year. Bishop Hall, who lives in Burlington receives $3,000 a year and a house. He is a bachelor.

George Gordon King, Treasurer of the Board of Missions, reported that during the last three years the Board of Missions had received $4,000,654; that all payments had been met, and that the reserve on hand was $748,776. Contributions from parish churches amounted to $2,246,912. The Sunday-schools contributed $560,456, and from legacies $184,500 was derived.

For Women Delegates.

Robert H. Gardiner of Gardiner, Me., today introduced his much-heralded resolution providing that women shall be admitted to the House of Deputies. The resolution was referred for consideration. Should it prevail it cannot become operative before another convention has accepted it.

The report of the Commission on Faith and Order, which has to do with church unity, was presented by Dean Rogers of Fond du Lac to the House of Deputies this morning. He reported progress and asked that the commission be continued. The commission has opened up negotiations with various communions and is preparing for more active work on the Continent of Europe after the war.

William W. Skiddy of New York was chosen Treasurer of the General Convention by the House of Deputies, with the House of Bishops concurring.

Tomorrow morning the House of Deputies will take up again the question of forbidding the remarriage of divorced persons, over which it was at a deadlock on Friday.

ANALYZES BREAD PRICES.

Government Bureau Discusses Recent Advances and the Outlook.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The increasing cost of bread is discussed in a report made public today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, covering reports from a large number of industrial centres. The sum of the situation appears in the comparative percentages of increased cost of wheat, flour and bread, between May 15 and Sept. 15. Wheat on the latter date was 34 per cent. higher than on May 15. Flour at wholesale was 37 per cent. higher, and at retail 23 per cent. higher. The average price of bread at retail was 11 per cent. higher. This shows that the retail price of the finished product advances far more slowly than the raw product, and the price of wheat, which is an article of speculation, advances more than any other price in the industry.

Bakers in their replies say that where they either have increased the price of the loaf or have decreased the weight of it, they have been forced to do so by the constantly rising price of wheat. The greatest advances have occurred in the last two months. This is due to the settled prospect that the world crop of wheat is much less than last year. Some bakers say that they have met their difficulties by quitting wholesale business, and baking only for their own retail trade, thus absorbing the retail profit. Others have substituted different flours. Many have stopped taking back unsold and stale bread.

Of 210 brands of bread that formerly sold at five cents a loaf, only 14 are now selling at the same price and weight that they were four months ago. The report discusses the margin between wholesale and retail prices. Flour in May was $5.48 at wholesale and $7.62 at retail, which left a margin of $2.14 for freight, local hauling, jobbers' profits, and all expenses between the mill and the oven. In September this margin had shrunk to $1.90.

The average retail price of bread in May was .056, and in September it was .062. The wholesale price of 10.45 ounces of flour in one pound of bread before baking was in May .018, assuming 300 loaves to the barrel of flour, and in September it was .025. The margin, therefore, last May between the flour and the baked bread in a one-pound loaf was 3.8 cents when the bread was sold at the average price of 5.6 cents.

In most cities now the loaf weighs only 12 1-2 ounces, and sells for five cents. In one city, according to the report, the price was advanced and the weight reduced at the same time. In a few cities the price was raised and the weight maintained.

The report does not go into the matter of whether an embargo on wheat raised in the United States would be the proper plan of relief, but it is made clear that the shortage generally has affected the price, and that for this year and until another crop comes along, bread is to be considerably higher.

USE NEW WOODS FOR PAPER.

Experiments Show Rocky Mountain Forests Could Be Utilized.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The vast resources of the national forests of the mountain country of the West are to be drawn upon to relieve the stringency now experienced by American paper manufacturers.

Experiments in progress in the testing laboratory of the United States Forest Service at Madison, Wis., show that chips of the various woods that thrive in the Rocky Mountains are well suited to pulping for paper making. Wisconsin paper companies are now negotiating with railroad companies for rates for shipping experimental loads of chips of Western woods adapted for paper.

The plan is to cut the trees into chips, dry them, and bale them for shipment. It is expected that they can be delivered at the Wisconsin mills at very slight increase of cost over local woods.

There is a demand annually in Wisconsin alone for 300,000 cords of woodpulp wood. The aspen and jack pine, blue spruce and Douglas spruce, which grow in endless abundance and are used only slightly for any purpose, it is believed, could be cut to great advantage without seriously reducing the timber supply of the country or in any manner injuring the water storage on the divides.

DISCUSS BORDER CONTROL.

Commissioners Take Up Details of Plan at Long Sessions.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 13.—The work of the American-Mexican joint commission continued today at the Hotel Traymore with a long session, both morning and afternoon. Discussion of the question of the border control was continued, with the Commissioners of both sides going into minute details of the question and thrashing out all possible flaws by free and protracted expression of opinion on both sides.

At the close of the afternoon session, Commissioner Cabrera, speaking for his colleagues, stated that the labors of the commission were going forward as fast as could reasonably be expected, but the conclusions which had been tentatively agreed upon for purposes of discussion could not be communicated to the press. Secretary Lane, the head of the American section, said that in reality there was nothing which would be of interest at present.

Some importance is attached to the fact that the commission will convene tomorrow. This will be the first Saturday on which the members have remained at their labors. While the Mexican Commissioners have stated definitely that they have had no word as to whether Eliseo Arredondo, Ambassador Designate, will come to Atlantic City, their presence here over the week-end is being interpreted as an indication that either direct or indirect word may be expected from Carranza within the next few days.

A statement was authorized today to the effect that nothing in the way of a protocol had been signed by the commission.

TROOPS START HOME TODAY

Three New York Units Ready to Leave McAllen Camp.

Special to The New York Times.

McALLEN, Texas, Oct. 13.—The first battalion of the Twenty-second Engineers, the First Field Hospital, and the First Ambulance Company completed loading their wagons and other equipment late this evening, and it is expected their train will leave here early tomorrow morning. All the units will go to their armories, the engineers and the hospital unit to New York, and the ambulance company to Binghamton.

All three units will take the same route home. The train will go to Houston on the Gulf Coast lines, from Houston to Ennis, Texas, on the Houston & Texas Central, from Ennis to Paris, Texas, on the Texas Midland, thence to St. Louis on the Frisco lines; from St. Louis to Fort Wayne, Ind., on the Wabash; thence by the Nickel Plate to Buffalo. From Buffalo the engineers and the hospital will be taken by the West Shore lines, and the ambulance companies will proceed to Binghamton on the Lackawanna.

Pershing Gets Aerial Mail Daily.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—A regular daily mail service by aeroplane has been established between Columbus, N. M., and Colonia Dublan, Mexico, headquarters of Major Gen. Pershing's punitive expedition, by the First Aero Squadron. The distance of 120 miles is covered in sixty-six minutes. From 250 to 300 pounds of mail can be carried by the aeroplanes used.

Arredondo Back in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican Ambassador Designate, returned to his post today after conferences with General Carranza in Mexico City. He declined to discuss his visit to the Mexican capital.

CELEBRATION MARKS RUTGERS'S 150 YEARS

Queen Wilhelmina Sends Congratulations to the College Founded by Dutch Settlers.

500 IN HISTORICAL PAGEANT

Descendants of Those Who Danced at Celebration 100 Years Ago Take Part.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 13.—Rutgers College opened its one hundred and fiftieth anniversary celebration today with ceremonies in the First Reformed Church. Governor Fielder presided at the church, where the invocation was pronounced by the Rev. John W. Beardslee of the Class of 1860.

Among those who made addresses at the church were the Chevalier W. L. F. van Rappard, Dutch Minister to the United States, who attended by order of Queen Wilhelmina of Holland. He conveyed the congratulations of his Queen, and recalled that the college was founded by the early Dutch colonists of New Jersey and New York under royal charter from the King of England in 1766.

The exercises in the church were preceded by a procession of the undergraduates, alumni, delegates, and guests. The line formed at Queens Campus, and was led by Charles P. Wilbur of the Class of 1905 as Chief Marshal. In the procession were delegates from Oxford and Cambridge Universities, the University of New Brunswick, the Imperial University of Japan, and from 121 American colleges and universities. Scientific and patriotic societies were also represented, and a number of delegates were from the Dutch Reformed Church.

Dr. William Henry Steele Demarest, D. D., President of the college, in the opening address outlined the history of Rutgers. He told of the achievements of the Rutgers men of the early days, and laid stress on what the college had done through its graduates rather than through the merely mechanical aspects of its material progress. Other speakers at the church were the Rev. Dr. Ame Venneman, President of Hope College, Holland, Mich., who tendered Rutgers the congratulations of the Reformed Church in America, which took part in its foundation.

At noon an informal luncheon was served by the college to more than 1,000 delegates and guests in Ballantine gymnasium.

During the afternoon the historical pageant, showing the growth of the college from its foundation, was given at the college farm. The pageant consisted of a prologue, epilogue and six episodes, and was presented by a cast of more than 500. The first episode showed the migration of the Dutch to New Brunswick. The second the granting of the college charter. The Revolution formed the third episode, and showed the students taking up arms to fight the British. The fourth showed the laying of the cornerstone of the old Queen's building, and then came a dance in the open, period of 1820, and lastly, the flag raising in 1861. A feature of the dance episode was that those who took part were the direct descendants of those who danced at the original celebration, nearly 100 years ago. This was also true of the third episode, in which every man and woman taking part was a descendant of the Revolutionary townspeople of New Brunswick.

The ceremonies of the opening day closed with the anniversary dinner at the gymnasium, at which Dr. Demarest was toastmaster. The principal addresses were made by John H. Finley, New York Commissioner of Education; William H. P. Faunce, President of Brown University, and John Greer Hibben, President of Princeton University.

The various alumni class dinners were held at the same time in hotels and restaurants, three dinners going on simultaneously in the main dining room of the Hotel Klein. During the dinners the undergraduates held a torchlight procession, a snake dance, and closed with a sing-song on the campus.

The ceremonies tomorrow will begin at 10 o'clock in Kirkpatrick Chapel, where there will be addresses and conferring of honorary degrees. In the afternoon the Sons of the American Revolution will place a memorial tablet in Queen's Building and there will be a reception by the New Jersey Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. There will also be a football game between Rutgers and Washington and Lee University, and the day will close with the alumni dinner in the gymnasium.

HEARTMAN AMERICANA SOLD

An Auction of Rare Old Books and Photographs Nets $1,697.

The sale of rare Americana by Charles F. Heartman at 36 Lexington Avenue yesterday realized $1,697. Daniel R. Kennedy was the auctioneer. Mr. Thompson paid the highest price of the day, $125, for Catalogue No. 144, the broadside issued by the War Department in 1865 offering rewards for the capture of President Abraham Lincoln's murderers.

Robert Friedenberg gave $22 for No. 8, Charles Smith's "Gentleman's Political Pocket Almanac for 1796," with the rare portrait of George Washington engraved by Scoles.

George D. Smith obtained for $62 No. 11, "An Almanac of the Coelestial Motions, Aspects and Eclipses for 1712," by Edward Holyoke. Only one other copy seems to be known. R. H. Dodd paid $55 for No. 13, "A Pocket Almanac for 1766" by R. Saunders, printed and sold by Benjamin Franklin and D. Hall in Philadelphia.

Mr. Thompson gave $31 for No. 35, "The American Traveller," London, 1770. Four works by Thomas Bray, Nos. 47, 48, 49, and 50, were bought on order for $266. They are "Memorial Representing the Present State of Religion in North America," 1701; "Acts of Dr. Bray's Visitation," 1700; "Bibliotheca Parochialis," 1707, and "Public Spirit," 1746. Mr. Thompson paid $61 for No. 78, "A Letter from South Carolina giving an account of the soil, &c., written by a Swiss gentleman from Charleston," London, 1710. A photograph of Abraham Lincoln, signed by him, No. 147, went to Thomas Madigan for $32. Mr. Thompson obtained for $51 No. 151, "Decus ac Tutamen," by Cotton Mather, New London, 1724.

Lathrop C. Harper paid $25 for No. 176, "Zion Rejoicing in Her King," Boston, 1746, and $72.50 for No. 177, "A Poem on the Execution of William Shaw," Boston, 1771. The Library of Congress gave $30 for No. 192, "A Letter from a Romish Priest in Canada," Boston, 1729. Mr. Harper paid $35 for No. 200, the "Susquehanna Title," Catskill, 1796. The Iowa State Library gave $31 for No. 245, the rare Statutes of Vermont, 1791.

Ambassador Sato Meets Lansing.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Aimaro Sato, the new Japanese Ambassador, was officially presented today to Secretary Lansing and other officials at the State Department. He probably will present his credentials to President Wilson when he returns to Washington for the Winter.

BIPLANE IS READY FOR CHICAGO FLIGHT

Rain Delays Carlstrom's Trial of Machine Which Will Carry Him Here.

GETS SUIT FROM PEARY

Sectional Maps on Many Cards Will Guide the Aviator on the Journey.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, Oct. 13.—The biplane in which Victor Carlstrom is to fly from Chicago to New York for THE NEW YORK TIMES is ready for the journey. With all repairs and alterations completed, the machine stood today in front of the hangar, waiting for more auspicious conditions for the start. With the ceasing of the rain this evening there seemed to be good probability that Carlstrom could begin the tryouts of the machine tomorrow, although the rains have left the Curtiss field in such condition that it will probably be late afternoon before a flight can be attempted.

Carlstrom received today the special flying suit which was presented to him by Rear Admiral Peary. The outfit consists of boots, trousers and a combination coat and cap which slips over the head, and is not complicated by any kind of fastenings. The garments are made of sheepskin.

CARD MAPS FOR CARLSTROM.

Novel Plan to Aid Aviator in Chicago-New York Flight.

Stuart Macdonald, active manager of the American Transoceanic Company, which was formed by Rodman Wanamaker to promote an aeroplane flight across the Atlantic, said yesterday that there was no doubt that THE TIMES Chicago-New York flight would be successful. Mr. Macdonald has been flying for several years, and one of his hydroaeroplanes was the first to be accepted for service by the naval militia. Mr. Macdonald has examined the maps which Victor Carlstrom, THE TIMES flier, will use, and has seen all the equipment.

"To my mind, and I have been conversant with the problems of distance flying for some time," Mr. Macdonald said, "there is no doubt that Carlstrom will make the flight just as it is planned. I know Carlstrom and I know the machine he will fly. What is more, I know the record of the motor that he will use; I know how it passed its tests, and I feel sure that it will see him through.

"Probably the most interesting part of his equipment are the maps he will use to guide himself. These have been prepared and are now ready. At first it was planned that the map, showing the strip of country over which he would fly, covering Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, would be put on a long strip on rollers, to be unrolled as he passed over the country. Then it was recalled that such maps often jammed and a card system was adopted.

"Each card will show a certain part of the journey, and as soon as he has flown over that part he will withdraw the card and the next one will carry him on for the next 100 miles. The scale is large and will show county lines as well as railroads and main-traveled highways. The county lines are valuable because the fences usually follow them. Carlstrom will know as soon as he sees fences that are uniformly parallel that he is nearing the county line, and this will give him a good idea of his situation. Of course, if he only flies 3,000 feet up he will be able, on a clear day, to see thirty miles in every direction. The higher he gets the further he can see, and if he flies at more than 8,000 feet, as he probably will, he will have a view of nearly 100 miles.

"The maps themselves are being prepared especially for this trip and will probably be used as models for future cross-country flight. The line of flight is shown in red and the roads and railroad lines in various colored inks.

"If Carlstrom is prevented from seeing the earth by clouds or storms, he can use his Creagh-Osborn air compass. At this time of year storms, particularly thunder storms, if encountered, will be found at an altitude of 3,000 to 5,000 feet. He will probably be flying above them and if not, will have to rise only a few hundred feet to find a clear route. His speed indicator will tell him about how far he has flown, and he will know where he is when he can see the earth again. In addition to this method, his drift indicator will be useful in helping him find his situation when he sights the earth again.

"Carlstrom will have no difficulty in finding his landmarks. Cities and villages show up well although they look very small. For instance, when you are flying 1,000 or more feet above the Hudson River it looks like a bathtub and it worries you to think of bringing your hydroaeroplane down on its surface. When you arrive on the water, you find that it is more than half a mile wide and you have all the room in the world.

"What makes THE TIMES flight appeal to every one interested in aviation is that it is the finest kind of pioneer work in the way of distance flying. This is the flying of the near future and means the development of the heavier-than-air machine into the transport of the future. Carlstrom will blaze the air trail from Chicago to this city and will be the first to show the way that will be followed by many others within the year. I expect before long to see the Chicago-New York-London flight made regularly in about forty hours. The business man or banker who is in a hurry will be able to reach London from his office in Chicago and return to his office in less than four days.

"Long distance flying is the safest sport in the world. Unlike motoring, there is unlimited roadway in the air. Sixty miles an hour on a railroad train or in an automobile implies great risk. In the air there is none. Furthermore, when air-routes are operated regularly, travel over them will be much cheaper than travel in automobiles. Of course, it will not be as cheap as the railroads, but think of the speed—this more than compensates for the added cost.

"All the improvements that have been made in aviation during this war have gone abroad. The aeronautic engineers have given their energies to perfecting machines for war use. After the war, we will reap the benefit of all this. Aeroplanes will then be turned to the uses of peace and will soon be listed as 'common carriers.' This country, now in the lead, will soon take its place as the greatest commercial aeroplane market in the world, and aeroplanes will be used almost as generally as automobiles are now.

"This means that the pilot of the near future will be the airnavigator—the man who can get in his aeroplane and with his maps and compass go anywhere. By taking the lead in promoting such a flight as that from Chicago to this city, THE TIMES has earned the gratitude of every one connected with aviation, and what is more, it will have the honor of bringing the world's distance record to this country, where it belongs."

DR. MATTHEW WOODS DEAD.

Famous Specialist on Epilepsy and Author Dies After Operation.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—Dr. Matthew Woods, one of the best-known specialists on epilepsy in the world and an author, died here today after an operation, in his sixty-eighth year.

He was born in Ireland and came to this country soon after the beginning of the civil war and entered the navy, with which he served for four years. He received his medical education here and in 1875 began practice in this city.

Dr. Woods was a member of the American Medical Association, the National Society for the Study of Epilepsy and the Philadelphia Psychiatric Society. He was actively interested in arts and letters and was a former President of the Browning Society of Philadelphia and of the Philadelphia Society of Arts and Letters, and was a member of the Authors' League of America, the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and a number of others. Dr. Woods was also President of the Philadelphia Medical Mission, and belonged to the Pennsylvania and Medical Clubs.

He was the author of several books, among which were "Rambles of a Physician," "Divorce," and "Was the Apostle Paul an Epileptic?"

EX-SENATOR BRADLEY DIES.

Twice President of New Jersey Senate and Twice Assembly Speaker.

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 13.—William J. Bradley, twice Speaker of the Assembly and twice President of the State Senate, died today in the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania. He was taken ill on Saturday at his Summer home in Atlantic City.

Mr. Bradley started in politics in 1892, when he was elected a member of the City Council here. In 1908, he was elected Assemblyman, and was re-elected four times, serving longer than any other Assemblyman from Camden County. In both 1901 and 1902, he was elected Speaker of the Assembly, and in the latter year was elected Senator, and served three terms. His political career came to an end in 1911, because, as he charged at the time, he had offended the "powers that be" by supporting certain legislation favored by Governor Woodrow Wilson, including the Public Utility act of that year.

Mr. Bradley was President of the American Dredging Company. He left a widow, two daughters and a son.

Obituary Notes.

Miss AUGUSTA T. BALL, 40 years old, for many years a teacher in the Sunday school of the Mount Olivet Presbyterian Church, died on Wednesday at her home, 1,850 Putnam Avenue, Brooklyn. She was a daughter of the late John H. and Martha Ball and is survived by two brothers.

"THIS is the author's first book—'my first literary effort,' he calls it. The dictionary imparts the information that an effort is a strenuous endeavor. If that is what Mr. Dery means we must call his first effort an achievement.
"The supreme test of a story is the author's ability to get the reader's attention at the start and hold it. Mr. Dery has accomplished this."—New York Evening Mail.
"A vastly entertaining story of entertaining people and the double background of the Balkan countries and New York City. . . . The satisfying climax leaves one filled with the delightful sense of the fitness of it all. That the gifted author knows his countries and his people, not form a superficial acquaintance, but from a really intimate association, is evident to the most casual reader."—Buffalo Courier.
"The plot is well conceived, moves rapidly to a logical conclusion, and is thoroughly interesting."—New York Evening Post.

Filling His Own Shoes
By HENRY C. ROWLAND
At the opening of this story the hero is a clerk in the Paris store of a world-famed shoe company. At the end, he has won the wife and the position he had set his heart on. The adventures he meets with during his rise in the world are sometimes thrilling, sometimes amusing, but always plausible, even when he becomes the heir to a large fortune and the guardian of four beautiful girls.
The reader, while absorbed in the story, will be no less interested in watching the rise of an honest, likeable young American who plays the game squarely and fights his way against odds to well-deserved success.

Capital To-day
A study of recent economic development
by Herman Cahn
An original, scientific analysis and exposition of the post-Marxian development of capital, with reference to the concentration and unification of industrial and money capital and especially to the portentous changes in the forms of money.
"Silence reigns concerning the menacing money question. The author's work is designed to break this silence in the interest of up-to-date economics."—Philadelphia North American.
"A complete and clear analysis of the accumulation of money capital and its influence on modern social conditions, and is the best work of its kind since the close of the period dealt with by Marx. Cahn is an able economist. He has handled the money problem from a dual standpoint, that of the scientist, applying exact analysis to his work, and that of the practical business man with wide experience."—Kansas City Post.
"It is not superfluous to commend the book to that part of society which does not know what the other part is thinking. . . . An interesting exposition of Marxism brought up to date."—The New York Times.

SCOTCH PROFESSIONAL DEFEATS HOMEBRED IN SEMI-FINAL ROUND OF GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

HAGEN DEFEATED BY DOUGHTY SCOT

Jock Hutchinson Overcomes Native Son in Last Few Holes of Pro. Golf Semi-Final.

JIM BARNES ALSO WINS

Whitemarsh Valley Player Puts Out Willie Macfarlane and Will Be Other Finalist at Siwanoy Today.

Scotland forever! Braw Jock Hutchinson, the fiery laddie from the land of the heather, Pittsburgh's hope and Scotland's pride in the first annual tournament for the championship of the Professional Golfers' Association at Siwanoy, tumbled Walter Hagen, Metropolitan and Western open champion, into defeat in the semi-final round of the title contest yesterday, winning 2 up on the home green, in a match during which the young homebred seemed a probable winner until the last few holes were played.

Long Jim Barnes of Whitemarsh Valley will be the opponent of the doughty Scot in the final match for the professional title today, and the lion of England will endeavor to make a wholesome meal of the thistles of Scotland. Barnes overcame one Scot getting into the final round, defeating Willie Macfarlane 6 up and 5 to play in a match in which the Hudson River professional began playing golf about eighteen holes too late, and to the tall Englishman, as he has been playing golf lately, what is one Scot more or less in a fair field with no favor?

However, thistles have thorns, as Hagen found to his sorrow, and lions have been known to develop cases of indigestion on much less provocation than a diet of Scotland's favorite flower. From the manner in which Hutchinson overcame Hagen's lead and won out in a driving finish yesterday, the lanky Englishman must beware lest the thistle of Scotland be more of a thorn in the side than a meal in his maw.

Hagen Leads in Morning.

With the defeat of Hagen, the flower of the homebred flock, goes the last chance of a victory for a native son, and, much as the eager gallery desired to see America first, the fine fighting finish of the Scot was well appreciated and liberally applauded. Hagen was 1 up at the end of the morning round, and held the same advantage at the turn in the afternoon. He lost this lead, however, and was 1 down at the thirteenth hole.

When he overcame this lead and squared the match on the next green, it seemed as though his ultimate triumph was assured, but the reckoning was made without the host—and Hutchinson proved a host in himself. He gained a lead of one hole when the Metropolitan champion topped his drive from the sixteenth tee, and this advantage he clung to grimly until Hagen's ball, and eke his hopes, were hopelessly mired in a ditch short of the home green.

Neither professional was playing wonderful scoring golf, but no finer contest has been seen in the metropolitan district for many moons. The homebred fell short of the fourth green in the early stages of the match and gave his opponent a chance to win with a stroke under par, which he accordingly did. However, this green is 514 yards from the tee, and if a golfer fails to reach it on his second shot, the fault is at least pardonable. Both players were lucky in their assault on the fifth green. Hagen bounced his ball off a rock to the green, and Hutchinson used a tree for a carrom shot of the same description and the 492-yard hole was halved in 4.

An approach shot to the seventh green that started well but finished badly put Hagen two holes behind his rival, but the Scotchman presented him with the eighth hole by the simple process of taking three putts, and the lead was cut to a single hole once more. Hagen went into the trenches as he approached the ninth green and the clubhouse, with the result that he was 2 down at the turn with a 38 to a 36 for the Allegheny professional.

Scotchman Dallies in Sand.

Hutchinson dilly-dallied in the sand on the way to the tenth green, took three putts on the eleventh, and when he paused to take stock of the proceedings he found he was bankrupt, with his capital of two holes and his income of confidence stolen away by the sharp practices of the Metropolitan open champion.

The 199-yard uphill thirteenth green was an exhibition of "frightfulness" on the part of the principals in the contest, but Hagen emerged a winner by a single stroke, covered, if not with glory, at least with sand. Hutchinson put his tee shot in a grove of trees to the right of the green and Hagen fell short into a pit that is well supplied with the material that goes to make up a Sahara. The Scot put his second shot nowhere in particular, and his third in the same place. As for Hagen, he took one shot with his niblick, two with his putter, and was 1 up for the first time in the match.

The remaining holes were halved in the morning round and Hagen held his lead over the period reserved for rest and refreshment. However, if the match had gone against the Pittsburgh professional, he would justly have laid it against his play through this part of the contest. On three separate occasions he had a fine chance to win a hole, and each time he resolutely turned his back on Opportunity and walked blindly in the opposite direction.

He missed a short putt on the fourteenth, where his approach was dead, and he missed another of a similar kind on the sixteenth green after he had pitched to the pin from the depths of a sand pit. On the seventeenth Hagen sliced far off the line with his drive and landed wrong side up in a pit. He was short of the green on his second, but once more Jock of Scotland neglected his opportunity and pitched far to the right of the green on his approach.

Scot Bad, Native Worse.

When Hutchinson reached the third tee in the afternoon and was still 1 down he knew that the match was about to be squared unless he absolutely foundered on the way to the green, for the short third hole at Siwanoy is one that Hagen loves to linger on, taking as many strokes as the law allows. It is doubtful if the young Metropolitan champion has registered a par 3 there since he started in the tournament. At any rate, Hutchinson's expectations were fulfilled, and he won the hole with a 4 by being merely bad where Hagen was still worse.

A 4 on the long fifth hole put the homebred 1 up again, but the match was squared once more on the short sixth, where Hutchinson holed his first sizable putt of the match, a ten-footer that won for him with a 3. Hagen put his tee shot in the gully and took a 4. On the eighth hole Hutchinson put his tee shot in a bunker, losing the hole and restoring the one-hole lead to his opponent.

Hagen held the lead at the turn and kept it for the next two holes, though his grip was slipping. On the twelfth the homebred put his second shot into such difficulties on the side of a bunker that he abandoned the hole after knocking his ball around aimlessly for half a dozen strokes. This squared the match, and the Scot took the lead at 1 up on the thirteenth, when Hagen repeated his morning performance in the trap at that point.

Gloom was plainly written all over the faces of the gallery. Dark clouds were lowering, rain was falling, a wind was rising, confidence had fled, and only hope was left. Here Hagen proved himself a real golfer by putting his approach within a few yards of the cup and sinking his putt for a 3 that squared the match again.

Two fine 4s on the fifteenth left the matter still unsettled, and then Hagen hit a fearful and wonderful drive from the sixteenth tee that traveled at least fifty yards and ended up in a neat nest of long grass that grew untrammeled in a bog just off the tee. He lost the hole, after a fine recovery to the edge of the green, by taking three shots from that distance to the bottom of the cup.

He had a putt to square the match on the seventeenth, but he missed it, and went to the home hole 1 down. His drive skipped along the edge of a pit, but left him an open shot to the green. He had to put that iron shot dead to win the hole, as Hutchinson had a probable 4 in sight. "Now or never," sighed Hagen, and had he listened he might have heard echo answer "Never!" for he flubbed his shot into a ditch near the road, and, after dropping another ball, played croquet toward the green in time to congratulate the smiling Scot on his well-won victory.

Long Jim Barnes was not pressed to win his match against Willie Macfarlane, but he should have been pressed, if not flattened, for his play in the morning round was far from his usual form. Macfarlane absolutely refused to take advantage of his opponent's lapses, however, and was 4 down at the end of the morning round. A fine long player through the green, Macfarlane displays an uncanny consistency in missing short putts just at the most inopportune moments.

In contrast to his style of play on the putting green is that of Jim Barnes. Any twenty-foot putt or thereabout that is needed to halve or win a hole for the tall Englishman is generally forthcoming at the right time. Here, however, Barnes enjoys a great advantage over the majority of his opponents that a committee for the preservation of the relics of the opponents of James Barnes might well investigate.

Barnes's Putting Angle.

When he is putting, Barnes leans at a forty-five degree angle toward the hole, with his right leg, the ball, and the head of the putter trailing far in the rear. On a twenty-foot putt when Barnes leans forward he is halfway to the hole, giving him the impression that the putt is only ten feet long. With this great advantage he holes most of these tantalizing strokes, and the suggestion has been made and duly seconded that he be allowed to lean forward only on alternate holes, beginning with the first, and on the even numbered holes he be compelled to lean backward to even things up.

Barnes won the second hole in the morning round by driving most of the way to the green, putting up a fine approach shot and holing his putt for a 3. Macfarlane encountered difficulties on the fourth hole, and his opponent added that to his collection with a 5, and then made it 3 up with a good 4 on the fifth. Thinking it time to call a halt on such proceedings, the Hudson River pro holed an eight-foot putt for a 2 on the sixth and captured the seventh with a 5, cutting the lead to a single hole. Barnes stymied him on the tenth green, sank a twelve-foot putt on the eleventh for a 2, took the thirteenth with a 4, and was 4 up.

He held this lead to the end of the round, and made it 6 up on the first two holes in the afternoon. From this point to the finish of the match, Macfarlane played the fine golf that he is capable of at his best moments. However, as Macfarlane improved his play, Barnes did likewise, and with a see-saw disposition of the remaining holes Barnes held his lead and clinched the match on the thirteenth green, 6 up and 5 to play.

MARSTON IN SEMI-FINAL.

Maxwell, Elkins, and Worthington Also Win in Shawnee Golf.

SHAWNEE-ON-THE-DELAWARE, Penn., Oct. 13.—Maxwell Marston of Baltusrol, N. H. Maxwell of Aronimink, G. W. Elkins, Jr., Huntingdon Valley, and R. F. Worthington, Shawnee, won their way to the semi-finals of the Shawnee Country Club Fall golf tournament here today.

Marston defeated A. W. Westny of Atlantic City, 6 and 5, in the first round and won from J. R. Frazier, New York, 4 and 3, in the afternoon round. Maxwell defeated L. N. Schoonmaker, Forest Hills, 7 and 5 in the morning, and won from Alexander Coles, Shawnee, 2 and 1 in the second round. Elkins defeated J. W. Alsopp, Forest Hills, 3 and 2 in the morning, and won from J. B. Canby, Jr., Merion, by 2 up in the afternoon.

Worthington defeated W. H. Davis, Baltusrol, 3 and 2 in the morning, and M. Tilden, Jr., Huntingdon Valley, in the afternoon, 1 up.

UNIVERSITY CLUB GOLF.

Annual Fall Tournament Is to be Held on Oct. 18.

S. Clifton Mabon, Secretary of the University Club Golf Association, has announced the date of the annual Fall tournament of the association for Wednesday, Oct. 18. In accordance with a custom which they recently inaugurated, the tournament will be held over the links of the Nassau and Piping Rock Clubs, with the field divided into two divisions, one to play in the morning at Nassau and in the afternoon at Piping Rock, and the other division to adopt a vice versa arrangement.

It will be a 36-hole medal play handicap, with prizes for best 36 holes gross, best 18 holes gross, three best net scores for 36 holes, and a best net for 18 holes on each course in the afternoon. Automobiles will carry the players from one course to the other and, as they are located only a few miles apart, the journey will require less than ten minutes. In order that players may be assigned to their respective groups, entries should be in the hands of O. E. Caesar, 14 Wall Street, before next Monday.

RESTA FAVORITE FOR RACE.

Twenty-one Cars in 250-Mile Auto Event at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Twenty-one cars will start in the 250-mile great American automobile race at the Speedway tomorrow, among the number such drivers as Aitken, Resta, De Palma, and Rickenbacker. Resta is favorite, because he has won every race run in Chicago this year.

Owing to unfavorable weather today the elimination trials were waived. Notwithstanding, some fast laps were made, De Palma circling the bowl at a clip of 105 miles an hour. Galvin did a little better than 102 miles an hour.

TOME GETS NEW ATHLETES.

Maryland School's Roster Includes Some Promising Lads.

George Francis Green, the new physical director at the Tome School, Port Deposit, Md., will have entire charge of Tome's system of physical training which requires each boy to take a suitable amount of exercise every day.

A number of young athletes whom Green has been training for some time past, at Camp Mishawaka in Minnesota, have entered Tome this Fall. Among them are Marshall Pridmore of Chicago, who has won success as a quarter-miler; Earl Pridmore, who, though only 15 years old, weighs 174 pounds, and is considered a most promising athlete; George Marshall of Indianapolis, who has attended Camp Mishawaka for six years, and is known in the schoolboy world as a swift half-miler, and Donald O. Brock of Kenilworth, Ill., a valuable trackman.

PLAYERS RECEIVE SHARES IN SERIES

Twenty-two of Robins Get $2,645 Each and Same Number of Red Sox $3,826.25.

Players of the Boston and Brooklyn baseball teams sliced a juicy melon yesterday, when nearly $163,000 was divided among the men who took part in the world's series won by the Red Sox. According to the official figures, the wearers of the lurid hose shared $97,756.47, while the Dodgers, because of their inability to cope successfully with the American League and world's champions, had to be content with $65,170.96.

There were no absentees at Ebbets Field yesterday afternoon, when those entitled to a share of the spoils were required to put in an appearance and relieve the Brooklyn management of the superfluous cash. The division was made in secret, and Wilbert Robinson, who was intrusted with the task of disbursing the small fortune, was rather chary of giving details as to the exact way in which the money was split.

He stated that twenty-two players received $2,645 each, but that scarcely accounts for all the money, and the probability is that several who did not actually take part in the series were reimbursed in a measure for their adherence to the club owned by Cahrles H. Ebbets and Stephen McKeever. Under the rules of the National Commission, the players are supposed to share and share alike, but it is likely that the real owners of the bonus generously let in some of their less fortunate clubmates. A rumor that neither Merkle nor McCarty shared in the profits could not be verified; neither could the supposition be confirmed that Wheezer Dell, Ed Appleton, Gus Getz, and Ollie O'Mara were less fortunate than the others.

The jingle of the coin smoothed the feelings of the Robins, which had been harshly ruffled by the ruthless Red Sox, in the brief struggle for the world's title, and all approved of a proposition to hand over $1,000 to be divided among three men who helped in the success of the team. These were Dr. Hart, the trainer of the team; Danny Comerford, the baggagemaster, and Arthur Dede, the semi-professional who assisted by handling the delivery of the pitchers while they were warming up.

With the money safely tucked away as close to their skins as possible, the erstwhile heroes of Brooklyn's baseball world accepted the invitation of Manager Wilbert Robinson to close the season with feast and song. Uncle Robbie was host at a luncheon at Pohlmeyer's, where the players soon forgot their grievances. Nearly every man on the team made a little speech, far more cordial in nature than the remarks they had been in the habit of addressing to unfeeling umpires during the season. Though they still felt the sting of defeat, no tears were shed, and the players separated with the firm belief that next year the world's series flag would be their ultimate goal.

It was a joyful crowd that gathered in Boston to celebrate the victory over the Dodgers in the substantial and satisfying manner of splitting up nearly $100,000 among the champions of the universe. Each Boston player is now rated as more than $1,000 better at the game than his fellow from Brooklyn, as each of the twenty-two men actively engaged in trimming the Dodgers received $3,826.25. The remainder was given to substitutes and employes. Heine Wagner and Vean Gregg received three-quarters of a share each; Wyckoff and Pennock divided one share, and Walsh, who came to the team only in the last month of the season, received $1,000. Edward Riley, the former Secretary, and Charles Green, the club trainer, each received $500, and other employes were also remembered, including the bat boy, who tucked away $50.

Manager William Carrigan, who has guided the team to two world's titles in as many years, bade good-bye to the players, and said he was "through with baseball for all time." President Lannin, however, said he was still hoping that Carrigan would return. George Foster, who, in spite of a lame back, pitched a no-hit game this season, also announced his retirement in order to develop his farm at Bokoshe, Okla. Carrigan's plans are uncertain, but he laughed at the report that he would enter politics.

The Red Sox will play an exhibition game at New Haven tomorrow, after which many of the players will spend the Autumn in hunting. Mayor Curley of Boston invited the team to a banquet, but the offer was declined with thanks.

There is still a little formality to be attended to in Brooklyn, the last sad rites being the return of between $40,000 and $50,000 paid for tickets for a third game at Ebbets Field, which the prowess of the Superbas could not make necessary. Those who bought tickets in lots of three will have the amount paid for the mythical third game given back to them at Ebbets Field on Monday morning.

LEHIGH'S COACH IS ILL.

Little Confidence in Team That Last Year Held Yale to 7 to 6 Score.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Penn., Oct. 13.—Practically no advance has been made by the Lehigh eleven the last week, Keady has been indisposed. Keady is suffering from tonsilitis, and for the last several days has been compelled to issue orders from his room. He will not be able to go to New Haven tomorrow. Quite a different eleven from the veteran team, which last year held Yale to a 7 to 6 score, will be the one the Brown and White will send down tomorrow. Seven of the eleven players are men who have yet to undergo a real test. Only brief signal drill, coupled with some dummy tackling, was gone through with this afternoon.

Richards Wins in Shoot for Cup.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 13.—W. H. Richards of New Haven, Conn., by scoring 104 out of a possible 105, won the Leech Cup in the opening match today of the National Rifle Association's tournament. Sergeant E. E. Greenlaw, United States Marine Corps, and Edward W. Swooting, Pennsylvania National Guard, finished second and third, respectively.

DUNLOP GOLF BALLS

SKATING IN FULL SWING.

Large Crowds at Opening of St. Nicholas and Ice Skating Palace.

The indoor ice skating season got in full swing last night when the doors were opened at two of the largest rinks in the city, the St. Nicholas Rink and the Ice Skating Palace at 181st Street and Broadway. Old patrons of the St. Nicholas Rink were treated to an agreeable surprise as they entered the rink for their first whirl of the season. The rink, since its closing last season, had been remodeled, and it presented an entirely new interior last night. Improvements have been made in the lobby, foyer hall, and dressing rooms, and new steel lockers have been installed. The opening was one of the most successful in the history of the rink, and it was stated that 3,000 persons attended.

About 1,500 persons greeted the season's opening at the Ice Skating Palace. The management announced that the ice will be kept in shape for figure skating and other exhibitions until the middle of June.

The Iceland Rink, at Fifty-second Street and Broadway, threw open its doors several days ago, and crowds of an encouraging size have occupied the ice at each session since.

PAWLING WINS FIRST GAME.

School Team Defeats N. Y. U. Second by Score of 14 to 0.

Pawling School's football eleven opened its gridiron season yesterday afternoon with a victory over the New York University second team, at Pawling, N. Y., by a score of 14 to 0. The Pawling representatives were at a disadvantage in the matter of weight, but they displayed a strong offensive from the start and their defense was impregnable. Babcock, the Pawling quarter back, was the individual star. He accounted for all of his school's points, scoring touchdowns from which he kicked goals, in the first and third periods.

The line-up and summary:

N. Y. U. PRACTICES IN RAIN.

Runs Through Signals in Final Work for Haverford Game.

New York University held its final practice before the Haverford game in a downpour of rain yesterday. Coach Eustis only had the men out in the open a short time, and devoted all of this time to signal practice. Only the 'Varsity squad was on hand, as the scrubs were away, playing Pawling. In the evening at the training table Coach Eustis spent an hour and a quarter in illustrating plays on the blackboard.

The game with Haveford today will be played on Ohio Field, University Avenue and 181st Street, at 3 P. M. The probable line-up of the Violet team will be as follows: Carroll, left end; Sokolower, left tackle; Jordan, left guard; House, centre; Ponterey, right guard; Hoffman, right tackle; Egan, right end; Mackenzie, quarter back; Cann, left half back; Hammerschlag, right half back; Bernstein, full back.

SWARTHMORE IS HOPEFUL.

Garnet Has Good Team to Avenge Defeat by Penn. in 1914.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Oct. 13.—After an intermission of two years, Swarthmore's group of football hopefuls will appear at Franklin Field tomorrow afternoon to seek battle with their big Quaker brothers of Pennsylvania.

The Garnet did not play Pennsylvania last season, but the suburbanites with a team that is reputed to be their best in a stretch of years will strive for revenge for the severe lacing which was inflicted upon them by the Red and Blue in 1914.

Last Saturday the Garnet performed the unexpected by handing Lafayette a defeat and so Bob Folwell, with such a warning, will drive his strongest combination into battle to keep clean the record of his first régime at his Alma Mater.

ROWING CLUB IN DANGER.

Analostans Threatened by Park Improvement Scheme at Washington.

Improvements of the park system at the nation's capital threaten the life of one of the oldest and most active of the rowing clubs of the country—the Analostans of Washington, which has been in active existence since just after the close of the civil war, and which originally gave to amateur rowing the fillip it so badly needed when amateur athletics were at their lowest ebb. The building of the new driveway connecting Rock Creek and Potomac Parks necessitates the condemnation of the property on which the club's boathouse is located.

The Analostans financed rowing when the sport needed help sent crews to amateur regattas in all parts of the country, and were active in the creation of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. The club is now one of the strongest athletic organizations in the District and has numbered among its active members officials of the National Government, Senators and scores of members of Congress from all parts of the country interested in athletics.

Lacrosse Convention Today.

The annual meeting of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse League will take place at the Park Avenue Hotel today at 2 P. M. Representatives of each member of the league, which comprises Cornell University, Harvard University, Hobart College, Johns Hopkins University, Lehigh University, Stevens Institute of Technology, Swarthmore College, University of Pennsylvania, and Yale University, will be present.

BEDWELL'S ANITA WINS AT LAUREL

Takes Six-Furlong Handicap, Her First Victory in Eleven Starts.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 13.—Only a fair-sized crowd attended the races at the Maryland State Fair Association's track this afternoon, but this did not in the least detract from the racing itself, as the sport was highly interesting and a number of close finishes helped to add to the excitement.

A six-furlong handicap for fillies and mares was the feature of the program. This event was won by H. G. Bedwell's Anita, which scored her first victory in eleven starts. The youngster picked up 120 pounds, handling her impost like a veteran. J. S. Tyree's Celto, the first choice, carrying top weight, came in second, a length behind the winner, with R. F. Carman's Lady Barbara just getting inside the money. The running of James Butler's Miss Puzzle was rather a disappointing exhibition to many of the spectators, who thought that the Disguise filly had a good chance of winning the race.

The running of Supernal, which won the opening race, carrying the Butler silks to victory, was recompense in part for the poor showing of Miss Puzzle. The former is proving to be quite a useful racing filly, and in her seven starts she has only been three times out of the money. In the race, which was for two-year-old maidens, Supernal made all the pace, closely followed by Cherry Ripe, with Bright Star in the rear. The other contestants did not figure in the running, the first three finishing in the order named.

As the entries were so numerous in this race the field was cut in two and the second event was under the same conditions. This went to D. S. Dryer's Flare, with Sargon II. second. Royal Interest, which ran so well at the Empire City meeting this Summer, accounted for the three-year-old race at a mile. In winning, the Phillips entry took The Rump into camp. The latter did not show much speed and was easily disposed of. James MacManus's Presumption came in third.

Oscar Lewisohn's Benevolent was a handy winner in the race for three-year-olds and upward at a mile. The Benvenuto gelding, however, did not have a very representative field to defeat. Success, from the Quincy Stable, took the selling event at a mile and seventy yards.

The summaries, with straight, place, and show odds:

Eddie T., Day Day, Song of Valley, Dinah Do, Maccabee, Galar, Fonctionaire also ran. Senator Casey scratched.

Pari-Mutuels at Juarez Track.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 13.—Word today from Colonel Matt J. Winn of Louisville, President of the Jockey Club of Juarez, Mexico, stated that the eighth annual racing season, of a hundred days or more, will open at the Juarez track on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 30, for the first the Pari-mutual form of betting will be used exclusively.

ROCKEFELLER HORSES WIN.

Jumpers Take Both Blue and Red Ribbons at Westchester Show.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Although a cold wind and rainstorm swept over the White Plains fair grounds this afternoon it did not dampen the enthusiasm of the exhibitors at the Westchester Horse Show.

Percy Rockefeller, owner of Owenoke Farm, at Greenwich, Conn., again won both the blue and red ribbons in two classes for high jumpers. Mr. Rockefeller makes a specialty of this class of thoroughbreds, and has a stable filled with champions. His stable manager, L. H. Conger, rode Maitland in the open class for jumpers and carried off first prize over a big field.

There was close competition in the class of branded ponies, and the judges finally awarded first honors to Vinilla, owned by John L. Desaulles. Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim was the victor in the saddle horse class, winning a $50 prize and blue rosette with The Flirt over Miss Virginia Brown's Cocoa Pot.

WILSON BUYS STUD FARM.

Owner of Campfire Takes Possession of Kirklevington Nursery.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 13.—R. T. Wilson, Jr., New York turfman, has joined the ranks of American millionaires who maintain nurseries in Kentucky. This became known today when Arch L. Hamilton, owner of the famous nursery, Kirklevington, announced that he leased the place to Mr. Wilson, and that the New Yorker has already taken possession.

The showing of his great two-year-old Campfire, a Kentucky product, is said to have led Mr. Wilson into his new venture. Kirklevington contains over 500 acres of bluegrass land, and is one of the most up-to-date nurseries in the district.

SWIMMING AT COLLEGES.

Plans Made for Active Season, Including National Team Test.

With the outdoor aquatic season virtually at an end, attention is again drawn to collegiate swimming, for the 'Varsity watermen are giving signs of unusual activity, and news comes from several quarters of interesting developments.

Advices from the coast indicate that the first team of college swimmers ever sent out from California will visit the East during the Winter. Stanford University has a strong squad this year, headed by Norman Ross, the crack Olympic Club all-around swimmer, and Louis Balbach, the champion diver, and expects to arrange meets for it with the best teams of the Intercollegiate and Conference Leagues. Plans for the trip were recently submitted to the athletic authorities and tentatively approved.

Negotiations are under way for a post-season dual meet between the teams winning the respective championships in the Intercollegiate and Conference tournaments, and if they are brought to satisfactory conclusion, as seems likely, efforts will be made to have the Californians schedule their visit so that they can take part and thereby raise the fixture to the standard of a national team test of college supremacy.

The ranks of the Intercollegiate League promise to be enlarged. Rutgers will apply for regular membership, in order to be able to enter both the swimming and water polo championship contests, and two or three other institutions have signified their intention of asking to be admitted as associate members, that they may enter candidates for the individual title events, without competing in the team tournament.

The Chicago Atheltic Association has decided to make a permanent annual feature of the 'Varsity relay water carnival, it held last Spring for the first time, and the committee in charge has been empowered to take such steps as it deems advisable to facilitate the attendance of all teams fast enough to bid for laurels with chances of success. Last Spring Yale was the only contestant from outside the Conference League to report, and its sprinters proved victorious.

DEVANEY IS VICTOR IN THREE-MILE RUN

Millrose Athlete in Fine Form at Postponed Meet of Bergen County Fair.

The athletic meet of the Bergen County Fair, which was postponed several weeks ago because of the infantile paralysis scare, was held yesterday afternoon under adverse conditions on the old race track, Hohokus, N. J. A number of the leading track and field stars of the metropolitan district competed on the half-mile track, but the weather prevented any performances of a startling nature. In the early afternoon the track was overhung by threatening clouds, and these opened up before the program had been half completed and a deluge of rain continued until the last event had been decided.

Notwithstanding, the spectators who occupied the grandstand were treated to a fine piece of running in the three-mile handicap by Mike Devaney, the Millrose A. A. runner, who started from the honor mark, while Nick Gianakopulus, the Greek athlete, had an allowance of twenty-five yards. Devaney crossed the finish line the victor by a wide margin, in 15:25. The athletes were running in the rain practically from start to finish. Gianakopulus evidently has not fully recovered from his stay on the Mexican border, for he failed to show his usual form and finished in last place. Devaney ran his first mile in 4:50, and covered two miles in 10:09. Eddie Mayo finished second and Alex W. Feher, Hungarian-American A. C., occupied third position.

Wilson Adams, New York A. C., essayed to concede liberal handicaps to a large field in the 1,000 yards handicap run, but the best he could do was to get second prize. The event proved an easy victory for P. MacAndrews, Mohawk A. C., who had an allotment of 37 yards. He completed the distance in 2:19 3-5, with S. Jackson, St. Christopher A. C., third.

The summaries:

100-Yard Dash.—Handicap—Won by Herman Foster, Salem Crescent A. C., (2½ yards;) Fred C. Teschner, Glencoe A. C., (scratch,) second; A. Pendleton, Jr., unattached, (scratch,) third. Time—0:10 4-5.

1,000-Yard Run.—Handicap—Won by P. MacAndrews, Mohawk A. C., (37 yards;) Wilson Adams, New York A. C., (scratch,) second; S. Jackson, St. Christopher A. C., (20 yards,) third. Time—2:19 3-5.

Five-Mile Bicycle Race.—Handicap—Won by Rehe Brast, U. C. I., (140 yards;) W. Damerest, Glencoe A. C., (210 yards,) second; Charles V. Markey, Newark, (240 yards,) third.

One-Mile Walk.—Handicap — Won by T. Plichta, Mohawk A. C., (32 seconds;) H. Cullen, Mohawk A. C., (32 seconds,) second; William J. Macfadden, New York A. C., (18 seconds,) third. Time—7:34.

300-Yard Dash.—Handicap — Won by Ed Coyle, Irish-American A. C., (1 yard;) G. Milne, Loughlin Lyceum, (1 yard,) second; H. A. Gunn, Millrose A. A., (10 yards,) third. Time—0:33 1-5.

Three-Mile Run.—Handicap — Won by Mike Devaney, Millrose A. A., (scratch;) Eddie Mayo, Brooklyn A. A., (scratch,) second; Alex W. Feher, Hungarian-American A. C., (65 yards,) third. Time—15:25.

Running High Jump.—Handicap — Won by William Boston, Alpha P. C. C., (6 inches,) with 5 feet 10 inches; Henry Halahan, Millrose A. A., (6 inches,) second, with 5 feet 9 inches; G. Simon, Mohawk A. C., (4 inches,) third, with 5 feet 6 inches.

Bi-County Medley Race.—Scratch—Won by the Ridgewood A. C. team composed of G. Milne, B. Fleat, A. Fleurny, and H. Ackern; Maywood A. A. team, composed of W. A. Schiessarek, R. Weidlich, H. Weidlich, and J. Sinniger, Jr., second. Time—8:55.

S. I. CRICKET TEAM LEADS.

Tops Twin-State League with Eight Victories—Cobb Best Bowler.

The cricket season of 1916 has been concluded. The Staten Island team tops the list and owes its success in large measure to the consistently good work of M. R. Cobb, who headed the bowling averages with 6.88 runs a wicket for fifty-two wickets at a cost of 358 runs. In addition to making a batting average of 22.18 for twelve innings B. Kortlang, the Halifax Cup batting champion, who represented Richmond County in the association, led the batting with 38.63 for thirteen innings, in which he was not out twice, with an aggregate of 425 and a high score of 115, not out, in a single inning.

The final standing of the clubs was as follows:

Clubs.	W.	L.	Drawn.	P.C.
Staten Island	8	2	2	.800
Bensonhurst	7	2	3	.777
Bensonhurst Rovers	4	5	3	.444
Paterson	3	8	1	.272
Richmond County	1	6	5	.143

FORDHAM IS BADLY HIT.

Wigglesworth Out of Game for Year —Three Others Injured.

The Fordham football squad received a severe setback yesterday when four of its best players were put on the hospital list. The men who were ordered to stop playing by Jake Weber, the trainer, are Kendricks, Wigglesworth, Caddell, and Callan.

Three of the quartet may possibly get into the lineup again for the Susquehanna game a week from today, but Wigglesworth will not be in uniform again this Fall. He was hurt a year ago and kept out for the season when he sprained his ankle. A bad fall early this week brought back his old injury. Caddell, the former New Utrecht High School star, and Callan are also suffering from sprained ankles. Kendricks has developed blood poisoning.

Swimming Races Tonight.

The regular weekly swimming races will be held tonight in the salt water Winter Pool at Brighton Beach. A fifty-yard race for ladies, one of the same distance for boys, and a 220-yard contest for men are on the program. Exhibitions will also be staged.

Unless we are very much mistaken, more men will shiver this Winter than last.

Wool has advanced so steadily that some merchants have had to take cotton.

Not so here however!

We still maintain our time honored standards.

Suits and overcoats that, as always, are 100% wool with colors absolutely fast.

Fortunately, thanks to our volume of business as well as to insistent orders placed nearly a year ago, our customers will find that moderate prices still obtain — prices that will compare favorably with a lot of suits and overcoats that will be sold elsewhere without our guarantee — "your money back any time, if you want it."

Winter overcoats luxuriously silk lined ready to put on to-day.

GRIDIRON SUCCEEDS DIAMOND IN CALCIUM OF SPORTS

FOOTBALL SUPREME AMONG SPORTS NOW

Baseball Season Over, Gridiron Game Swings Into Its Full Stride Today.

MOST INTEREST IN TUFTS

Defeat of Harvard Last Week Puts Game with Tigers in Centre of Stage—Yale Meets Lehigh.

The football season swings into its full stride today, and, since baseball is over, the field is clear and no opponents are in sight. Having disposed of the Goliath that is Harvard, the David that is Tufts is now prepared to battle with the Princeton Tiger in its lair, fully equipped with a modern slingshot machine that hurls forward passes instead of pebbles. Not even Speedy Rush knows how the Tiger eleven will withstand the varied attack of the versatile Tufts team, but this much is certain: Princeton will not be beaten by any team that has beaten Harvard unless the last Princeton man is not only down but also out.

However, storm warnings were hung out at the Tiger institution last week after the result of the Harvard game became known, and the pupils of Rush have been drilled all week in plays that are expected to nip the attack of the opposition, if not at the root, at least in the bud.

This is the most important game in this section of the country, but the scheduled collision between the Colgate and the Illinois aggregations will attract much attention through its position as one of the first of the intersectional matches that provoke so much discussion with indefinite conclusions in every football season.

Yale to Face Lehigh.

Of the other big Eastern teams, Yale plays Lehigh, which gave the Bulldog such a scare last year; Harvard entertains some visitors from the South in the eleven from the University of North Carolina, and Cornell will attempt to repeat its overwhelming victory of last year over Williams. Yale won from Lehigh by a single point last year, and the Eli eleven is under instructions to make the margin of safety quite a bit larger today.

The Army is another team that is out to better its last year's score, and the Cadets have made all necessary preparations for the visit of the Holy Cross eleven that last year held the Army team to a tie score of 14—14. The Middies have a still harder undertaking on their hands, for they are scheduled to play Glenn Warner's pupils from the University of Pittsburgh, who last year simply did as they pleased with the Midshipmen and rolled up a total score of 47 points to a negligible 12 for the Middies.

All the wisdom of the football coaches and experts may be put to shame by the vagaries of the weather man, however. The long spell of fine weather enabled the lighter teams to practice and develop the openwork plays in which speed is the main factor. Now comes a rainstorm that made more than one gridiron soggy last night, and if Jupiter Pluvius should take it into his august head to be present today the new football and the intricate openwork plays will be relegated to the background, with the main reliance of the big elevens left to old-fashioned methods.

Rain Will Hamper Tufts.

Tufts will be handicapped if the field is slippery. The darker the day the brighter are the chances of the heavyweight elevens of the bigger institutions.

Of the local colleges, Columbia entertains a new visitor in the University of Vermont. N. Y. U. will endeavor to wipe out the stain of a 21—6 defeat by Haverford last year, and Rutgers engages the Washington and Lee eleven that set such a wonderful scoring record last season.

The only Western contest that will have any bearing on the championship of the Big Nine is the encounter between the University of Chicago and the University of Indiana. The loser of this contest will be counted out of the title quest in the Western field of football endeavor. Six hundred rooters on a special train accompanied the Indiana delegation in its invasion of the enemy's country. Minnesota, the favorite for the Western title, plays North Dakota, and Wisconsin is expected to triumph over the South Dakota State University eleven.

Interscholastic Run on Nov. 11.

Announcement was made yesterday by C. M. Heydecker, manager of the Columbia University track team, that the annual Fall interscholastic cross-country run would be held the morning of Saturday, Nov. 11, over the Riverside Drive course. This is an annual competition for the Gustavus T. Kirby trophy, and open to about thirty invited high and preparatory schools in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. Visiting schoolboys will be guests at the Swarthmore-Columbia football game on the afternoon of the meet.

PRINCETON EXPECTS STIFF FIGHT TODAY

Tufts, Conqueror of Harvard, Likely to Put Up a Fast and Puzzling Attack.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 13.—The Princeton football team ended a week of hard work in preparation for the game with Tufts this afternoon, Rush giving his 'Varsity over two hours' practice in signals and dummy scrimmage. The practice was had on a field wet from the heavy showers of the afternoon, and ample opportunity was afforded the players to accustom themselves to the slippery ball and the treacherous footing which are expected for the game.

The Tigers do not anticipate an easy time with the team which conquered Harvard last week. Tufts is expected to show a fast running attack which will be rather difficult to fathom. In case of a slippery field the Tufts team will have more difficulty in using this style of play efficiently. Princeton will depend on the same style of game that it played last week.

Moore will not be able to participate in the game for the Tigers. Eberstadt will be used in his place at half back, but the rest of the team will probably be the same as that which started last week. Funk, who has been pushing Highley and Wilson hard for their positions at wings, will probably break in the game early.

The Princeton team will line-up as follows: Highley and Wilson, ends; McLean and Latrobe, tackles; Captain Hogg and Nourse, guards; Gennert, centre; Eddy, quarter back; Brown and Eberstadt, half backs, and Driggs, full back.

COLUMBIA TEAM UNCERTAIN.

Coach Metcalf May Depend on Open Play to Defeat Vermont.

Uncertainty existed among the Columbia football coaches last night over the probable line-up for the game with Vermont this afternoon on South Field, the second contest on the Columbia schedule. Three regulars who were injured in last week's game with Hamilton did not report in togs this week until yesterday, and Coach Metcalf said late last night there was a possibility that none of the three would start today. They are Monroe, half and ful back; Kennedy, left end, and Dunn, right end. All three are in fair physical condition, but they are felt to be deficient in the new style of open play which Columbia will inaugurate today.

Metcalf has been preparing for such an emergency, and has developed three substitutes. Donnell is ready to start at left end, Glauber may start at right end, and Rosen can be sent into the backfield if necessary.

Work yesterday outdoors on South Field was limited because of the rain, and Metcalf called all 'Varsity men indoors when the shower occurred. The second game of the class series was played between the junior and sophomore teams, ending in a scoreless tie. Horbert Vollmer, holder of intercollegiate and national swimming titles, made his début as a Columbia football player. He was a centre on the junior team.

Vermont is today a favorite because of its record of two victories this year by large scores, against St. Michael's College and Clarkson Tech, whereas Columbia's single 1916 game last Saturday resulted in a triumph for the up-State Hamilton eleven. The Green Mountain team outweighs the New Yorkers almost man for man.

The probable line-up is as follows:

COLUMBIA.	Position.	VERMONT.
Kennedy	L. E.	Plumb
Healy	L. T.	Merrill
Donaldson	L. G.	Dyer
Brown	C.	De Marco
Cleveland	R. G.	Barrows
Wilber	R. T.	Franke
Dunn	R. E.	Powers
Raimondo	Q. B.	Burke
Monroe	L. H. B.	Sunderland
Cochran	R. H. B.	Gillio
Zychlinski	F. B.	Bowman

Referee—H. R. Heneage, Dartmouth. Umpire—V. A. Schwartz, Brown. Linesman—C. H. Kilpatrick, Princeton. Field judge—E. A. Green, Syracuse.

HARVARD ELEVEN CRIPPLED.

Five Regulars Out of Game with North Carolina Today.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 13.—Harvard will put a very much crippled team into its game with North Carolina University tomorrow. Not only will Taylor and Caner be missing from the tackle positions, but quarter back Robinson will be the only regular man for the backfield. Bond and Flower have been out for a week and now, Thatcher is on the side lines with a bad knee, and probably cannot play again until week after next.

The Carolinians, who have been coached by Campbell and Cowen, two old Harvard 'Varsity men, worked in the stadium this morning and are confident of making a better showing against Harvard than against Princeton last week. Their game is essentially Harvard's, and for this reason the Crimson coaches believe that the substitutes here will be able to hold their own.

Today there was no scrimmage, the work being entirely on signals and in working out the defense. Burnham will play full back tomorrow with Casey and Horween as the other backs, and with Lovell and Wheeler at tackle. Captain Dadmun is not in the best of shape and is not likely to remain in the game long.

CORNELL READY FOR FRAY.

Coaches Have Prepared for Severe Game Against Williams Today.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Today's hard rain drove the Cornell football squad to their training quarters, where a blackboard lecture took the place of practice. The 'Varsity men are all in good condition for the game against Williams tomorrow afternoon.

The coaches expect a strong showing by the team coached by Joe Brooks, and have prepared for it by a hard week's practice. The new bear cub mascot Touchdown is getting fat, a good omen, so the players say. The 'Varsity will line up against Williams as follows: Eilenberger and Ryerson, ends; Gillies and Jewett, tackles; Miller and Anderson, guards; Brown, centre; Shiverick, quarter; Benedict and Hoffman, halves, and Mueller, full back. Red Tilley, the 'Varsity lineman, will come out for practice next week.

CADETS IN GOOD SHAPE.

Will Meet Holy Cross Today—Paralysis Quarantine Lifted.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Orders issued today lifting a quarantine which has been in effect since July 31 will permit the general public, except children under sixteen years of age, to witness tomorrow's gridiron battle between Holy Cross and the Army eleven. The soldiers took their final workout tonight in a driving rain. It was the first opportunity they have had to handle a wet pigskin and although there was some fumbling the drill on the whole was satisfactory.

Vidal will not start tomorrow because of his injury. Cole Witters and Maloney are all to be given a trial behind the line. The Cadets will present a formidable lineup against the Easterners. Considerable of the work this week has been carried on with a view to keeping the visitors at a safe distance, as it is realized that in Daly, their full back, Holy Cross has a dangerous drop kicker.

GREEN HAS LONG DRILL.

Work in Rain Ends Preparations for Massachusetts Aggies.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 13.—Dartmouth had its final practice today for the game with Massachusetts Agricultural College tomorow, and although it rained incessantly the 'Varsity was put through a lengthy signal drill. Coach Cavanaugh has placed Healey and Bevan at right and left tackle, respectively, on the first team. These two men will start tomorrow's game. Cotton and Trier, who have lost their positions on the first team, are veterans of two years, and it is very probable that they will be reinstated for the big games later on.

Duhamel, the regular full back, is having trouble with a knee injury, and he did not go through signals with the team today. His place was filled by Lehman. Coach Cavanaugh has decided to have Thielscher alternate with Gerrish in punting tomorrow. Their work in tomorrow's game will undoubtedly settle the question as to who shall do the punting for the remainder of the season.

Gibbons and Dillon Matched.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Articles closing a ten-round bout between Mike Gibbons of St. Paul and Jack Dillon of Indianapolis were signed here today. The contest is to be decided in St. Paul on a date between Nov. 10 and 15. The boxers agreed to weigh 161 pounds at 3 o'clock on the day of the fight. Dillon is to receive a guarantee of $7,500.

Boxing Bouts Tonight.

Fairmont A. C.—Willie Jackson vs. Billy De Foe; Tommy Touhey vs. Charles Farrell. Both ten round bouts.

Broadway S. C., Brooklyn.—Harry Pierce vs. Willie Beecher. Ten rounds.

Queensboro A. C., Long Island City.—Willie Kohler vs. Walter Brooks. Ten rounds.

CHARLEY TAFT IN ELI LINEUP TODAY

Former President Watches His Son Practice at Centre for Game Against Lehigh.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 13.—Yale will present against Lehigh tomorrow the same lineup which swept Virgina to a 61 to 3 defeat last Saturday, except that Charley Taft has been chosen for centre rush, in place of Maurice Smith, who was forced to retire from the game with the Southerners through injury, and that Emil Jacques, who was unable to play last Saturday, has returned to full back.

Lehigh's remarkable scoring ability was attested in its 61 to 6 score against Albright College last Saturday, and the rapid fire Lehigh backfield, including the three veteran stars Chenoweth, Halstead, and Maginnis, is regarded at Yale as a portentous trouble-maker. Lehigh's ability to score is conceded, but the Yale straight football attack has shown such improvement the last week that Yale is not disturbed by fear of defeat.

This afternoon's final practice was marked by the presence on the sidelines of ex-President Taft, whose son, Charley, will tomorrow begin his first game for Yale. He has been substituted before, and has played end, tackle, guard, half back, and full back.

Professor Taft arrived during today's secret practice and remained until the close of the drill, which he said he had thoroughly enjoyed. He confided to one of the coaches that he had not seen a football practice since he was a Yale undergraduate, and that football practice had changed some since 1878. Although he did not see his son play basket ball during last season when young Taft was Captain, he hopes to witness his play at centre tomorrow.

This afternoon's practice took place in a drizzle. Forty minutes drill was devoted to signals and ten to scrimmaging. The scrimmaging was entirely aimed at defensive tests. Special attention was given to efforts of the 'Varsity rush line to break through the scrub line. The 'Varsity backs succeeded in every attempt to get away drop kicks, Legore appearing in faultless form in this detail.

AMHERST TEAM IS WEAK.

Believed That Brown Will Easily Revenge 1915 Defeat.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 13.—Coach Riley put the Amherst squad through the last stages of practice in preparation for the Brown game tomorrow in Providence. The practice consisted mainly of dummy scrimmage, signal practice, and line formations. The team will be one of the weakest that Amherst has had in years, and there is little doubt that Brown will secure revenge for last year's 7 to 0 defeat. Starkey, who played guard, will probably be out of the game for good, due to the refusal of his parents to allow him to play, while the squad will be minus the services of Bodenhorn, who cracked his collar bone in the Bowdoin game, at quarter back. Woodward and Plough will be out of the line-up due to injuries.

Kelleher Wins Harvard Net Title.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 13.—H. G. N. Kelleher, of Spokane, won the tennis championship of Harvard University today by defeating W. Rand of Rye, N. Y., in straight sets. The scores were 6—3, 7—5, 6—2.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices React After Showing Strength in Early Trading—A Change in Sentiment.

Trading fell below one million shares yesterday for the first time, for any full session of the Stock Exchange, since Sept. 5. The decrease in activity was one of the forms in which the uncertainty of the public toward the market was shown. In another and more impressive form it was shown by the further setback in prices which extended to many stocks in the afternoon trading after the earlier dealings had in a number of instances brought about advances.

The initial advances were in no small part due to the taking back of stock which had been sold on Wednesday in anticipation of possible bad news such as had greeted the market upon the resumption of trading on Monday. No such news came, and short covering and repurchases of stock which had been sold as a matter of precaution proved sufficient to lift prices at the beginning of trading yesterday. In a few stocks this developed into a vigorous buying movement but, for the most part, the market became dull and hesitant after its advance.

This condition in turn gave place to a decline under some aggressive bear pressure, combined with scattered liquidation of long stock. There was a fair public demand for stocks, but not a sufficient demand to withstand without loss in price the pressure to which the list was subjected. The market, instead of having the help of the majority of professional traders, had to contend against the operations of a majority of these traders, and there was not enough assurance among outside traders to counteract the bearishness prevailing on the floor of the Stock Exchange.

Politics was talked of, and the recent submarine attacks close to the American shore, and the possibility of early peace growing out of the spreading peace talk in Germany, but none of these things could be cited in direct explanation of the market's action. They all had something to do with it, but, as a matter of fact, the chief explanation of the course which prices took was that public buying, which until lately had been carried on actively and confidently, had been checked and had left the market exposed to the forces which always bring reaction after a long advance, profit taking, bear pressure and diminished buying power.

In the main at least the conditions which underlay the large scale buying of stocks, which carried them to new high levels and kept the trading at the million share level for weeks in succession, have not changed. Money is very plentiful, business very active, profits unusually large and the outlook in all these respects favorable. What has happened affects sentiment and technical market conditions rather than fundamental conditions. Prices, however, in their temporary fluctuations, depend upon the former as well as upon the latter, and sentiment is no longer enthusiastically confident. How far the recent rise in prices, from which the market has already receded substantially, discounted future possibilities, and how long it may take to restore speculative sentiment to its former mood no one can say with certainty, but this change in sentiment has to be taken into account in considering the present position of the market.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

From Strength to Weakness.

The market got away to an excellent start, so good, in fact, that numerous short sellers of Wednesday doubted their judgment. The Marine issues, Crucible Steel, American Can, and others looked for a time as though they might keep adding steadily to their initial advances. But from 11 o'clock on a state of tension over the submarine situation was evident in commission houses, and prices began to soften, to become weak in many directions later. Remembering the Lusitania, numerous traders pictured the Adriatic driving across the Atlantic with a cargo worth many millions of dollars. There was no doubt, if brokerage house gossip told the truth at all, that potential buyers held their orders in check, while operators on the short side were active from noon to the close of business.

War Risk Quotations.

Marine underwriters saw less risk in ventures in the North Atlantic yesterday than they did on Monday and Tuesday. War risk insurance was quoted from 2 to 2½ per cent. on vessels and cargoes to the British and French ports, compared with rates whose minimum was 5 per cent. on Monday morning. The war risk to South America was quoted at 1 per cent., against 3 per cent. immediately after the U-53 made her raid off Nantucket. The insurance market was uncertain of the future, and underwriters were unwilling to forecast possible developments in case other ships were sunk on this side of the Atlantic.

The Complexion of Steel.

When Steel broke through 110 again yesterday it did not look so good a "buy" as on Wednesday to many hunters of bargains. The selling which carried the stock down to 108⅝ was more insistent than the Wednesday selling. Steel looked a long way from 120 when it dropped under 109. The day's trade news, however, was as cheerful as in the days of mid-September when the stock was bid up to its highest record without a great deal of effort. At that time optimists were not reluctant to predict 135 or more for Steel, but the setting was right for optimism.

Southern Pacific's Oil Lands.

News that the Department of Justice had applied for the appointment of a receiver for the oil lands owned by the Southern Pacific Company came as a surprise to officials of that company, but they did not seem to be disturbed in the least by the action. Title to these lands has been in dispute for several years. The Government brought suit to forfeit the railroad's title on the ground that they contained oil, and hence should never have been included in the land grant. The Southern Pacific won its case on nearly all points, the Supreme Court deciding that the only ground on which the land could be reclaimed was the submission of proof that the company knew of the presence of oil when the patents were filed, and had resorted to fraud to obtain them. The case went back to the lower court, and several months have been consumed by the Government in putting in evidence tending to show that the company had knowledge of the oil. In 1914 the Government applied for the appointment of a receiver on the ground that oil was being taken out and that a receiver was needed to conserve the Government's interests. That application was denied, and an official of the Southern Pacific said yesterday that he expected similar action on the new petition.

An Unknown Quantity.

Only a small part of the lands held by the Southern Pacific and supposed to contain oil are being worked. It is customary in oil territory to open what is known as defensive wells when the owner of adjacent property begins to pipe oil, the theory being that the oil is all in a common reservoir, which can be drained from one side of the line as well as the other. A number of these defensive wells have been sunk, but no thorough attempt has ever been made by the company to discover how much of the acreage in dispute is susceptible to development. As a consequence the value of the lands in question has never been settled. When the Government suit was instituted it was stated that the lands were worth $250,000,000. A few months later it was asserted by men associated in the Government's conduct of the case that the amount involved was $500,000,000. Not long ago a story concerning the case made the land worth a billion. In view of the fact that the Southern Pacific expects to win a favorable decision, some of the officials are hoping that the last estimate will prove the best.

An Increase in Capitalization.

The Great Northern Railway has $250,000,000 of authorized share capital, and a space is taken in the annual report just issued to tell of an increase in the amount outstanding. On June 30, 1915, the total issued was $249,476,722. On June 30, 1916, the total was $249,476,850. There was issued during the year 1.28 shares for $128. This will increase the company's dividend payments by almost $9 per annum.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

There was still a good deal of talk on the Consolidated Exchange about the prospects for peace negotiations taking concrete form before the Winter sets in, although the fresh decline in the market was generally attributed to renewed nervousness over the submarine question. That there had been over the holiday no important unfavorable development was responsible at the start of the day for a more confident market opening and for early price improvements.

LITTLE TRADING IN LONDON.

War Loan Freely Repurchased by Recent Sellers.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Tomorrow's holiday and the superior attraction of the Exchequer bonds tended to restrict business generally on the Stock Exchange today, although the war loan continued to be freely repurchased by recent sellers. Consols and Brazilian issues were easy and neglected. Rubber shares sagged, especially Javas, on rumors that the Dutch Government proposed to impose an excess profit tax on companies in Holland and the colonies. Several Kaffir and colonial stocks advanced. American securities barely moved in the absence of a lead from Wall Street.

Money was in strong demand and discount rates were steady.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 61 francs 60 centimes for cash. Exchange on London 27 francs 81½ centimes. Five per cent. loan 90 francs.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The New York Stock Exchange has stricken from the list Pacific Mail Steamship Company capital stock and has admitted to the list Pacific Mail Steamship Company common stock.

Charles D. Barney & Co. announce that they have sold privately the $2,000,000 General American Tank Car Corporation stock recently offered by them at $10,000 for 100 shares of preferred and 25 shares of common stock.

Howard J. Miller, David I. Salomon, Charles Lindley Johnston, Jr., and Jesse Paul Kimble have been elected members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange.

Philip S. Suffern has become associated with the firm of Bowers, Smith & Luery, which will now be known by the name of Bowers, Suffern & Luery. Another firm, Suffern & Perry, will conduct a business in general accounting.

Retiring Directors and officers of the Norfolk & Western Railroad were re-elected at the annual meeting in Roanoke, Va., yesterday.

Retiring Directors of the Tobacco Products Corporation were re-elected at the annual meeting in Richmond, Va., yesterday.

Polack Truck Tyre Corporation

Now being organized under the Laws of the State of New York

CAPITALIZATION 100,000 SHARES OF NO PAR VALUE.

No Bonds, Preferred Stock or Floating Debt.

BUSINESS: This Corporation will acquire the assets and business of the Polack Tyre & Rubber Company, manufacturing at their Bridgeport, Conn., plant and operating twenty-six active Branches and Agencies in the larger cities of the United States and Canada. Their customers of record include all the well-known truck manufacturers, Municipal Administrations, various Departments of the U. S. Government, such as Post Office, Navy Yard, Bureau of Printing and Engraving, the large Department Stores, Express Companies, Brewers—in fact, representative concerns of almost every industry.

SOLID RUBBER TIRES--For Motor Trucks

ASSETS: The financing plan provides the funds for the erection and equipment of a large new plant to cope with the increased business of the Polack Tyre & Rubber Company, and reserves ample cash for working capital. Additional assets are the present plant and organization and the valuable manufacturing rights, formulas, secret processes, patents and trade-marks of the European Manufacturers of the Polack Tyre, famous all over the world.

EARNINGS: We are in receipt of a letter from Mr. Hugo Hoffstaedter, President and General Manager of the Polack Tyre & Rubber Company, who will become President of the new Corporation, in which he states the Company earned (Haskins & Sells, C. P. A., Report) during the last two years upwards of 50% yearly on its cash capital invested. Based on this showing, he conservatively estimates when the new plant is completed that the increased operating facilities of the proposed Corporation should produce net earnings approximating a DIVIDEND OF 30% ON THE PRESENT PRICE OF THIS OFFERING.

Price $12.50 per Share

We offer for subscription above shares at $12.50 per share. Books close October 16th, 1916, at 12 o'Clock noon. Checks in full must accompany order. The right is reserved to reduce or reject any subscription.

Georgia Central Earns $12,567,000.

The Central of Georgia Railway earned $12,567,000 last year, an increase of $459,000. Total operating costs were $8,845,000, a decrease of $128,000. The net income available for dividends was $1,921,000, a gain of $719,000, nearly 60 per cent. over 1915.

SUCCEEDS JAMES J. HILL.

F. E. Weyerhauser Elected a Director of the Gt. Northern Railway.

F. E. Weyerhauser, the Northwestern lumber millionaire, has been elected a director of the Great Northern Railway, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of James J. Hill.

In its annual report, issued yesterday, the Great Northern showed a surplus of $27,600,000, available for dividends in 1916, which was equivalent to 11 per cent. on the $250,000,000 of capital stock. A year ago the company earned $20,618,000, or 8.26 per cent. After the payment of $17,456,000 in dividends, the company set aside $3,500,000 for the fund for permanent improvements and betterments, $1,000,000 for the new pension fund, and $3,100,000 for miscellaneous purposes.

A memorial to Mr. Hill, to which three pages of the report were devoted, said:

"The history of the Great Northern is an inseparable part of the life of James J. Hill, and that is as proud a claim as it could boast. Construction, operation, financing, management, perfect adjustment to conditions which required prophetic insight and perfect grasp of means and ends down to the last detail, were the work of his brain and hands. Not for himself did he build, but for the Northwest, for the nation, for all other people who in their lesser ways create, for posterity, and for the many thousands whose trust in him was founded on a rock."

COAL CO. EARNS $734,000.

St. Louis, Rocky Mountain & Pacific Reports Sale of $2,486,270.

The St. Louis, Rocky Mountain & Pacific Co., which disposed of its railway to the Atchison, reports coal and coke sales for the year ended June 30, 1916, of $2,486,270 and gross revenues after the payment of operating costs and taxes of $557,304. Gross revenue from all sources was $734,000, and net income $333,000. A surplus of $83,000 remains after the payment of dividends on both classes of stock.

J. Van Houten, President, reports that the demand for coal has not been good, while the coke demand has been in excess of the supply. The former condition was caused by excessive competition during a mild Winter, while the sales of coke were stimulated by the great demand for metals, especially copper. The pacification of Mexico, it is stated, would help the company's market in that country.

STANDARDIZE AUTO TERMS.

Automobile Engineers Adopt a Universal "Motor Language."

Standard automobile nomenclature was announced here yesterday by the Society of Automobile Engineers. A committee of the organization developed this list of uniform names for motor car parts after holding meetings with engineering and service representatives of some of the leading American manufacturers, and the resulting standardization of names and terminology is expected to eliminate many delays common in parts replacement and to make for clearness and brevity generally. The society asserts that a lack of a common and accurately understood automobile language has been a barrier in international business.

Nineteen divisions of the automobile, from cylinders to bodies and accessories, are set forth, these classes being divided into nearly seventy specific groups, with the groups sub-divided so extensively that between 600 and 700 separate parts are named.

The bodies of cars are standardized into sixteen types, the list describing the differences, which distinguish roadsters, coupes, touring cars, sedans, limousines, landaulets, and other varieties. The society expects the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and manufacturers generally to adopt the complete nomenclature.

ROCK ISLAND BOARDS AGREE

Securities Show Sudden Burst of Activity on Receipt of News.

A sudden burst of activity, with advancing prices, took place in the securities of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway yesterday on the report that differences existing between the two principal protective committees, the Peabody committee for the first and refunding 4s, and the Prosser committee for the debenture 5s, had been ironed out. The stock sold up to 22½ at the close, with a net gain of 1¼, while the refunding 4s rose from 74 to 75⅛ and the debenture 5s from 61 to 62.

A member of one of the committees confirmed the report that the two groups had come together, which is thought to mean that the application for the sale of the property at foreclosure will be withdrawn. The Central Trust Company, as Trustee for the refunding 4s, was requested by the Peabody Committee to bring suit for foreclosure, on the ground that the placing of receivers' certificates ahead of the bonds was contrary to pledges in the mortgage agreement.

It is expected that the Hayden Committee, representing stockholders, will now work with the bondholders in bringing out a reorganization plan acceptable to most of the security holders. An earlier plan, which was blocked largely through the opposition of N. L. Amster of Boston, proposed an assessment of $40 a share on the stock, in return for which new 7 per cent. preferred stock would have been issued. This would have provided $30,000,000, substantially the amount recommended by J. W. Kendrick to put the property in order.

$18,439,335 LOST TO CITY.

Old Tax Claims to That Amount Wiped Off Municipal Books.

The Board of Estimate yesterday wiped from the city's books an item of $18,439,335, which for the last eleven years the city had carried as an asset. The sum represented unsatisfied claims against 92,844 persons for personal taxes from 1899 to 1905, inclusive. The board's action was taken on the recommendation of Corporation Counsel Hardy, with the concurrence of Controller Prendergast.

On the request of Water Commissioner Williams, the board authorized the purchase from the Queens County Water Company of 5,000,000 gallons of water a day, during the remainder of the month, at $30 a million gallons, and from the Urban Water Company not to exceed 5,000,000 gallons a day at the rate of $55 a million gallons. The latter purchase is not to exceed thirty days. It was explained by the Water Commissioner that the lack of rain has caused a serious shortage of water in the city's supply in Brooklyn and Queens and that the purchase was absolutely necessary. It is expected that the Catskill water supply will be ready for Brooklyn and Queens early this Winter and the danger of shortage will be over.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Commenting on the condition of trade and the business of the banks, Dun's Review says:

All speculative markets experienced reaction this week and legitimate business has temporarily moved under reduced momentum, owing to the holiday interruption and a certain hesitancy due to international developments. Current transactions, however, continue unprecedented for the period and, with the strength of fundamental factors undiminished, the general tendency in trade and industry is still toward further expansion.

Exceptionally heavy payments through the banks, as reflected in bank exchanges, continue to be reported, the total of which this week at the principal clearing house centres in the United States amounts to $4,453,623,277, as against $3,524,483,219 last year, an increase of 26.4 per cent., while as contrasted with the $2,899,223,595 reported for the corresponding week in 1913 the gain is no less than 53.6 per cent.

Bradstreet's says:

Collections are good, and interior merchants, who are profiting from the advantages of high prices for farm products more than offsetting short yields, are paying off old debts. Seemingly comparatively few past due debts will be carried into next year. Shipbuilding is thriving as never before, and inquiries respecting new vessels continue to come forward at a noteworthy rate. Manufacturers in general are not able to stock up to any extent, so exigent are demands, and with high prices prevailing there, is a strong tendency to convert goods into cash as rapidly as possible.

Admitted to Exchange Membership.

The Committee on Admissions of the Stock Exchange announced yesterday that Francis A. Connolly, Kintzing P. Emmons and McKim Hollins had been elected to membership on the Exchange. The memberships of Charles A. Lummis and Joseph S. Fay, Jr., deceased, were posted for transfer to Irwin W. Howell and Spencer B. Koch, respectively, at a price of $74,000 each. The seats owned by Henry S. Germond and Charles H. De Witt were posted for transfer to Huntington Lyman and Bernard Kalker at $74,500 each, and the membership of Waldron P. Brown, deceased, was transferred to J. Wright Brown in an inter-family transaction.

Opposition to 8-Hour Act Unpartisan

The recently organized Railway Investors' League has chosen Lionel Sutro, formerly a member of Sutro Bros. & Co., as Vice Chairman. The league was formed to consolidate for protective and beneficial action the power vested in thousands of unorganized small investors. In connection with Mr. Sutro's selection attention was called yesterday to the fact that the league's opposition to the Adamson law is not founded on political grounds. The organization is designed to be permanent, and the men behind it are affiliated with both parties.

New Guaranty Trust Vice President

The Guaranty Trust Company has elected a new Vice President in Eugene W. Stetson, President of the Citizens' National Bank of Macon, Ga. The stock of that institution has just been purchased by the Fourth National of Macon, and the two banks combined. Mr. Stetson remains a Director in the consolidated bank.

Net Car Shortage 61,030 on Sept. 30

The increase in the shortage of freight cars has been general in all classes of equipment throughout the country in recent weeks. The statement of the American Railway Association for Sept. 30 shows total surpluses of 26,201 cars and shortages of 87,231, making the net shortage 61,030. A year ago there were 78,331 idle cars reported.

WRIT DENIED DE MARCO GIRL

Prisoner Is Hurried to Jersey—State Constabulary Urged.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—Millie de Marco, of this city, arrested in connection with the murder last week at Atsion, N. J., of Harry Rider, of Howell, Mich., and the shooting of his brother, A. J. Rider, of Hammonton, N. J., President of the New Jersey Cranberry Growers' Association, and two others, was taken to Mount Holly, N. J., today on requisition, to await trial. Earlier in the day Judge Ferguson refused her counsel's application for a writ of habeas corpus for her release on bail. When the New Jersey detectives learned of the court's action they seized the hysterical girl and hurried her out of the State in an automobile into the jurisdiction of the New Jersey authorities.

Miss de Marco's name was not mentioned in a writ of habeas corpus granted yesterday by the Superior Court to her three companions in the alleged automobile bandit murder, Frank Vassela, Frank Ledonne and Guiseppe Russo, all of this city. The writ is returnable Oct. 20, and acts as a stay of removal from the State.

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Oct. 13.—Establishment of a State constabulary is urged upon the New Jersey Legislature in a presentment of the October Grand Jury to the Burlington County Court following the investigation of the recent attack by bandits on A. J. Rider, the New Jersey "Cranberry King." The Grand Jury declares such crimes have become too common in sparsely settled districts of the State for the Legislature further to delay the organization of a competent State police force. Gypsy tribes would be barred from New Jersey if another recommendation of the Grand Jury is adopted by the Legislature.

ONLY 3 PARALYSIS CASES.

But Day's Report Shows 5 Deaths—35 New Victims Up State.

The Board of Health reported yesterday three new cases of infantile paralysis, as against seven the day before. There were five deaths, as against four the day before.

The State Board of Health announced from Albany last night that thirty-five cases of paralysis and one death had been reported from the northern counties up to 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

From West Point came the report that the quarantine regulations, which had been in effect since July 31, would be lifted at réveillé today, and all except children of less than 16 years of age would be allowed to visit the reservation. Many visitors are expected on account of the Holy Cross-West Point football game.

The State Board of Health of New Jersey announced yesterday that eleven new cases had been reported, as follows: Trenton, five; Gloucester Township and Gloucester County, two each, and Hasbrouck Heights and Linden Township, one each.

The public schools of Collingswood, N. J., were closed yesterday after the discovery of two cases of the disease among the pupils.

Readers of THE TIMES yesterday contributed $10.50 for braces for the sufferers from paralysis. H. L. E. and W. C. E. each gave $10, Ern and Doll gave $5, and C. C. G. gave $3.50. A contribution of $5 was also received from Mrs. Bertholdt L., for Mrs. Schnur and her six children, who are in need.

HINE QUITS CHASE NATIONAL

Other Changes in Bank Boards Due to Clayton Act Announced.

Further changes in banking boards, made necessary by the operation of the Clayton act forbidding interlocking directorates, were announced yesterday.

Francis L. Hine, President of the First National Bank, has resigned from the Chase National; Harry P. Whitney, Daniel Guggenheim, Alvin W. Krech, and Paul D. Cravath have left the National Bank of Commerce. Other resignations have been submitted, but have not been announced pending acceptance.

MISS CARROLL ENGAGED.

Daughter of Late Tammany Leader to Wed Thomas H. Hall.

Mrs. John F. Carroll of 77 Madison Avenue, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Katherine T. Carroll, to Thomas H. Hall, a son of the late Thomas H. Hall of this city. The wedding will probably take place around the New Year.

Miss Carroll is the only daughter of the late John F. Carroll, at one time deputy leader of Tammany Hall, who started out as a grocery clerk, after his graduation from Manhattan College, but before he was 30 years old he became a friend of Richard Croker and rose rapidly in the Tammany Hall circle. He died in November, 1911. Miss Carroll has three brothers, John F. Carroll, Jr., Edward L. and Cyril A. Carroll, all unmarried. She made her début about two years ago.

Mr. Hall was graduated from Yale, and is a broker with offices at 38 Broad Street. His home is at 59 East Seventy-fifth Street.

TWIN SISTERS ATTEND BRIDE.

Miss Dorothy M. Rogers Weds the Rev. Robbins W. Barstow.

Special to The New York Times.

DANBURY, Conn., Oct. 13.—Miss Dorothy Millard Rogers, daughter of ex-Mayor and Mrs. N. Burton Rogers of this city, was married this afternoon at 4 o'clock, to the Rev. Robbins Wolcott Barstow, pastor of the South Congregational Church, Hartford, Conn. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, 37 Fairview Avenue, and was attended only by relatives and a few friends. The Rev. John Barstow of Wethersfield, father of the bridegroom, was the officiating clergyman.

Miss Rogers was attended by her twin sisters, the Misses Margaret Rogers and Nathalie Rogers. Roger Squir of Meriden was best man.

Mr. Barstow was graduated last June from the Hartford Theological Seminary. He was graduated from Dartmouth, class of 1912, and before entering the seminary spent some time in mission work in Turkey.

Johnson-Ross Wedding on Oct. 18.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Dixon Ross, daughter of Willard Fillmore Ross of 100 Lexington Avenue, New Brunswick, N. J., to Robert Wood Johnson, Jr., will take place at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening, Oct. 18, at the home of the bride.

Miss Ross is the granddaughter of the late Judge Dixon of Jersey City. Mr. Johnson is the eldest son of Mrs. John W. Denis of 375 Park Avenue and the late Robert Wood Johnson of New Brunswick, founder of Johnson & Johnson, manufacturing chemists. Mr. Johnson is now with the firm.

After a honeymoon the couple will reside at Belleview, New Brunswick, the Johnson country home, on the Raritan River. Mr. Johnson gave his farewell bachelor dinner at the St. Regis on Thursday evening.

Miss Kinnear to Wed C. A. Smylie.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson S. Kinnear of 137 Riverside Drive have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Carmen Kinnear, to Charles A. Smylie, son of the late Major Charles Q. Smylie and Mrs. Edmund Le Roy Dow of this city. Miss Kinnear was educated abroad, and was introduced by her parents here at a tea and dance at the Plaza several years ago. Mr. Smylie is a great-nephew of Smith Ely, one time Mayor of New York City. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Adele B. Carpenter Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Carpenter of 526 West End Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Adele Bowne Carpenter, to Dr. Charles H. Watt of Thomasville, Ga. The wedding is to take place next Spring.

Tourists for Cuba.

Among those booked to leave today for Havana on the Ward Line steamship Havana are:

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gonier, Mr. and Mrs. I. Grossman, A. A. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. C. Terrer, M. Lanz, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, Louis Tarbon, Isaac Kubie, D. Suarez, Miss E. Neary, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Perez, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Chibas.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

They Include a Number in Reappraisement Proceedings.

Plain drawnwork handkerchiefs imported by Swayne, Hoyt & Co. and Morimura Brothers at San Francisco figured in a decision yesterday by the Board of General Appraisers. The Collector assessed duty at 60 per cent. as ornamental drawnwork handkerchiefs, whereas the importers claimed entry at 55 per cent. for plain drawnwork cotton handkerchiefs. Judge Cooper, in his decision for the board, held that the lower duty was applicable to the goods.

A. Klipstein & Co. and Britt, Loeffler & Weil lost in claims for lower duty on certain malt food products. The merchandise, described as composed of malt extract, malt soup stock, food maltose, and coagules, was classified at 20 per cent. as medicinal preparations or articles similar thereto put up in packages of less than 2½ pounds gross weight. Claims were made as unenumerated manufactured articles or coal tar products. Judge Brown affirmed the Collector.

Several importers filed protests against the Collector's classification of ribbons, veilings, and other articles, but failed to produce evidence in support of their contentions for lower duty. Judge Howell said there was nothing in the record to warrant disturbing the Collector's return. The protestants included M. H. Rogers, Morimura Brothers, Strauss Brothers & Co., Leo Rosenberg & Co., Ernest & Herman Levy, the New York Merchandise Company, and the Wells Fargo Company.

So-called rod whiskey bottles, known as "club ryes," were entered at the Port of Ogdensburg, N. Y., as having a market value of $1.20 per gross. The bottles, it appeared, were shipped by the Dominion Bottle Company, Montreal. The American customs officials were not satisfied with the price put on the goods and demanded duty on a higher level. An appeal followed to the reappraisement division. Judge McClelland yesterday decided that the value as entered was correct, the appraising officials being reversed.

Plain linen sheeting and plain waisting linen from Edward Gribbon & Sons, Belfast, were before Judge Cooper on reappraisement. The goods, which were sent to New York importers, were in some instances advanced considerably over entered values.

DRY GOODS SALES HEAVY.

Large Distribution Continues the Same as Last Few Weeks.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"Wholesale dry goods distribution for the current week continues to maintain the large volume of the last few weeks, and exceeds the same period of a year ago by a considerable margin.

"Road sales for Spring delivery are in excess of previous years. Customers have been in the market in about equal numbers. Collections have continued strong throughout the week. Prices are firm."

KERFOOT JURORS DISAGREE.

Stand 7 to 5 for Giving Damages to Hunter.

The jury in Justice Cohalan's court that heard the $50,000 suit brought by Frederick William Hunter, lawyer, against John Barrett Kerfoot, literary critic of Life for the alleged alienation of the affections of Mrs. Anna Belleville Hunter, announced yesterday that it was unable to agree. The jury stood seven to five in favor of Hunter.

Carlisle Norwood, attorney for Mr. Hunter, announced that the case would be restored to the calendar for a retrial as soon as possible. It is expected that before the case can be reached the Appellate Division will have passed on Mr. Hunter's appeal from the divorce decree in favor of his wife. He named Mr. Kerfoot as corespondent in his counterclaim, which was dismissed. The divorce case was tried before Justice Erlanger without a jury.

ENJOINS MARCONI COMPANY.

Restrained from Using Audion Detector Owned by De Forest Co.

Judge Learned Hand of the Federal District Court has enjoined the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America from using in any form the audion detector or amplifier, the patents of which are held by the De Forest Radio Telephone and Telegraph Company. The injunction is to run perpetually. The audion is intended to make clear long-distance wireless service.

Last month Judge Mayer sustained the contention of the Marconi company that it was the sole owner of the rights to the Fleming detector. The Marconi company says that this is a better detector than the De Forest audion, and the latter assert that the audion is the best.

FILE WRIT FOR MRS. DREXEL.

Move to Compel Husband to Pay $50,000 Annually.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—A writ of foreign attachment was filed here today by counsel for Mrs. Margarita Armstrong Drexel, wife of Colonel Anthony J. Drexel, formerly of this city and now residing abroad, to compel him to pay her an annual allowance of $50,000 awarded her on June 21 last by the Chancery Court in London. Under an agreement Mrs. Drexel was to hold five policies, aggregating $300,000, on her husband's life in addition to the $50,000 a year income.

Mr. Drexel filed suit for divorce in Paris in July, 1915, and stopped his wife's allowance. It is alleged that the verdict of the British court has been ignored.

WHITTLE DEFENDS LINKS.

Says Van Cortlandt Has Finest Public Golf Course in the World.

The Board of Estimate's Budget Sub-Committee took up yesterday the budget for the Park Department of the Bronx. Park Commissioner Whittle appeared, and in the discussion Chairman Robert B. McIntyre, representing Controller Prendergast, asked him:

"Is there any plan contemplated for the improvement of the golfing facilities at Van Cortlandt Park?"

"No," replied the Commissioner. "It is the finest public golf course in the world, and the criticism of certain individuals is absolutely unwarranted."

For 1916 the Bronx department received $429,452. For 1917 the request was for $457,008. The sub-committee recommended $426,042.

MANY KILLED BY STORM.

Population of Virgin Islands Is Said to be Homeless.

ST. THOMAS, D. W. I., Oct. 13.—The entire group of the Virgin Islands suffered severely in the cyclone early in the week. Torotola, Anegada and St. John, and other smaller islands, were devastated.

The population is reported to be homeless and suffering from lack of food. Many deaths were caused by the cyclone.

Carnival for Brownsville Hospital.

A three weeks' carnival to raise funds for the completion of the new Brownsville and East New York Hospital, which is in course of erection, will be opened today on grounds at Hopkinson and Sutter Avenues, Brooklyn. The sum of $175,000 is needed for the hospital, which is at Rockaway Parkway and East Ninety-eighth Street.

More Dress Suits Sold.

Clothing manufacturers are having quite an increase in dress suit sales. The demand has been especially good from the metropolitan districts. The manufacturers give credit to three things for the larger business they are doing on such garments. Last Winter was a big dinner season, and this year affairs of the sort are expected to be just as numerous. General prosperity is also given as a reason why dress suits are being bought more freely. Quite a few of the ready-to-wear houses have been specializing on evening attire, and at the same time are able to keep prices to the consumer down to reasonable limits. This is said to have brought larger sales.

Clothing Merger Advantages.

Most of the clothing manufacturers seem agreed that the proposed amalgamation of their associations would be a good thing for the local trade. A number of them are enthusiastic over the plan. The big association would handle credits, provide cost systems, arbitrate the differences between the mills and the clothiers and deal with labor problems. One clothier said yesterday that the most convincing argument for the merger lies in the success attained in the Chicago market. "It would surprise many clothiers to know," he said, "how much better all around treatment the Chicago houses receive. The mills take what they have to say in the proper spirit, knowing that the manufacturers out there will back up their members."

Novelty Handkerchiefs Doing Well.

In spite of the higher cost of cotton, linen, and silk, and the difficulty of getting sufficient quantities of foreign merchandise, reports from the handkerchief trade indicate that an excellent business is being done this season. Novelties are especially in favor, especially in high color effects. Japanese silk goods with novelty borders and designs in colors are well thought of, while solid color goods with self and contrasting borders are also moving. Even fancy checks, stripes, and similar patterns are being shown and bought freely. Hemstitched and rolled-hem effects are good, while there is a pretty good call for lace border handkerchiefs. Madeira and other well-known more or less staple lines are moving, and American producers seem to be having an excellent season.

Are Sacrificing White-Top Shoes.

Dealers who specialize more or less on novelty shoes for women are now cutting the price on white-top shoes, selling the $8 and $10 grades at $5 in several instances. This is apparently the result of the discovery that all-black and all-white shoes are moving better than combinations of those hues. This discovery and the attendant loss are not shattering their faith in novelties, it is said, the idea prevailing in the trade that fancy shoes are here to stay for a long time. One feature of the misses' and children's business of the moment is that while there is big demand and pronounced scarcity of the cheaper and medium ones, the higher-priced shoes are knocking around pretty much unnoticed. Another feature of present business is the improved sale of overgaiters.

Specialty Corsets Selling.

This is one of the best seasons the so-called specialty corsets have had for some time. One of the outstanding features is the improved sale of misses' goods, which for the most part are made of soft materials and boning in order to permit them to conform to and correct the figure without undue pressure. Reducing and surgical models have also had a good season so far, from all accounts, while the assurance that the fad for skating will repeat during the coming Winter presages an active call for models designed for this sport as the season advances. In the brassiere field business is seasonably active, with the bandeau type of garment among the best sellers. Most of the popular ones are made of neat, strong laces, silks, or combinations of both. Drop shoulder models with ribbon straps are in high favor.

Precious Metals Stay High.

While the quotation on medium platinum in this market has remained stationary for the last ten days or so at $90 an ounce, and metal containing 10 per cent. of iridium for hardening purposes continues steady at $95@$96, iridium itself has reached a level of $120 an ounce, with prospects of a further rise before very long. This price, which is believed to be a record for the metal in question, must advance before long, well-posted merchants say, unless some way is found to increase the supply now available here. At present the possibilities look very poor, it is said, and while there is enough iridium on hand, either in the pure state or alloyed with platinum, to last for some little time, a "day of reckoning" appears inevitable. According to reports lately received from abroad, the jewelry makers of England and France cannot get platinum for their wares without a special permit from their respective Governments.

Gray Goods Inquiry Large.

While there was little fault to be found with the inquiry for gray cottons in this market yesterday, the actual yardage disposed of was not great, for the simple reason that many sellers would not trade to any extent in the face of the continued rise in cotton. Business was also hampered seriously by the scarcity of merchandise for delivery during the remainder of this year. Good sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were made during the day for this shipment at 7⅝ cents, but for the moment, at least, it looks as if there are very few of these goods still to be had for 1916 delivery at any price. A nice business was also done on 38½-inch 60-48s for this year's delivery at 6¼ cents, and these were about the only features of the day's activities, so far as printcloths were concerned. In the coarse goods there was apparently little feature, though business was done on 30-inch 3.25-yard drills at 9½ cents. Closing printcloth prices were:

39-inch, 80-80s	9½c	38½-inch, 64-60s	7⅝c
39-inch, 72-76s	9c	38½-inch, 65-56s	7c
39-inch, 68-72s	8¾c	38½-inch, 60-52s	6⅝c
39-inch, 56-44s	6c	38½-inch, 60-48s	6¼c
38½-inch, 64-64s	7½c	27-inch, 64-60s	4⅝c

A DISCOUNT FOR CASH.

It Is Deducted in Determining the Foreign Market Value.

The part played by cash discounts in estimating dutiable values of imported merchandise under the tariff was discussed yesterday by Judge Brown of Board 1 of the General Appraisers in a decision involving silverware bought by Washington (D. C.) importers and shipped by Ellis & Co., Birmingham, England. The material question before the board related to the allowance from dutiable value of a 2½ per cent. cash discount. When the issue was before a single General Appraiser early in the Summer that official allowed a trade discount of 42½ per cent., but disallowed the cash discount item.

The invoice did not indicate that the silverware was paid for in cash. This cash discount, the board's decision explained, was allowed only to those paying cash at the time of purchase, or, in other words, "spot cash."

"Should this discount be allowed to make market price?" said the decision. Answering the question, Judges Sullivan and Brown, in their decision, said:

"Any one with cash could buy with the usual trade discount and the additional one of 2½ per cent. for cash. It was questioned whether this cash discount should be taken into consideration in arriving at market price.

The decision pointed out that Paragraph K, Section 3, of the present Tariff act requires appraisers to ascertain the actual market value of the merchandise at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country whence the same has been imported.

"In construing this paragraph," said the decision, "it seems to us the market price is what money will buy the article for. If one merchant is less fortunate than another and unable to pay cash, he yet is not deprived of showing what the market is by the use of money. The merchant obtaining his merchandise for a less price for cash but gives the market value, for the reason that the one who takes time pays for such time in interest. The merchant whose transaction is a cash one pays for the same by the fact that he is advancing the money at the instant, and thereby, in fact, he is not getting his goods any cheaper than the merchant who takes time.

COTTON AGAIN SOARS, JANUARY HITS 17.64

Heavy Rebuying by Many Operators Who Recently Sold Out Is Feature of the Day.

NET GAIN 17 TO 21 POINTS

Weather Generally Favorable for Marketing the Crop—Census Report on Mill Consumption Today.

Cotton yesterday reached new high levels, with January touching 17.64. The feature of the trading was heavy rebuying by many operators who had sold out earlier in the week. Trade interests also were large buyers, and some of the pit observers said it looked as if the appetite of spinners for cotton was insatiable.

The announcement that twenty-eight steamships had braved the submarine menace and started on their voyage across the Atlantic also was taken as an indication that exports of cotton would not be seriously interfered with. Export clearances for the day, however, were only twenty-four bales—all to France.

The market opened at an advance of 1 to 17 points, and before the session was over had made a maximum gain of about 35 points. The close was 17 to 21 points higher. Liverpool reported very little hedge selling, although one cable said that the English market showed less buying power.

The weather was generally favorable for the marketing of the crop. With the exception of Texas and Oklahoma, practically no rainfall was shown. The Census report on supply and distribution, giving consumption by American mills for the month of September, will be issued at 10 o'clock this morning.

According to the New York Cotton Exchange the amount of cotton brought into sight for the week was 595,302 bales against 524,991 last year. The total for the season is 3,192,000 bales, against 2,793,000 last year. Liverpool's stock of American cotton is now 914,000 bales against 682,000 bales last year. The amount of cotton forwarded to English spinners of all kinds was 82,000 bales against 85,000 bales last year.

Spinners' takings of American cotton for the week were 315,928 bales against 319,378 bales. The visible supply of American cotton is 3,187,000 bales against 3,514,000 bales last year.

WELLS FARGO EARNINGS.

Through Freight Congestion Express Company Nets $4,020,773.

Wells Fargo & Co. earned $45,432,621 from its express business in the year ended June 30, a gain of $6,875,835 over the preceding year. From this the corporation paid the railroad companies $23,414,248, against $19,724,414, and spent $19,847,687 in running the business. Investments brought in $1,087,975, and the final net income was $4,020,773, against $2,338,677 in 1915.

The income account was published yesterday, containing among the observations by President B. D. Caldwell the statement that the large increase of earnings was the result of abnormal conditions. The pressure of freight upon the railroads, he said, caused a great amount of goods to be shipped by express which otherwise would have been handled by the freight service.

INVESTIGATE CAR SERVICE.

Citizens' Committee Begins Field Work to Find if Strike Is Over.

Field work to ascertain whether the traction strike is over was started yesterday by a Citizens Committee.

The committee has received, and has not yet accepted, evidence that, despite the claims of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, the New York Railways Company and the Third Avenue Railway Company, subway, elevated and surface car service in the city is only from 20 to 50 per cent. of normal, that the service is demoralized, that the union members are not returning to work in any important number and that, in short, the strike is anything but over.

Opposing this evidence are the contentions of the companies that service is 100 per cent. normal on the subway, elevated and Twenty-third and Thirty-fourth Street crosstown lines, and that throughout the city the service is about 85 per cent. of normal and getting better every day.

Dr. Stephen S. Wise, the Chairman, said the committee would not go into the merits of the strike, but might recommend some public action to restore traction service to normal, if it were found to be far below the ordinary standard.

Among those on the committee besides Dr. Wise, are Carl Beck, of the Labor Forum, Secretary; Amos Pinchot, Frederic C. Howe, Commissioner of Immigration; Professor J. McK. Cattell of Columbia University, Professor W. P. Montague of Columbia University, Miss Mary Dreier, Dr. John C. Elliott, the Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes, the Rev. Dr. Frank Oliver Hall, the Rev. Dr. J. H. Melish and others.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company reported yesterday that at 11 o'clock in the morning it had 605 surface cars running on all lines against 701 cars which were normal at that hour. This, it was said, indicated the average of conditions.

WILL FORBADE MOURNING.

Goldman Left $250 for Dinner to be Enjoyed by Friends.

Philipp Goldman, a cap manufacturer, who died recently, left a will expressing his objection to any display of mourning by his friends and relatives and directing that "all signs and symbols of mourning be dispensed with." The testator said: "I desire that $250 be expended in some fitting occasion and at some time after my burial, at which shall be gathered my relatives and friends, such as a dinner or banquet, and my wish is that they should spend a cheerful evening in their recollection of me, as I do not regard mourning as desirable or sensible."

The decedent left $500 each to the Ethical Culture Society and Mt. Sinai Hospital, and $250 each to the Hebrew Orphan Asylum and St. Mark's Hospital. He left $5,000 to his nephew, Willie Abrams. His housekeeper, Violet Lawrence, who managed his household for many years, received $500 outright and $60 a month for life, with the furnishings of the apartment she occupies at 206 West Ninety-second Street.

Mr. Goldman left $2,000 to Charles S. Schoenfeld, who was his bookkeeper for twenty-five years, and $150 each to every person employed by him fifteen years or more. Those employed ten years got $100 and those five years $50. His brother, Charles Goldman, and his business associate, Herman Lewin, got all his patents and business interests.

A. Pulitzer Left No Estate Here.

A transfer tax report on the estate of Albert Pulitzer, a brother of the late Joseph Pulitzer, who died in Austria on Oct. 3, 1909, was filed yesterday, showing that the authorities could find no property of the decedent taxable in this State. The Pulitzer estate was administered in Austria, and no property schedules were ever filed in this country. The decendent at one time owned The New York Journal.

$200,000 FIRE SWEEPS A BLOCK IN HOBOKEN

Girls Have Narrow Escape from Blaze Which Destroys the Chocolate Menier Plant.

FLAMES SEEN IN MANHATTAN

Engine Companies Sent from Jersey City to Help Fight Fire Which Starts in Lumber Yard.

A fire which caused damage estimated at $200,000, and, before it was checked, destroyed the plant of the Chocolate Menier Company, started in the lumber yard of the J. C. Farr Company, at Seventh and Clinton Streets, in Hoboken, yesterday afternoon.

The first warning of the blaze came when a great pillar of flame shot up over Hoboken and carried with it a cloud of sparks which was seen from the high buildings in Manhattan facing the North River. There were a hundred or more girls at work in the upper stories of the chocolate plant, and they had a narrow escape, so quickly did the flames spread. One of the biggest industrial plants in Hoboken, the Schmalz bakery, was saved from destruction by the efforts of the Hoboken firemen, who were assisted by two fire companies sent from Jersey City by Deputy Commissioner of Public Safety James F. Norton.

The chocolate company's building extended half way down Seventh Street and half way down Grand. It was a new structure, built of brick, and was separated from the Farr Lumber Company's planing mill by an air space of only a few feet. All the employes of the Menier Company got out of the building except Anthony Preda of 101 West 163d Street, Manhattan. He stayed behind to make sure that all the girls got out, and his escape was cut off by flames and smoke. He was on the third floor on the Seventh Street side. Firemen saw his danger as he was about to jump from a window ledge, and they shouted to him to wait. The firemen sent up an extension ladder to the window, and Preda was brought down this without accident.

A 500 gallon gasoline tank in the rear of the Farr Company's building exploded soon after the fire started. It scattered lumber and other débris for a considerable distance, but no one was injured by the explosion. The boiler of the Menier Company also blew up, and knocked out the Grand Street side of the building, but no one was hurt.

The buildings in which the fire started were not far away from Public School 8, which contained about 1,800 pupils. Many mothers ran to the public school to get their children, and the teachers had difficulty in restraining them. Principal Charles Sherlock finally spoke to the mothers from the steps of the school, telling them that their children would be safer in school than at home, so they were left there.

Sheehan Gives Federal Bond.

Winfield R. Sheehan, who was secretary to Rhinelander Waldo when the latter was Police Commissioner, has given the Government a bond of $770.70 to cover the value of women's wear and toilet articles which he and his wife brought to this country in September last on the French liner La Touraine. Mr. Sheehan was charged with not having declared the articles or paid duty on them, and yesterday Assistant United States Attorney Carstarphen asked the United States Court to order the articles forfeited. A decision will be handed down in a few days. Mrs. Sheehan was formerly Miss Laurel, an actress.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The wheat market was comparatively quiet, and while prices were somewhat higher, the undertone was noticeably nervous and the trade at large was inclined to be timid about taking an aggressive stand either way. It has not yet developed whether or not the new British plan in regard to making purchases of wheat is going to make any difference in the price of wheat here, and naturally the trade is disposed to await developments. In the local cash market No. 1 durum was quoted at $1.91; No. 2 hard, $1.75; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.87; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.80¼, free on board, New York.

CORN.

On reports of export business the corn market rallied quickly from early depression and at the close was quite firm at ⅜@½c net advance. Commission house trade was active during the day and about evenly divided on both sides of the market. Cash corn was firm here, with No. 2 yellow quoted 99¼c, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The big movement prevented any advance in the oats market, and final prices were ½c to ¼c net lower. For the week receipts were double those of last week, and caused considerable hedge selling, which met few buyers, while export demand was also light. Cash oats were steady here and generally unchanged as follows: Standard, 53½@54c; No. 3 white, 53@53½c; No. 4 white, 52½@53c; fancy clipped white, 55½@56c; ordinary clipped white, 54@55c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision list was strong, with prices again making new high records for the season. There was some good buying by leading commission houses and sentiment was influenced to some extent by an advance in the price of live hogs. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 20,000; estimated for Saturday, 16,000. Kansas City received 4,000 and Omaha 2,800.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The cottonseed oil market sold at the highest point on record since the establishing of the cotton oil trade in New York. October oil sold at 12¼c, and the whole list was strong and higher, closing with net gains of 19 to 39 points. Total sales for the day were 49,200 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The coffee market was under pressure throughout the entire session, and after opening 3 to 9 points below the final of Wednesday's values, continued to ease off, and at the close showed net losses of 17 to 28 points. Total sales were 43,500 bags. The local spot market was inactive, as buyers were indifferent and quotations remained practically nominal on the basis of 9⅝c for Rio 7s and 11⅜c for Santos 4s. SUGAR.

The futures market was only moderately active, with sales for the day 3,550 tons. With the exception of the November option prices ruled within a very narrow range, but the undertone held steady, due to firmness developed in actual sugar. The close showed net gains of 1 to 10 points. Range of prices:

The local market for refined sugar was firm and unchanged at 7.15@7.25c for fine granulated. There were moderate withdrawals on old contracts, and new business over the holiday was said to be of fair proportions. There was a further advance in raw sugar on sales to local refiners of about 50,000 bags Cubas, prompt and October shipment, at 5⅛c, cost and freight, equal to 6.14c, duty paid. At the close there was a further buying interest at 5⅛c, with holders asking 5¼c, cost and freight, equal to 6.27c, duty paid. Quotations follow: Centrifugals, 6.14c; molasses, 5.26c; cost and freight, 5⅛c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts two days, $13,103 packages. Some speculative demand developed in the morning and the market advanced before the close about ½c on the good to fancy grades of fresh creamery. The Exchange sales included 50 tubs creamery extras at 34½c, 50 tubs at 35c, 150 tubs, 93 score, at 35c; 180 tubs, 93 score, at 35¼c; 50 tubs, 93 score, at 35⅛c. Held creamery a little firmer in sympathy with fresh, but the movement is still very moderate. Renovated steadier. Ladles and packing stock remain quiet. Creamery, higher scoring than extras, per pound, 35½@36c; extras, (92 score,) 34¾@35c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 34@34½c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 32½@33½c; thirds, 31½@32c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 36½@37c; extras, 35½@36c; firsts, 34½@35c; seconds, 33@34c; creamery, held, higher than extras, 35@35½c; extras, 34½@34¾c; firsts, 33½@34c; seconds, 32@33c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 34@34½c; good to prime, 32@33½c; common to fair, 29@31½c; renovated, extras, 31½@32c; firsts, 30½@31c; lower grades, 29@30c; imitation creamery, firsts, 30½@31c; ladles, June make, firsts, 30@30½c; current make, firsts, 29½@30c; seconds, 29c; lower grades, 27½@28½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 28½@29c; No. 2, 28c; lower grades, 26@27½c.

EGGS.—Receipts two days 18,978 cases. Receipts of fresh and held fresh eggs continue in excess of the demand, and the recent accumulation here is being added to. The market is about steady on the very highest grades, but easier on average to fair qualities, and a good many receivers of such grades are shading prices further in order to effect sales. The sentiment as to the immediate future varies. Costs in the country are relatively higher than here, and there is some prospect of somewhat lighter arrivals for next week. The moderate receipts of dirties and checks are rapidly taken. Refrigerators are moving rather slowly. Fancy nearby eggs continue scarce. Fresh gathered, extra fine, per dozen, 39@40c; extra firsts, 36@38c; firsts, 33@35c; seconds, 30@33c; thirds and poorer, 28@29c; dirties, No. 1, 28½@29c; No. 2 and poorer, 26@28c; checks, good to choice, dry, 27@28c; undergrades, 24@26c; refrigerator special marks, fancy, storage and insurance paid, 32¼c; firsts, 31@32c; seconds, 29½@30½c; lower grades, 25@29c; refrigerator, State whites, 33@35c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 55@58c; ordinary to good, 40@54c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 38@54c; western and southern, gathered whites, 35@42c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby, hennery browns, 43@45c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 34@40c.

$48,000 AWARDED IN 3 SUITS.

Young Woman, Boy, and Man Get Verdicts for Personal Injuries.

Verdicts aggregating $48,000 were handed in yesterday by juries sitting in three personal injury suits in the Supreme Court of Brooklyn. The largest verdict, one of $25,000, was awarded to Miss Marion Ringelmann, 20 years of age, of Avenue N and West Fourth Street, Gravesend, who sued the Oscar Daniels Company for $40,000. The case was tried before Justice Aspinall.

On Oct. 9, 1915, at Gravesend Avenue and Ryder Lane, Miss Ringelmann fell into an excavation made for the placing of a pillar of the new elevated railroad. She became paralyzed from the hips down. She was carried into court on a specially constructed cot which was placed close to the jury box and from which she testified. Physicians said that she would be an invalid for life.

Before Justice Blackmar, Jacob Daniel Myers, Jr., of 365 West 118th Street, Manhattan, got a verdict for $10,000 and his father one for $8,000, as a result of an accident on March 10, 1915, in which the boy was knocked down and dragged by a Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company trolley car.

Jacob, who has undergone ninety-seven skin-grafting operations, more than 400 pieces of skin having been patched on his left leg and side, was brought into court in an invalid's chair.

IRISH FAIR POSTER DEFENDED

O'Leary, in Court, Says Morgan & Co. Control Ward & Gow.

John J. O'Leary, brother of Jeremiah A. O'Leary and President of the Irish Relief Fund Bazaar, in arguing yesterday in support of his application for an injunction restraining Ward & Gow from obliterating the posters of the bazaar, for which the defendant sold advertising space on the subway and elevated stations, because they portrayed the execution of James Connolly, Irish revolutionist, by English soldiers, declared that J. P. Morgan & Co. were behind the action of Ward & Gow.

"J. P. Morgan & Co. are the official agents of England in this country," said Mr. O'Leary. "They control the Interborough, which in turn controls Ward & Gow, hence the action against the posters."

Mr. O'Leary contended that the defendant would be unable to uphold its contention that the poster was not in good taste. He said it portrayed a "very lofty and laudable purpose."

Counsel for Ward & Gow insisted that the use of the name of J. P. Morgan & Co. or the Interborough was entirely unjustified, and said the objections to the poster had come generally from the patrons of the subway and elevated lines. Justice Pendleton will not decide the case until after the attorneys submit briefs on Monday.

INDICTED FOR AUTO FRAUD.

Strobel Alleged to Have Collected Insurance on Fake Accident.

Frederick Strobel of Richmond Hill, General Manager of the Moon Auto Sales Company of 118 Crown Street, Brooklyn, was indicted yesterday on two counts, one alleging larceny in the first degree and the other that he had filed a fraudulent claim against the Globe Indemnity Company. Judge Rosalsky, in General Sessions, held him in $3,000 bail for examination.

According to Assistant District Attorney Royal Weller's interpretation of the indictment, an automobile owned by Dr. J. Richard Kevin of 252 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, was badly wrecked in a collision with a trolley car last January. Dr. Kevin filed a claim against the Globe Indemnity Company and received $850 on his insurance policy. He turned the car over to Strobel, Mr. Weller said, and the latter took out a policy in the same company. Mechanics employed by Strobel said they were ordered to put a new wheel on the car, but not to repair it otherwise.

A day later Strobel took the car out, his employes said, and returned in an hour saying he had had a serious collision when the car skidded. Strobel filed a claim against he Globe Indemnity Company for $1,101, which was settled. When the insurers learned that Dr. Kevin had turned over his wrecked auto to Strobel for repairs they made an investigation.

MERCY FOR YOUNG THIEF.

Court Takes Account of Anguish Banjo Player's Son Caused Mother.

Edward C. Dobson of 166 West Thirty-fifth Street, whose father was a famous banjo player, plead guilty yesterday before Judge Rosalsky in the Court of General Sessions, to the charge that he had stolen several thousand dollars worth of silks from Belding Brothers, 902 Broadway, by whom he was employed. He admitted that he had used the money to buy presents for women and clothes for himself.

Several former employers of the young man, including Miss Elsie De Wolfe and two rectors of an Episcopal Church, in which he had sung, joined in asking clemency. On Oct. 7 Dobson's mother became insane after her son's arrest, over which she had breeded, gave her daughter poison, and at the same time slashed her own throat. Both are now in Bellevue Hospital, where it is said that they may recover.

Judge Rosalsky suspended sentence on Dobson, saying that the anguish that the defendant had caused his family was a lesson never to be forgotten. The prisoner was paroled in the custody of Probation Officer Kimball.

JAPANESE WIFE LOSES SUIT.

Husband's Lack of Riches Not Ground for Annulment.

The first marriage annulment suit involving Japanese ever brought in this county was heard by Justice Delehanty yesterday. He dismissed the complaint of the wife, Yone Suzuki Mayeda of 260 West Seventy-second Street. The plaintiff testified that when she went from Edgemere, L. I., with the defendant, Jakachi Mayeda, to the City Hall she understood that she was only going to be engaged to the defendant, but went through a marriage ceremony instead.

The plaintiff testified that her husband practised the not uncommon deception of representing that he was rich and could support her in comfort, whereas he was only a workman, so she never lived with him. Justice Delehanty said the plaintiff's evidence was insufficient, although it appeared that she had a cause of action.

Going to Cape Town for Prisoner.

Detective Sergeant William Land of Portsmouth, Va., sails for Liverpool today on the American liner Philadelphia. He is on his way to Johannesburg, South Africa, a journey of 12,000 miles from Portsmouth, to bring back Israel Legum, who is alleged to have absconded with $20,000 several months ago. There is no direct service between New York and Cape Town and the policeman has to go to Liverpool and then to Southampton to get a steamship of the Union Castle Line for South Africa.

SAVE GIRLS FROM FIRE.

Chief Kenlon Directs Fight on Blaze in Wholesale Shoe District.

A fire which started at 42 Hudson Street yesterday afternoon and endangered the lives of more than thirty girls employed in the wholesale shoe district was put out after firemen under the direction of Chief Kenlon had fought it for half an hour. The damage amounted to $25,000.

The blaze was discovered on the fourth floor of a six-story building occupied by the Howard Specialties Company. It spread up and down the stairways to the third floor occupied by M. L. Brandt, a cutlery manufacturer, and to the fifth floor occupied by the Ebe Manufacturing Company. On the sixth floor, six girls and two office boys were at work. The girls, when the alarm was given, ran into the halls, and became greatly alarmed when they found their escape was cut off by the flames. Firemen rescued them by taking them down the escapes on an adjoining building. More than twenty-five girls were saved by an elevator attendant, who kept his car running though the shaft was filled with smoke.

A truck loaded with paper was standing in front of 44 Hudson Street when the fire started, and the driver, seeing he could not get the truck out, unharnessed the horses and drove them away. In the excitement the truck, which was unevenly balanced, turned over on its side, hampering the work of the firemen.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

West Fifty-eighth Street Sale at Columbus Circle—$400,000 Madison Avenue Lease—Ford Company's Broadway Building Plans Filed to Cost $700,000—Good Long Island Demand.

A sale in Fifty-eighth Street near Eighth Avenue at Columbus Circle and a $400,000 lease in a new Madison Avenue building were among the features of chief interest in the Manhattan realty field yesterday. The former deal involved the sale of the old structure at 306 West Fifty-eighth Street on plot 21 by 100.5 by Laurence McGuire for Harriet E. P. White.

It has been purchased by the owner of the adjoining property on the southwest corner of Eighth Avenue, forming part of Reisenweber's Hotel, and will be improved in connection with the alterations at 304 West Fifty-eighth Street.

$400,000 Madison Avenue Lease.

The Exchange Buffet Corporation has leased for a term of nineteen years the store and basement in the twelve-story building being erected by the Brunswick Realty Company, Robert P. Zobel, president, on the Gerry leasehold property at the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street. The lease dates from February, 1917, when the structure is expected to be completed, and the aggregate rental for the term is about $400,000. The space taken includes 15,000 square feet, held at $22,000 a year. The lease completes the rental of the entire building. Manning & Trunk were the brokers.

Tenement Sales.

Ennis & Sinnott, operators, have purchased from Catherine and Mary Gathin of Montreal, Canada, 976 First Avenue, a five-story tenement on a lot 25 by 95. J. S. Murray negotiated the sale.

Irving Green bought from Lillian Levy, 144 Monroe Street, a six-story tenement, lot 23.6 by 100, adjoining the southwest corner of Jefferson Street.

A Recent Buyer.

Robert J. Caldwell, president of the R. J. Caldwell Company, Inc., is the buyer of the five-story American basement dwelling 85 Riverside Drive, sold Wednesday by Timothy J. Martin.

$700,000 Building for Ford Company.

Plans were filed yesterday by the Ford Motor Company for its new sixteen-story building on the northeast corner of Broadway and Fifty-fourth Street, 125.5 by 86.7. The upper thirteen floors have been leased on a long term lease by the Hotel Woodward, on the Broadway and Fifty-fifth Street corner as an addition, and part of the lower floors will also be used by the hotel. The greater part of the first three floors will be used by the Ford Company as offices and showrooms.

Albert Kahn and Ernest Wilby of Detroit are the architects, and have estimated the cost at $700,000.

Brooklyn.

Frank H. Tyler has sold twenty-seven lots on the north side of Seventy-third Street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth Avenues, to the Sylvan Holding Company. They will be improved with two-story, one-family houses.

The three-story brick building on the northeast corner of Third Avenue and Fifty-second Street has been sold by the Bulkley & Horton Company for William Wharton to an investor.

Frank A. Seaver & Co. have sold the two-family house at 1,719 Seventy-fourth Street for Mary Benjamin.

Maspeth, L. I., Lots Bring $27,830.

A total of $27,830 was realized at the auction sale conducted Thursday by the Jere Johnson, Jr., Company, involving seventy-two lots formerly known as Union Park and located on Metropolitan Avenue, Helen (Andrews), Zeidler and Caspian (Atlantic) Streets in Maspeth, L. I. Lots on Metropolitan Avenue brought from $630 to $750 each, while the corner of Metropolitan Avenue and Helen Street went for $2,050. Lots on Helen Street sold for from $290 to $490, and on Caspian and Zeidler Streets from $205 to $355.

$25,000 Kensington Sale.

Isabelle Coe McKee has purchased at Kensington, Great Neck, L. I., from F. S. Jordan the latter's residence on Beverly Road, 100 feet front by 200 deep. The residence is a new one of twelve rooms. The property was held at $25,000. The firm of Baker Crowell acted as broker.

Long Island.

Cocks & Willets have sold to Arthur V. Davis, President of the Aluminum Company of America, fifteen acres of the Harvey Murdock property at Mill Neck. It adjoins his recently acquired tract of forty acres.

John A. Eckert has taken title to the de Selding property of thirty acres at Oyster Bay. It is on the West Shore Drive with a frontage on Oyster Bay Harbor and Mill Neck Creek, with a right of way over the Canoe Hollow Road at Mill Neck.

H. D. Owens has sold to E. A. Sweet a plot 40 by 152 on the south side of Albany Avenue, near Kissena Parkway, Flushing.

Staten Island Buyer.

Moffatt & Schwab have sold for William Allen Fair his residence at 26 Nassau Street, Hamilton Park, to C. F. Turner of New Brighton.

Commercial Leases.

Charles F. Noyes Company has leased the store 527 Water Street for Lawrence F. Witzel to the Atlantic Fruit Company, and a store in the Masonic Building, Sixth Avenue and Twenty-third Street, to the Auto Trucking Company.

William F. Fuerst, Inc., has leased for Paul M. Warburg in conjunction with Pease & Elliman, the private garage at 178 East Seventy-fifth Street to Alfred Nathan.

Private House Leases.

The four-story dwelling at 320 West Ninety-first Street has been leased by Pease & Elliman for Mrs. Mary H. Smith to Joseph R. Grismer.

Porter & Co. have rented for the John B. Haskin Estate to Emil Caspar the three-story dwelling at 75 West 126th Street.

Moore, Schutte & Co. have leased the dwelling 510 West 149th Street for Mrs. T. J. Briggs to Selina Johnston.

Shaw & Co. have leased for the estate of Charles A. Acton the three-story dwelling at 59 East 121st Street to John Nelson.

William F. Fuerst, Inc., has leased for A. M. Heinsheimer the dwelling at 17 West Seventieth Street.

Manhattan Beach Sale Today.

The Manhattan Beach auction sale of 642 lots will be held on the property today by Joseph P. Day. The selling will be conducted in a large tent at Ocean Avenue and Oriental Boulevard. Among the lots are fifty-three corner plots.

The lots to be sold comprise the remainder of a large improved tract where 122 residences, cottages, and bungalows have been erected. All the lots are ready for building, and are in a section where approximately $2,500,000 has been expended in construction and other physical improvements.

Realty Notes.

Today the Jere Johnson, Jr., Company will sell at auction, by order of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, fifty-five lots in Canarsie, Thirty-second Ward, Borough of Brooklyn, at 2 P. M., on the premises, at the corner of East Ninety-third Street and Denton Avenue, Canarsie Landing.

Thomas J. O'Reilly has been appointed agent in charge of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank Building, 51 Chambers Street, and all the other real estate holdings of the institution.

The Real Estate Owners' Protective Association will meet Monday night at the Hotel Majestic. John P. O'Brien, Assistant Corporation Counsel, will speak on the new zoning law.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The upper lake disturbance of Thursday night has reached the Lower St. Lawrence Valley with increased intensity, attended by general rains from the Upper Mississippi Valley eastward, and also strong winds on the east upper lakes, the lower lakes, and on the New England and Middle Atlantic Coasts. Elsewhere the weather was fair, except in the Southwest, where local rains continued.

As a rule temperature changes were not of consequence, although it is generally warmer in the South and the Northwest and cooler from Texas northeastward. Another disturbance is moving eastward over the Canadian Northwest.

Fair weather will prevail Saturday and Sunday east of the Mississippi River, except in the north upper lake regions, where rains are probable by Sunday.

It will be somewhat cooler Saturday in New England and the Middle Atlantic States and warmer Sunday in the Ohio Valley and the lake region.

Southwest storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic Coast from Hatteras to Eastport.

Winds for Saturday and Sunday along the North Atlantic Coast will be southwest to west gales Saturday, with rain, winds diminishing by Sunday; Middle Atlantic Coast, strong west winds Saturday, diminishing at night, clearing weather; South Atlantic Coast, moderate variable, except northeast and east off the Florida coast.

FORECASTS: TODAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York, Southern New England, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania.—Fair, slightly cooler Saturday. Sunday, fair, moderate temperature.

Western New York: Fair Saturday, cooler in east. Sunday, fair, warmer in west.

Northern New England: Partly cloudy Saturday, rain in Maine, cooler in Vermont. Sunday, fair.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1915.	1916.		1915.	1916.

EDUCATION NOTES.

In July last the Board of Education appointed Lilla T. Frick of Minneapolis to fill a vacancy in the position of Director of Cooking. The Board of Examiners, however, found that she is not eligible, and the office will have to be filled by some one else.

It has been decided to acquire the following sites: East 109th Street, between Second and Third Avenues, adjoining Public School 83, Manhattan; Belmont and Crotona Avenues, East 180th Street and East 181st Street, the Bronx; North Fourth and North Fifth Streets, Driggs Avenue and Roebling Street, Brooklyn, for new Public School 20, and Henry, Harrison, and Baltic Streets, Brooklyn, for new Public School 29.

Public School 6, Astoria, is not to be made a duplicate plan school at present. The alterations necessary would interfere with the school sessions.

David Goldwasser, a brother of District Superintendent Goldwasser, was quarantined by the Health Department because there was a case of infantile paralysis in the apartment house in which he lives. He has been assigned to library work by President Willcox of the Board of Education until his quarantine term has expired.

The leave of absence without pay granted to Mary W. McWilliams, an Attendance Officer for restoration of health, has been extended for six months.

The sum of $20,000 has been appropriated for the purchase of property at Blake Avenue and Barrett Street, adjoining Public School 156, Brooklyn.

A communication has been received from the State Commissioner of Education dismissing the appeal of Mary Roberts from the denial of her application for a permanent license to teach in the high schools.

Registration for the Winter term at Hunter College closed this week. Although only one point of conditioned work is permitted, 333 students were admitted to the freshman class. Sixty-six chose to specialize in natural science, 62 in mathematics, 59 in history, 48 in French, 47 in German, 45 in classics, and 10 in physical science, which is organized this year for the first time as a separate group. Seventy-five students came from Thomas Hunter High School, 52 from Wadleigh, 27 from Morris, 26 from Washington Irving, 18 from Girls', 12 from Eastern District, 8 from Erasmus Hall, 6 each from Evander Childs and Manual Training, 5 each from Curtis and Newtown, 4 each from Bushwick and Richmond Hill, 3 each from Bryant and Far Rockaway, 2 each from Bay Ridge, Flushing, and Julia Richman, and 1 from Jamaica; 2 came from the Ethical Culture School, 1 from the Horace Mann, and 1 from the Staten Island Academy; 27 came from parochial schools, 7 from the Cathedral School, 4 each from the Dominican Academy and Ursuline, 3 each from Holy Cross and St. Gabriel's, 2 from St. Lawrence, 1 each from All Saints', St. Augustine, St. Frances, St. James, and St. Walburga's.

Louisa Viggiani, who entered Hunter College in February, was yesterday given the prize of $250 awarded annually by the New York Latin Club to the student who earns the highest average in the three Regents' examinations covering four years' work in Latin. Philippa Steinberg, who was prepared at the Eastern District High School and who entered Hunter College at the same time as Miss Viggiani, received the prize of $100 awarded annually by the New York Latin Club to the best student of Greek, the conditions of competition being the same as for the Latin prize of $250.

The Young Women's Christian Association of Hunter College has resumed its weekly meetings. The Mathematics Club yesterday entertained the freshmen of the department.

ROFRANO'S LAWYER CRITICISES COURT

Littleton Accuses Justice Weeks of "Coddling" Convict Witness.

LA SALLE STICKS TO STORY

Charges Previous Attempt on Giamari's Life with a Poisoned Knife.

Criticism of Supreme Court Justice Bartow Weeks for his conduct of the trial of Michael A. Rofrano, the ex-Deputy Street Cleaning Commissioner, accused of participation in the murder of Michael Giamari, on March 8, 1915, and the charge, openly made in court, that evidence had been manufactured to send Rofrano to the electric chair, were the features of yesterday's proceedings in the case in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court.

Martin W. Littleton, chief counsel for Rofrano, openly criticised Justice Weeks, and also charged that testimony had been fabricated in the interests of the prosecution. Both grew out of the cross-examination of Joseph La Salle, convicted slayer of James Minott, who had been brought from prison to say that Rofrano had inspired the "murder conferences" that led to the killing of Giamari, one of his political foes in the Second Assembly District. La Salle, who had been on the stand the better part of three days, testified yesterday that two attempts had been made on Giamari's life, and that a knife used in the first attack had been soaked for hours in garlic in the hope of poisoning him.

Justice Weeks incurred the displeasure of the lawyer when, during a particularly vigorous cross-examination of the swarthy witness, he questioned Mr. Littleton's accuracy in quoting from the court stenographer's transcript of Thursday's proceedings. La Salle had been testifying at that point in the stenographer's record, about having seen the revolver with which Gaetano Montimagno, another gunman, acting, it is charged, for Rofrano, later killed Giamari. The witness had referred to this weapon as a "long, black" revolver, but the stenographer, through an error in typing, made it read "long, flat" revolver.

The mistake, apparently a trivial one, became important because in a previous trial La Salle, testifying about the same murder, had referred to two revolvers, one of them a "black" one, and the other a "flat" one. Although Justice Weeks called his attention to the error, Mr. Littleton insisted on the accuracy of the stenographer's record in order to develop a discrepancy in La Salle's testimony.

"I insist that your Honor's memory is no better than mine," Mr. Littleton said warmly, when Justice Weeks asserted he was convinced by his recollection of the testimony that La Salle had said "black" revolver. "And I challenge the right of this court to change the record because your Honor's memory does not bear out the stenographer's transcript."

Judge Weeks replied that he would rule according to his recollection.

"I do order the record changed," he said, "and I further direct the stenographer not to furnish counsel with a transcript of these proceedings hereafter until the transcript has been carefully checked up. If counsel for the defense intends to take advantage of errors due to haste in transmitting the stenographer's notes, care will have to be taken that the record is withheld until verified."

Mr. Littleton continued to protest the ruling, asserting that court records were as open to him as to the Justice until the stenographer discovered by looking back over his notes that an error had been made, and that instead of writing "flat" he should have written "black." The lawyer then admitted he had been in error, but he asserted he had no apology to make for being vigilant in behalf of his client. He had previously protested several of Justice Weeks's rulings, and he took frequent exceptions while he was attempting to develop the charge that La Salle had manufactured the evidence against Rofrano after the latter had been arrested.

When the convict, replying to this charge, asserted that he had told the District Attorney and the Grand Jury what he knew about Rofrano long before the latter was brought to trial, Mr. Littleton remained unconvinced, and he asked that the District Attorney produce these records in court.

"I protest that this witness ought not to be coddled in this court," remonstrated Mr. Littleton when asked by Justice Weeks to revise a question so as not to confuse the witness. "I am not trying to be unfair in this case."

"The witness is not being coddled," replied Justice Weeks sharply. "But he is entitled to have questions clearly stated so that they may not be misleading."

Testimony given by La Salle yesterday, under cross-examination, was intended to be even more sensational than that furnished by him in the first two days of the trial. Although subjected to an ordeal at the hands of Mr. Littleton, La Salle insisted on the accuracy of his earlier testimony, which was that Rofrano had in his employ, while Deputy Street Cleaning Commissioner, a band of gunmen who assisted him in building up a rival political organization to Tom Foley in the Second Assembly District, and who were in his employ as professional murderers.

He said Rofrano had paid $300 for the first attempt to kill Giamari. In this attempt, which was made at the home of Rocco Carnevale in New Utrecht Avenue, Brooklyn, Giamari was stabbed in the back, but recovered.

"I saw the knife sticking in Giamari's back when I went to the house about fifteen minutes after the stabbing," La Salle said calmly. "They had soaked the knife in garlic, but it didn't kill the 'Horse.'"

Giamari was known as "the Horse."

The trial was adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday morning with La Salle still on the stand.

"We will prove that this witness has been lying about every incident about which he has testified," said Mr. Littleton.

"Yes," broke in Rofrano, who stood near his lawyer, "and we will develop some surprising things as to the motive. Just be patient awhile. The sensations are still to come."

NEW HAVEN MOTION OCT. 20.

B. & M. Stockholders Who Accused Trustees Not Sustained.

Argument on the application for a delay of two years before the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company's holdings of the Boston & Maine Railroad Company shall be sold will be heard by Judge Mayer of the Federal District Court on Oct. 20. The dissolution decree in the Government's suit against the New Haven company set January next as the time when these holdings should be disposed of, but Trustees Marcus P. Knowlton, James L. Doherty, Henry V. Day, Charles P. Hall, and Frank P. Carpenter said in their petition for a delay that they found it impossible to sell the shares now at any price which in their judgment should be accepted.

The New Haven company joined in the petition by saying that a forced sale would mean a big loss to the New Haven company, and would delay the time when the payment of dividends could be resumed.

Several stockholders of the Boston & Maine Railroad opposed the extension of time asked for and said the Trustees were under the control of the New Haven interests. Two of these stockholders were Asa P. French and Conrad W. Crooker. To them, Attorney General Gregory sent word that in his opinion the Trustees were acting independently and that he was in favor of granting them the extension.

$43,500 FOR INCOMPETENT.

Yearly Expenses of Fish's Nephew Higher, Due to War.

The higher cost of living in England on account of the war was emphasized in the Supreme Court yesterday when the guardian of Hugh Francis Stafford Northcote, who is incompetent, and is a nephew of Stuyvesant and Hamilton Fish, filed an application for an increase in the allowance of $35,000 a year for the incompetent from property left by his mother in this State. The guardian, Bernard Francis Rollo, a London banker, in asking for $43,500, said that the cost of maintaining Northcote in his house at New Forest, County of Hants, had increased thousands of dollars, and that it was commonly understood that because of the extraordinary expenses of the war the rate of income tax and supertax would be increased greatly.

The guardian stated that he purchased Fritham House for $14,000 for the use of the incompetent, and that the cost of improving the property was $31,540. The surplus income held in England for Northcote amounted to $65,342, but the greater part of it has been used for his benefit.

Old Clothes Campaign Closes.

The campaign for old clothes in connection with Fire Prevention Day in Brooklyn will close on Monday. The Federation Industrial Department states, however, that the fact that the campaign will no longer continue, does not indicate that the Department of the Brooklyn Federation of Jewish Charities no longer desires contributions of old clothing. During the Winter months there is generally a great demand upon the charities for clothing, furnishings, etc. Many people suffering with chronic diseases must be sent to sanatoria and convalescent homes. These patients must be properly clothed.

RYZON
THE PERFECT BAKING POWDER
GENERAL CHEMICAL CO.

4 level teaspoonfuls RYZON; 2 cups (½ lb.) flour; ½ teaspoonful salt; 2 eggs; 1½ cups (¾ pint) milk; 4 tablespoonfuls melted butter; maple syrup.

Mix flour with RYZON and salt, and sift them into a bowl. Beat yolks of eggs, add butter and milk. Add this mixture gradually to dry ingredients, beating thoroughly. When well mixed, fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour from a pitcher into the center of a hot, well-greased waffle iron. Other fat may be used in place of butter, but the waffles will not brown as well.

A new novel by the author of

"THE BLINDNESS OF VIRTUE"

THE SINS of the CHILDREN

A vital story of American family life

By COSMO HAMILTON

A novel of life and temptation as it is met today.

Mr. Hamilton has handled a difficult theme fearlessly, but delicately, and a more charming love story than that of big, honest Peter Guthrie and Betty Townsend has not been told in a long time. While its candor will be condemned by a few, people conversant with modern thought and literature will praise it without reservation, and it will cause many to ask themselves "Have I done my duty by my children?"

To Our Dairymen Patrons

Referring to our announcement posted at the plants of our Farm Products Division on the 12th instant, we have been asked by some of our patrons to clarify our position in respect to two points:

1. We have been asked why we are unwilling to deal with the Dairymen's League.

2. Will the dairies in any district be discriminated against in the manufacture of the surplus milk into butter or cheese?

We answer the first question as follows:

We have not, and will not, oppose the organization of milk producers to protect their interests and promote their welfare in any lawful manner they may devise, and acting through any responsible representatives they may lawfully select. We have had no opportunity to meet any such condition. We have been advised that the League in cornering a food product has raised a question as to whether it has any legal right to exist, and that question is now the subject of a court inquiry. If the League is a lawful corporation there is no legal reason why we should not deal with it. Aside from that question, however, we have been influenced in our attitude by the fact that the representatives chosen by the League have not acted in harmony, and the authority of one faction to bind the League is denied by the other faction. Furthermore, the acts of violence and the intimidation of farmers, local tradesmen and others as practiced by some of the agents of the League, are methods which are not sanctioned in business relations, nor are they supported by public sentiment. We would welcome an opportunity of doing business with a farmers' organization acting within the law and represented by fair minded men, who are willing to take into account selling conditions so that the whole industry may be placed on a sound and lasting basis. With such an organization we would be glad to try the plan of having the monthly price to be paid for milk in the various localities or counties to be determined by committees representing the farmers in the different localities acting with representatives of our plants in those localities. If the Dairymen's League is willing to abandon so much of its present methods as are not in accord with the law, public sentiment and reasonable business practices, we see no reason why it could not be the instrumentality through which the dairymen might work with us in bringing about the plan we have briefly touched upon, and we believe to the mutual satisfaction of all. And could be put into operation in time to consider the prices for January and subsequent months, and as a substitute for the arbitration plan proposed for those months.

In expressing the foregoing views we have no intention of dictating to the producer how he shall organize, the methods he adopts, or who will represent him. On the other hand we expect him to recognize our right to decline to sanction unlawful methods or to deal with individuals whose attitude offers no hope for continuing satisfactory relations.

Our answer to the second inquiry is as follows:

In paying for surplus milk on the basis already announced, it is our intention to discriminate against no one and against no district, but to pro rate the "surplus milk" prices over the whole supply purchased for the Farm Products Division.

BORDEN'S FARM PRODUCTS DIVISION.
